MD. SENATE PASSES OWN TAX BILL

"Secret" Data On U. S. Policy Causes Furor

Dean Acheson May Be "Put On Spot" Today

WASHINGTON, March 20 (AP) — Undersecretary of State Dean Acheson predicted today that the Truman program to bolster Greece and Turkey will not lead to war with Russia, and he laid before congressmen "secret" documents which promptly churned up a furor.

They were distributed to members of the House Foreign Affairs Committee in the form of large loose-leaf notebooks for background on United States policies in the Mediterranean, and the congressmen protested the department's "secret" labels.

Chairman Eaton (R-NJ) announced he will demand that the "secret" information be made public. Others joined in the demand, including Reps. Vorys (R-Ohio), Mundt (R-SD), Chiperfield (R-Ill.) and Jonkman (R-Mich.) Meanwhile Chiperfield returned his notebook, declining to read it.

"There is only one way to handle this and that is to make all the facts public," Eaton told newsmen. "I certainly intend to make it clear tomorrow that the document must be made available to the American people."

Faces More Questions

Acheson will return for more questions tomorrow and the committee members will have a chance then to thrash out the "secret" restriction with him.

In his testimony today, Acheson called for quick action to aid Greece and Turkey. He said that otherwise there may be a "chain reaction," unfavorable to the United States, among other nations struggling against Communist domination.

Under a barrage of questions, he told the House Foreign Affairs Committee that this country could not risk waiting for action by the United Nations — that Greece, wearily battling a Communist-led insurrection, has funds enough for only 14 days more of vital imports.

His testimony marked the preliminary round of a searching congressional examination of President Truman's request for $400,000,000 in money and material and "limited" military missions to the two Mediterranean countries.

With diplomatic caution, Acheson guardedly refrained from a direct reference to Russia. But there was no mistaking the implications when Rep. Mansfield (D-Mont.) asked his opinion on whether the administration's program would lead to war.

Hush Spreads Over Room

A hush spread over the big, crowded committee room.

Acheson hesitated for a moment, rubbed his chin in thought.

Then, he solemnly declared:

"I was going to say—no possibility it would lead to war."

He paused again, and went on.

"I don't think it could lead to war."

His words were crisp, but calm.

"By strengthening the forces of democracy and freedom, you do a great deal to eliminate the friction between big powers."

Before this, Rep. Merrow (R-NH) asked whether United States security would be imperiled if Greece and Turkey collapsed, fell under Communist control, and Russia became a Mediterranean nation.

Acheson sidestepped. He said he would prefer not to answer questions containing a direct reference to another power on the ground it "undoubtedly would be a source of embarrassment." If pressed, he said, he would answer in a private session.

12 Injured When Bus Strikes Loaded Truck

SUFFOLK, Va., March 20, (AP) — Twelve persons were injured when a Greyhound bus careened into a loaded corn meal truck on Highway 58, several miles southwest of Suffolk today.

The injured were brought to Lakeview Hospital here in private automobiles and four persons were admitted as patients. Others were treated and released.

France, Britain Split Over Reich Coal Resources

Bidault's Stand Is Virtual Ultimatum

MOSCOW, March 20 (AP)—France and Great Britain split tonight on the future disposition of Germany's coal resources in the first serious disagreement among the western powers at the Council of Foreign Ministers.

Foreign Minister George Bidault notified the council that France could not consent to economic reconstitution of Germany unless the other powers agreed to her demands for guarantees of German coal.

British Foreign Secretary Ernest Bevin replied curtly that he could not accept a proposal where one power blocked all negotiations until it gets its way on one point.

Meanwhile, Secretary of State George C. Marshall served notice that he would request that the four-power council summon the Austrian government to Moscow for consultation on the peace treaty for Austria.

The council will drop the German discussion for one day to hear a progress report from its deputies tomorrow on Austria after which Marshall will make his motion.

The adamant French stand, confronting the council with a virtual take-it-or-leave-it ultimatum, created what appaears to be the worst split yet developed here among the western powers unless Britain and France can find a way to negotiate a compromise.

The situation found the Russians backing the French coal demands.

In the shortest session to date—it was barely three hours long — the ministers were given the French position which was confined to the coal issue.

Bidault, answering Bevins rejection last night of his request for coal guarantees, said today:

"I am directed by my government to state that we cannot be parties to an agreement on other problems raised — economic unity, level of industry, reparations—without previous settlement of the scheme for export of coal in a sense which is in conformity with our request.

"No different attitude could be adopted by any French government."

Bevin immediately replied that he could not accept the proposition that one condition must be accepted before discussion on others.

He said he was studying Bidault's proposal and that he hoped other ministers would study that of Britain.

Bidault said that what France wants is a "flexible formula" for coal exports which would be "adaptable to the rate of production, and which would take into account the requirements of the German economy."

He urged Bevin to reconsider British objections to instituting the formula now and also writing it into the German peace treaty.

Bevin had said priority must be given to making Germany self supporting so that she would not be a burden on occupying powers.

Knutson's Tax Bill Is Revised By House GOP

Gives Greater Relief To "Little Fellows"

WASHINGTON, March 20 (AP) — A 30 per cent tax cut for some 20,000,000 "little fellows" and a 20 per cent slash for virtually all other income taxpayers was approved today by the House Republican high command.

The reductions would be retroactive to last January—if House and Senate approve. But Sen. Taft (R-Ohio) and others propose making any tax cuts effective July 1.

The House Republican Steering Committee and GOP members of the tax-framing Ways and Means Committee, meeting in the office of Speaker Martin (R-Mass), revised the Knutson bill for a 20 per cent cut across the board in an effort to hush the cries of some critics that it was "a rich man's bill."

Kean Proposed Revision

The revision, proposed by Rep. Kean (R-NJ) and approved by the GOP leaders would give the small income group $386,000,000 extra relief, bringing the overall tax cut this year to $3,840,000,000.

The full Ways and Means Committee—15 Republicans and 10 Democrats—will consider the bill tomorrow. It will be taken up for debate in the House next Wednesday, with a vote due Thursday.

Here is how the revised bill would work:

1. A 30 per cent cut for persons with taxable income (gross income minus personal exemptions and deductions) of $1,000 or less. Kean said this would mean a 30 per cent reduction for a single person earning up to $1,650; married man with gross income up to $2,200; married couple with one child to $2,750; and married couple with two children, $3,300.

2. A 20 per cent cut for persons with taxable income above $1,395. But on income beyond $302,000, the cut would be only 10.5 per cent.

Flat Cut In Some Cases

3. A provision by which each taxpayer with taxable income between $1,000 and $1,395 would get a flat $57 cut. This is the equivalent of a 30 per cent cut for the man with $1,000 taxable income. This was done to prevent inequity for persons with taxable income slightly above $1,000.

4. Persons over 65 years of age will get an extra $500 personal exemption, bringing the exemption to $1,000. But they would have to choose between taking this exemption, or using exemptions granted now on annuities, such as those paid under the Railroad Retirement Act, Social Security and those received by retired Army officers on disability. The elderly people could not take both types of exemptions.

Greek Communist Leader Is Slain

SALONIKA, Greece, March 20. (AP) Three slugs from an assassin's gun cut down John Zevgos, 40, former Communist Minister of Agriculture, as he stood on a busy corner in Salonika today, and police said a man who claimed to be a member of the Communist Party's "execution squad" had confessed the slaying.

Observers saw in the killing another indication of a rift in Communist ranks. They recalled that the recent arrests of more than 500 suspected Communists in Athens were made on the basis of information supplied by Communists to the Minister of Public Order, Napoleon Zervas.

Zevgos, a member of the central committee of the EAM, leftist political coalition, was struck by three bullets. One penetrated his heart.

Police quoted Christos Vlachos, 30-year-old butcher from Serres, as saying he killed Zevgos "for what I suffered in the mountains." They said he claimed to have been imprisoned at Bulkjes in Yugoslavia for six months "because I would not accept the Communist line against Greece."

Bulkjes, near Belgrade, has been used as a training center for Greek guerrillas, the Greek government has charged.

Prosecutor Says Durant Knows Where Gems Are

WASHINGTON, March 20, (AP)—Maj. Joseph Robinson, chief prosecutor, dramatically charged today that Col. Jack W. Durant knows where the missing bulk of the Hesse crown jewels are hidden and hopes "some day to benefit from the ill-gotten loot."

Robinson said the portion of the Hesse gem fortune recovered so far by Army investigators is worth $1,000,000. But this, he said, is "a mere pittance" compared with the whole.

Top estimates have valued the entire fortune at $7,000,000.

Churchman Dies

SUMMERVILLE, S. C., March 20, (AP) — Right Rev. James De Wolf Perry, Providence, R. I., former presiding bishop of the Episcopal Church in America, died of a sudden heart attack here today as he and Mrs. Perry were on their way to a church service. He was 75 years old.

Key Figures In Munitions Combine Case Are Named In New Indictments

WASHINGTON March 20 (AP)—A special grand jury returned new indictments today against Henry M. Garrson and Joseph F. Freeman, key figures in the $73,000,000 munitions combine case, charging them with perjury on two counts each.

They had previously been indicted along with former Rep. Andrew J. May (D-Ky), and Murray Garsson, brother of Henry, on a charge of conspiracy to defraud the United States in connection with war contracts.

Henry Garsson issued a statement denying the perjury charges and declaring he is being "persecuted."

Today's indictment charges Freeman perjured himself by telling the regular grand jury—which returned the fraud indictments—that he understood that Edward D. Feldman, of Los Angeles, had sent $1,000 to May and that he only learned about it later during an FBI investigation.

"In truth and in fact," the indictment said, Feldman gave Freeman a $1,000 check October 6, 1944, and Freeman had the check delivered to May. The check was made payable to R. V. May, a son of the former congressman. Feldman was identified as an officer of the Atlas Carbon and Clay Corporation.

The indictment said Henry Garsson, former president of Batavia Metal Products, Inc., and vice president of Erie Basin Metal products, Inc., committed perjury by telling the grand jury he had not seen certain invoices from the Cumberland Lumber Company to the Erie concern until late in 1945.

In fact, he had seen them about a year earlier, the indictment said.

Britain Demands That U.N. Council Convict Albania

Cadogan Rejects Polish Suggestion

LAKE SUCCESS, N. Y., March 20 (AP) — Sir Alexander Cadogan, of Great Britain, called upon the United Nations Security Council tonight to convict Albania of responsibility for laying a minefield in Corfu Channel which damaged two British destroyers and killed 44 sailors last October 22.

Climaxing a wordy tussle with Dr. Oscar Lange, of Poland, who suggested that Albania and Great Britain try to settle the dispute between themselves, Cadogan said:

"I have substantiated the charge."

Polish Idea Rejected

He turned down the Polish idea, reminding the delegates that his government had attempted once before to settle the dispute before bringing it to the council.

He said the "hatred of the Albanian government for Great Britain" provided "motive enough" in the case.

Cadogan submitted a formal resolution but the council adjourned until tomorrow without acting on it.

Cadogan's resolution proposed that the Security Council "finds that an unnotified minefield was laid in the Corfu Strait by the Albanian government or with its connivance, resulting in serious injury to His Majesty's ships and loss of life and injury to their crews."

Alternative Suggested

It recommended that the British and Albanian governments settle the dispute on the basis of the con-

"Miss Slick Chick Of 1947" Is Barred Plymouth Rock Hen

HOLLYWOOD, March 20, (AP)—Marie Antoinette II, a barred Plymouth Rock from Sheridan, Wyo., was named the nation's most beautiful hen today, in a ceremony conducted with much fanfare and, as might be suspected, a movie tieup.

The contest, to select "Miss Slick Chick of 1947," was arranged by the Poultry and Egg National Board, Chicago, with assistance from Universal-International Studio, which has made a picture about an egg.

Marie Antoinette is owned by Roger Jensen, an 11-year-old 4-H clubber who lives on a 120-acre farm and takes care of pretty Marie and 37 of her sisters.

Rubber Worker Officials Call Saturday Meeting

AKRON, O., March 20 (AP)—Top officials of the CIO-United Rubber Workers tonight scheduled a meeting for Saturday in what they called a final effort to avert a strike against the "Big Four" rubber companies. The union has set a strike deadline for Sunday midnight.

Declining to disclose the agenda for the session, URW International President L. S. Buckmaster only said the International Executive Board and the International Policy Committee would convene at Cleveland.

Meanwhile Federal Labor Conciliator Paul W. Fuller reported that it was "possible" that opposing sides may resume negotiations.

Schwellenbach Raises Question Of Portal Veto

Secretary Opposes Bill Banning Claims

WASHINGTON, March 20. (AP)—Secretary of Labor Schwellenbach came out today against measures to outlaw portal pay claims. His stand appeared to raise a question whether the pending bill would meet with a veto by President Truman.

Attorney General Clark meanwhile petitioned the Supreme Court for a speedy review of the latest decision in the Mt. Clemens (Mich.) Pottery Company case, forerunner of hundreds of suits aggregating more than $4,000,000,000.

Truman's Position Unknown

He said a final ruling "will serve to facilitate the disposition of this multitude of cases which now threatens to embarrass judicial administration in both federal and state courts and to disrupt industrial relations in the period of reconversion."

Mr. Truman himself has not stated his position on the portal pay question. His labor secretary's statement was issued by the Labor Department during Schwellenbach's absence on the west coast and read to the Senate as it resumed debate on a bill to outlaw past and future claims.

The House already has passed a similar measure.

Schwellenbach declared the legislation would "cripple" the Wage-Hour Act and undermine its enforcement. He also held that "the millions of workers who are unorganized and without the benefit of union protection would be deprived in the future of many of the protective provisions of the present Fair Labor Standards (Wage-Hour) Act."

Substitute Offered

Sen. McCarran (D-Nev) read Schwellenbach's statement to the Senate in arguing for a substitute which he and Sen. McGrath (D-RI) have offered. The substitute, instead of outlawing both past and future portal claims, would outlaw only past claims and leave future claims to collective bargaining.

McCarran declared that this "would not emasculate or repeal the Wage-Hour Act, nor deprive any employe of his just and equal rights under the act."

Army Air Forces B-29 Flies Over North Pole

WASHINGTON, March 20 (AP)—An Army Air Forces B-29 flew over the North Pole this week, inaugurating what is expected to be routine weather reports from the top of the world, AAF officials disclosed today.

The B-29, converted from a bomber into a weather observation plane, was commanded by Brig. Gen. Donald M. Yates, weather expert for the AAF who arrived in Washington today to report to headquarters.

No effort was made to keep the flight over the polar cap secret, the report from the "position North Pole" in uncoded message available to all other nations listening in.

Substitute For Lane's Sales Levy Cuts Tax-Exempt Income; Early House Action Predicted

Senate Tax Legislation At A Glance

ANNAPOLIS, Md., March 20. (AP)—The Senate majority tax proposal which was offered as a substitute to Gov. Lane's sales tax program would:

Lower tax exempt income from $1,000 to $500 for single persons and from $2,000 to $1,000 for married persons, and raise the credit for dependents from $400 to $500 (making levels same as federal.)

Raise liquor tax from $1.25 to $1.75 a gallon.

Raise beer tax from three cents a gallon to 14 (slightly more than one cent on a 12-ounce bottle.)

Impose a one-cent tax on soft drinks (including fountain beverages except those with a milk base) for each drink costing 6 cents or less, and 75 cents a gallon for syrups used in making soft drinks.

Tax cigarets at one tenth of a cent each—two cents on a package of 20.

Tax cigars, smoking and chewing tobacco at one cent for each 10 cents of sales price. A package of tobacco costing 15 cents would have a two-cent tax.

Estimated revenue from all $20,700,000 a year.

Imposes Soft Drink And Tobacco Taxes

ANNAPOLIS, Md., March 20 (AP)—The State Senate's substitute for Gov. Lane's sales tax was rushed through the Senate by a 23-2 vote today and sent to the House, where action was predicted within 24 hours.

The substitute drafted by Senate President Byrnes and 16 other Democrats in the session was brought out on the floor after it had been threshed out in a joint meeting of the Judiciary and Finance Committees. It was introduced only last night.

Speaker Sybert and Majority Leader Pumphrey (D-Prince George's), of the House, had previously announced they expected to take action on the tax bill tomorrow afternoon. Pumphrey called a meeting of his Finance Committee for 10:30 o'clock in the morning.

The substitute program, which would revise exemptions on the state income tax, increase beer, wine and liquor taxes, and impose soft drink, cigaret and tobacco taxes, was estimated by its supporters to bring in $20,700,000 a year.

Gov. Lane, who last month said $25,000,000 additional revenue was needed stood by his guns on a two per cent sales tax in the face of the majority revolt in the Senate.

Lane Has No New Comment

He said he had no comment to add to his statement of yesterday when he declared that the $19,400,000-a-year sales tax was necessary if the state's fiscal program is to be carfried out.

The House among other things passed and returned to the Senate a bill to allow women to serve on juries in Baltimore City and 11 counties. The Senate originally passed the measure with 10 of the 23 counties exempted.

The delegates adopted a favorable committee report on a measure to revise unemployment compensation law procedure, after striking out a Senate amendment to require Unemployment Compensation Boards to remain in their offices at all times during working hours.

They then marked time until the Senate tax bill got over from the Senate and referred it to the Finance committee.

Both houses stopped work in the afternoon to prepare for Gov. Lane's reception at Government House and the Governor's ball later at Carvel Hall.

After receipt of the tax bill, Pumphrey announced the Finance Committee would meet in the House chamber, so that any interested persons could hear the measure explained.

Seven of the 11 Senate Republicans, who had first rebelled against the sales tax Monday night and offered their own substitute, voted for the Democratic measure.

Sen. Kimble Absent

There were four absentees, among them Minority Leader Kimble (R-Allegany) who was ill. Kimble previously had said the minority would support the new program since it was similar to one advanced by them.

The only dissenting votes on the new tax bill came from Sens. Carter (D-Balto 3rd) and Ellison (R-Balto 4th). Carter said he opposed the combination of taxes put together by the Democrats, and Ellison said he thought the system was out of balance.

Absent and not voting, besides Kimble, were Sens. Bailey (R-St. Mary's), McAllister (R-Dorchester) and Monroe (R-Charles).

Sen. Dulin (D-Anne Arundel), who said he was voting for the new tax plan only because the sales tax could not be passed, called attention to the fact that only two Southern Maryland senators were on hand to vote.

"The Republicans made us take this substitute," he said, "and some of them are not here to take their medicine."

Dulin said he was placing his political future in jeopardy by voting for a tobacco tax. Sen. Goldstein (D-Calvert), a sales tax supporter, said the same thing.

As another aftermath of the long and bitter undercover battle over

New Ga. Governor Flays Talmadge

ATLANTA, Ga., March 20. (AP)—Gov. Melvin E. Thompson castigated his ousted predecessor, Herman Talmadge, today before a silent Georgia Legislature, rebuking him for what Thompson called attempted seizure of the government by force and fraud.

A joint session of the House and Senate cheered Thompson when he declared law and order had returned to Georgia. But it fell silent as he assailed Talmadge-sponsored "white supremacy" legislation, and declared Talmadge and his associates no longer could speak for the Democratic Party.

Thompson, who was proclaimed Georgia's legal Governor yesterday by the State Supreme Court, spoke for 15 minutes. When he concluded, floor leaders of the Talmadge faction grimly promised political war.

Rep. Robert Elliott, of Muscogee (Columbus), declared: "The issue is the same as it was when Eugene Talmadge was elected. It is white supremacy. Thompson is against a white primary. Talmadge is for a white primary. The people will decide."

Rep. W. J. Crowe, of Worth (Sylvester), commented bitterly: "Thompson is saying that all Talmadge people are thieves and rogues. He is trying to read us out of the Democratic Party, but he can't do it."

Thompson endorsed the principal of white supremacy—adopted as part of the Democratic Party platform in Georgia—but said Talmadge's plan to divorce primaries from state control and make them subject to party rules was invitation to fraud and stolen elections.

Cuba Deports Luciano To His Native Italy

HAVANA, Cuba, March 20. (AP)—Charles (Lucky) Luciano, former New York vice overlord, was deported today to his native Italy.

He left aboard the Turkish ship Bakir on a voyage that will require 18 days.

He might have continued to live in Cuba indefinitely without molestation except for the United States Bureau of Narcotics. The bureau notified the Cuban government on February 21 that it would ship no more narcotics to Cuba because Luciano's presence might lead to "diversion of the drugs."

Two May Have Died Before Yacht Blast

SANTA ANA, Calif., March 20 (AP) —Walter Overell and his wife, Beulah, may already have been dead when an explosion shattered their yacht Saturday night in fashionable Newport Bay, Sheriff James Musick said today.

The Overells' 17-year-old blonde co-ed daughter, Beulah Louise, and her fiance, husky George Gollum, 21, were held on bookings of murder in an investigation of the deaths. Formal charges had not been filed against either and both denied any knowledge of the blast or of the presence of 31 sticks of dynamite and a wired clock found aboard after the explosion.

"The evidence tends to indicate that they (her parents) may have been dead at the time the explosion occurred," Musick declared after a conference with the girl.

He added that charges will be filed "if an autopsy shows what we believe it will."

Musick added that a bottle of sleeping pills and a coil of wire "identical with that" attached to the clock was found in the glove compartment of Gollum's car.

Dr. John Montanus, who performed the autopsy, said injuries to both victims seemed chiefly confined to skull wounds, which he described as indentations about an inch in diameter. He said Overell's head showed two over the left temple, one over the right eye and one over the left temple, and Mrs. Overell's one over the left eye and one over the center of her forehead above the hairline.

He added that the hands of both were broken.

Miss Overell, mink-coated journalism freshman at the University of Southern California, was steadfast in her statement that she and Gollum, 21-year-old, 220-pound premedical student at Los Angeles City College, had left her parents aboard when they went ashore to eat shortly after 11 p. m. She said they returned to the landing with hamburgers and milk for the elder couple and learned of the blast.

Musick said after the questioning that no discrepancies had developed in either of their stories, although his deputies were checking on the girl's statement that the Overells had given reluctant approval to the marriage of their only child next month with Gollum.

Congressional Smelt-Eating Title Stowed Away By Ohio's Rep. Brown

WASHINGTON, March 20. (AP)—A new smelt-eating champion was crowned in Congress today.

Rep. Clarence Brown (R-Ohio), in a magnificent stowing away exhibition, outstuffed the former champion, Rep. Jesse P. Wolcott (R-Mich).

Wolcott, who beat Brown in the last contest, in 1939, was a sorry sight today, far off his usual brilliant form. He came in third in the three-man race, with Rep. Sam Rayburn (D-Tex) a steady second.

From the start it was apparent that Brown would be tough to handle. Employing a beautiful boarding house stroke, the 250-pound, six-foot-two Brown swept so far ahead no official count was made.

Brown counted the 20-odd fish skeletons by his plate and said he had eaten 51. Wolcott mumbled something feebly here, but apparently was too weak to challenge Brown's mathematics.

But Brown is no phoney champion. He also polished off a heap of shoestring potatoes, a mess of lima beans, a scoop of ice cream—and wound up by eating another smelt for photographers.

The contest, staged by Rep. Fred Bradley (R-Mich) who comes from a smelt-catching district, was not run off uneventfully.

Brown let out one bellow of foul. This was when he came across an extra large smelt.

"A catfish," Brown cried, "possibly even a carp!"

As Wolcott fell farther and farther behind, he had to put up with considerable heckling from the 50 or so congressmen who attended the party in the House speaker's dining room.

Sen. Homer Ferguson (R-Mich) noticed that Wolcott kept squeezing lemon juice on the smelt.

"Secret" Data On U. S. Policy Causes Furor

Dean Acheson May Be "Put On Spot" Today

WASHINGTON, March 20 (AP) — Undersecretary of State Dean Acheson predicted today that the Truman program to bolster Greece and Turkey will not lead to war with Russia, and he laid before congressmen "secret" documents which promptly churned up a furor.

They were distributed to members of the House Foreign Affairs Committee in the form of large loose-leaf notebooks for background on United States policies in the Mediterranean, and the congressmen protested the department's "secret" labels.

France, Britain Split Over Reich Coal Resources

Bidault's Stand Is Virtual Ultimatum

MOSCOW, March 20 (AP)—France and Great Britain split tonight on the future disposition of Germany's coal resources in the first serious disagreement among the western powers at the Council of Foreign Ministers.

Foreign Minister George Bidault notified the council that France could not consent to economic reconstitution of Germany unless the other powers agreed to her demands for guarantees of German coal.

British Foreign Secretary Ernest Bevin replied curtly that he could not accept a proposal where one power blocked all negotiations until it gets its way on one point.

The adamant French stand, confronting the council with a virtual take-it-or-leave-it ultimatum, created what appaears to be the worst split yet developed here among the western powers unless Britain and France can find a way to negotiate a compromise.

The situation found the Russians backing the French coal demands.

In the shortest session to date—it was barely three hours long—the ministers were given the French position which was confined to the coal issue.

Bidault, answering Bevins rejection last night of his request for coal guarantees, said today:

"I am directed by my government to state that we cannot be parties to an agreement on other problems raised — economic unity, level of industry, reparations—without previous settlement of the scheme for export of coal in a sense which is in conformity with our request.

He said he was studying Bidault's proposal and that he hoped other ministers would study that of Britain.

Bidault said that what France wants is a "flexible formula" for coal exports which would be "adaptable to the rate of production, and which would take into account the requirements of the German economy."

He urged Bevin to reconsider British objections to instituting the formula now and also writing it into the German peace treaty.

Bevin had said priority must be given to making Germany self supporting so that she would not be a burden on occupying powers.

12 Injured When Bus Strikes Loaded Truck

SUFFOLK, Va., March 20, (AP) — Twelve persons were injured when a Greyhound bus careened into a loaded corn meal truck on Highway 58, several miles southwest of Suffolk today.

The injured were brought to Lakeview Hospital here in private automobiles and four persons were admitted as patients. Others were treated and released.

Knutson's Tax Bill Is Revised By House GOP

Gives Greater Relief To "Little Fellows"

WASHINGTON, March 20 (AP) — A 30 per cent tax cut for some 20,000,000 "little fellows" and a 20 per cent slash for virtually all other income taxpayers was approved today by the House Republican high command.

The reductions would be retroactive to last January—if House and Senate approve. But Sen. Taft (R-Ohio) and others propose making any tax cuts effective July 1.

The House Republican Steering Committee and GOP members of the tax-framing Ways and Means Committee, meeting in the office of Speaker Martin (R-Mass), revised the Knutson bill for a 20 per cent cut across the board in an effort to hush the cries of some critics that it was "a rich man's bill."

Kean Proposed Revision

The revision, proposed by Rep. Kean (R-NJ) and approved by the GOP leaders would give the small income group $386,000,000 extra relief, bringing the overall tax cut this year to $3,840,000,000.

The full Ways and Means Committee—15 Republicans and 10 Democrats—will consider the bill tomorrow. It will be taken up for debate in the House next Wednesday, with a vote due Thursday.

Here is how the revised bill would work:

1. A 30 per cent cut for persons with taxable income (gross income minus personal exemptions and deductions) of $1,000 or less. Kean said this would mean a 30 per cent reduction for a single person earning up to $1,650; married man with gross income up to $2,200; married couple with one child to $2,750; and married couple with two children, $3,300.

2. A 20 per cent cut for persons with taxable income above $1,395. But on income beyond $302,000, the cut would be only 10.5 per cent.

Flat Cut In Some Cases

3. A provision by which each taxpayer with taxable income between $1,000 and $1,395 would get a flat $57 cut. This is the equivalent of a 30 per cent cut for the man with $1,000 taxable income. This was done to prevent inequity for persons with taxable income slightly above $1,000.

4. Persons over 65 years of age will get an extra $500 personal exemption, bringing the exemption to $1,000. But they would have to choose between taking this exemption, or using exemptions granted now on annuities, such as those paid under the Railroad Retirement Act, Social Security and those received by retired Army officers on disability. The elderly people could not take both types of exemptions.

Greek Communist Leader Is Slain

SALONIKA, Greece, March 20. (AP) Three slugs from an assassin's gun cut down John Zevgos, 40, former Communist Minister of Agriculture, as he stood on a busy corner in Salonika today, and police said a man who claimed to be a member of the Communist Party's "execution squad" had confessed the slaying.

Observers saw in the killing another indication of a rift in Communist ranks. They recalled that the recent arrests of more than 500 suspected Communists in Athens were made on the basis of information supplied by Communists to the Minister of Public Order, Napoleon Zervas.

Zevgos, a member of the central committee of the EAM, leftist political coalition, was struck by three bullets. One penetrated his heart.

Police quoted Christos Vlachos, 30-year-old butcher from Serres, as saying he killed Zevgos "for what I suffered in the mountains." They said he claimed to have been imprisoned at Bulkjes in Yugoslavia for six months "because I would not accept the Communist line against Greece."

Bulkjes, near Belgrade, has been used as a training center for Greek guerrillas, the Greek government has charged.

Prosecutor Says Durant Knows Where Gems Are

WASHINGTON, March 20, (AP)—Maj. Joseph Robinson, chief prosecutor, dramatically charged today that Col. Jack W. Durant knows where the missing bulk of the Hesse crown jewels are hidden and hopes "some day to benefit from the ill-gotten loot."

Robinson said the portion of the Hesse gem fortune recovered so far by Army investigators is worth $1,000,000. But this, he said, is "a mere pittance" compared with the whole.

Top estimates have valued the entire fortune at $7,000,000.

Churchman Dies

SUMMERVILLE, S. C., March 20, (AP) — Right Rev. James De Wolf Perry, Providence, R. I., former presiding bishop of the Episcopal Church in America, died of a sudden heart attack here today as he and Mrs. Perry were on their way to a church service. He was 75 years old.

Britain Demands That U.N. Council Convict Albania

Cadogan Rejects Polish Suggestion

LAKE SUCCESS, N. Y., March 20 (AP) — Sir Alexander Cadogan, of Great Britain, called upon the United Nations Security Council tonight to convict Albania of responsibility for laying a minefield in Corfu Channel which damaged two British destroyers and killed 44 sailors last October 22.

Climaxing a wordy tussle with Dr. Oscar Lange, of Poland, who suggested that Albania and Great Britain try to settle the dispute between themselves, Cadogan said:

"I have substantiated the charge."

Polish Idea Rejected

He turned down the Polish idea, reminding the delegates that his government had attempted once before to settle the dispute before bringing it to the council.

He said the "hatred of the Albanian government for Great Britain" provided "motive enough" in the case.

Cadogan submitted a formal resolution but the council adjourned until tomorrow without acting on it.

Cadogan's resolution proposed that the Security Council "finds that an unnotified minefield was laid in the Corfu Strait by the Albanian government or with its connivance, resulting in serious injury to His Majesty's ships and loss of life and injury to their crews."

Alternative Suggested

It recommended that the British and Albanian governments settle the dispute on the basis of the con-

"Miss Slick Chick Of 1947" Is Barred Plymouth Rock Hen

HOLLYWOOD, March 20, (AP)—Marie Antoinette II, a barred Plymouth Rock from Sheridan, Wyo., was named the nation's most beautiful hen today, in a ceremony conducted with much fanfare and, as might be suspected, a movie tieup.

The contest, to select "Miss Slick Chick of 1947," was arranged by the Poultry and Egg National Board, Chicago, with assistance from Universal-International Studio, which has made a picture about an egg.

Marie Antoinette is owned by Roger Jensen, an 11-year-old 4-H clubber who lives on a 120-acre farm and takes care of pretty Marie and 37 of her sisters.

Rubber Worker Officials Call Saturday Meeting

AKRON, O., March 20 (AP)—Top officials of the CIO-United Rubber Workers tonight scheduled a meeting for Saturday in what they called a final effort to avert a strike against the "Big Four" rubber companies. The union has set a strike deadline for Sunday midnight.

Declining to disclose the agenda for the session, URW International President L. S. Buckmaster only said the International Executive Board and the International Policy Committee would convene at Cleveland.

Meanwhile Federal Labor Conciliator Paul W. Fuller reported that it was "possible" that opposing sides may resume negotiations.

Schwellenbach Raises Question Of Portal Veto

Secretary Opposes Bill Banning Claims

WASHINGTON, March 20. (AP)—Secretary of Labor Schwellenbach came out today against measures to outlaw portal pay claims. His stand appeared to raise a question whether the pending bill would meet with a veto by President Truman.

Attorney General Clark meanwhile petitioned the Supreme Court for a speedy review of the latest decision in the Mt. Clemens (Mich.) Pottery Company case, forerunner of hundreds of suits aggregating more than $4,000,000,000.

Truman's Position Unknown

He said a final ruling "will serve to facilitate the disposition of this multitude of cases which now threatens to embarrass judicial administration in both federal and state courts and to disrupt industrial relations in the period of reconversion."

Mr. Truman himself has not stated his position on the portal pay question. His labor secretary's statement was issued by the Labor Department during Schwellenbach's absence on the west coast and read to the Senate as it resumed debate on a bill to outlaw past and future claims.

The House already has passed a similar measure.

Schwellenbach declared the legislation would "cripple" the Wage-Hour Act and undermine its enforcement. He also held that "the millions of workers who are unorganized and without the benefit of union protection would be deprived in the future of many of the protective provisions of the present Fair Labor Standards (Wage-Hour) Act."

Substitute Offered

Sen. McCarran (D-Nev) read Schwellenbach's statement to the Senate in arguing for a substitute which he and Sen. McGrath (D-RI) have offered. The substitute, instead of outlawing both past and future portal claims, would outlaw only past claims and leave future claims to collective bargaining.

McCarran declared that this "would not emasculate or repeal the Wage-Hour Act, nor deprive any employe of his just and equal rights under the act."

Army Air Forces B-29 Flies Over North Pole

WASHINGTON, March 20 (AP)—An Army Air Forces B-29 flew over the North Pole this week, inaugurating what is expected to be routine weather reports from the top of the world, AAF officials disclosed today.

The B-29, converted from a bomber into a weather observation plane, was commanded by Brig. Gen. Donald M. Yates, weather expert for the AAF who arrived in Washington today to report to headquarters.

No effort was made to keep the flight over the polar cap secret, the report from the "position North Pole" in uncoded message available to all other nations listening in.

Two May Have Died Before Yacht Blast

SANTA ANA, Calif., March 20 (AP) —Walter Overell and his wife, Beulah, may already have been dead when an explosion shattered their yacht Saturday night in fashionable Newport Bay, Sheriff James Musick said today.

The Overells' 17-year-old blonde co-ed daughter, Beulah Louise, and her fiance, husky George Gollum, 21, were held on bookings of murder in an investigation of the deaths. Formal charges had not been filed against either and both denied any knowledge of the blast or of the presence of 31 sticks of dynamite and a wired clock found aboard after the explosion.

"The evidence tends to indicate that they (her parents) may have been dead at the time the explosion occurred," Musick declared after a conference with the girl.

He added that charges will be filed "if an autopsy shows what we believe it will."

Musick added that a bottle of sleeping pills and a coil of wire "identical with that" attached to the clock was found in the glove compartment of Gollum's car.

Dr. John Montanus, who performed the autopsy, said injuries to both victims seemed chiefly confined to skull wounds, which he described as indentations about an inch in diameter. He said Overell's head showed two over the left temple, one over the right eye and one over the left temple, and Mrs. Overell's one over the left eye and one over the center of her forehead above the hairline.

He added that the hands of both were broken.

Miss Overell, mink-coated journalism freshman at the University of Southern California, was steadfast in her statement that she and Gollum, 21-year-old, 220-pound premedical student at Los Angeles City College, had left her parents aboard when they went ashore to eat shortly after 11 p. m. She said they returned to the landing with hamburgers and milk for the elder couple and learned of the blast.

Musick said after the questioning that no discrepancies had developed in either of their stories, although his deputies were checking on the girl's statement that the Overells had given reluctant approval to the marriage of their only child next month with Gollum.

Key Figures In Munitions Combine Case Are Named In New Indictments

WASHINGTON March 20 (AP)—A special grand jury returned new indictments today against Henry M. Garrson and Joseph F. Freeman, key figures in the $73,000,000 munitions combine case, charging them with perjury on two counts each.

They had previously been indicted along with former Rep. Andrew J. May (D-Ky), and Murray Garsson, brother of Henry, on a charge of conspiracy to defraud the United States in connection with war contracts.

Henry Garsson issued a statement denying the perjury charges and declaring he is being "persecuted."

Today's indictment charges Freeman perjured himself by telling the regular grand jury—which returned the fraud indictments—that he understood that Edward D. Feldman, of Los Angeles, had sent $1,000 to May and that he only learned about it later during an FBI investigation.

"In truth and in fact," the indictment said, Feldman gave Freeman a $1,000 check October 6, 1944, and Freeman had the check delivered to May. The check was made payable to R. V. May, a son of the former congressman. Feldman was identified as an officer of the Atlas Carbon and Clay Corporation.

The indictment said Henry Garsson, former president of Batavia Metal Products, Inc., and vice president of Erie Basin Metal products, Inc., committed perjury by telling the grand jury he had not seen certain invoices from the Cumberland Lumber Company to the Erie concern until late in 1945.

In fact, he had seen them about a year earlier, the indictment said.

Substitute For Lane's Sales Levy Cuts Tax-Exempt Income; Early House Action Predicted

Imposes Soft Drink And Tobacco Taxes

ANNAPOLIS, Md., March 20 (AP)—The State Senate's substitute for Gov. Lane's sales tax was rushed through the Senate by a 23-2 vote today and sent to the House, where action was predicted within 24 hours.

The substitute drafted by Senate President Byrnes and 16 other Democrats in the session was brought out on the floor after it had been threshed out in a joint meeting of the Judiciary and Finance Committees. It was introduced only last night.

Speaker Sybert and Majority Leader Pumphrey (D-Prince George's), of the House, had previously announced they expected to take action on the tax bill tomorrow afternoon. Pumphrey called a meeting of his Finance Committee for 10:30 o'clock in the morning.

The substitute program, which would revise exemptions on the state income tax, increase beer, wine and liquor taxes, and impose soft drink, cigaret and tobacco taxes, was estimated by its supporters to bring in $20,700,000 a year.

Gov. Lane, who last month said $25,000,000 additional revenue was needed stood by his guns on a two per cent sales tax in the face of the majority revolt in the Senate.

Lane Has No New Comment

He said he had no comment to add to his statement of yesterday when he declared that the $19,400,000-a-year sales tax was necessary if the state's fiscal program is to be carfried out.

The House among other things passed and returned to the Senate a bill to allow women to serve on juries in Baltimore City and 11 counties. The Senate originally passed the measure with 10 of the 23 counties exempted.

The delegates adopted a favorable committee report on a measure to revise unemployment compensation law procedure, after striking out a Senate amendment to require Unemployment Compensation Boards to remain in their offices at all times during working hours.

They then marked time until the Senate tax bill got over from the Senate and referred it to the Finance committee.

Both houses stopped work in the afternoon to prepare for Gov. Lane's reception at Government House and the Governor's ball later at Carvel Hall.

After receipt of the tax bill, Pumphrey announced the Finance Committee would meet in the House chamber, so that any interested persons could hear the measure explained.

Seven of the 11 Senate Republicans, who had first rebelled against the sales tax Monday night and offered their own substitute, voted for the Democratic measure.

Sen. Kimble Absent

There were four absentees, among them Minority Leader Kimble (R-Allegany) who was ill. Kimble previously had said the minority would support the new program since it was similar to one advanced by them.

The only dissenting votes on the new tax bill came from Sens. Carter (D-Balto 3rd) and Ellison (R-Balto 4th). Carter said he opposed the combination of taxes put together by the Democrats, and Ellison said he thought the system was out of balance.

Absent and not voting, besides Kimble, were Sens. Bailey (R-St. Mary's), McAllister (R-Dorchester) and Monroe (R-Charles).

Sen. Dulin (D-Anne Arundel), who said he was voting for the new tax plan only because the sales tax could not be passed, called attention to the fact that only two Southern Maryland senators were on hand to vote.

"The Republicans made us take this substitute," he said, "and some of them are not here to take their medicine."

Dulin said he was placing his political future in jeopardy by voting for a tobacco tax. Sen. Goldstein (D-Calvert), a sales tax supporter, said the same thing.

As another aftermath of the long and bitter undercover battle over

Senate Tax Legislation At A Glance

ANNAPOLIS, Md., March 20. (AP)—The Senate majority tax proposal which was offered as a substitute to Gov. Lane's sales tax program would:

Lower tax exempt income from $1,000 to $500 for single persons and from $2,000 to $1,000 for married persons, and raise the credit for dependents from $400 to $500 (making levels same as federal.)

Raise liquor tax from $1.25 to $1.75 a gallon.

Raise beer tax from three cents a gallon to 14 (slightly more than one cent on a 12-ounce bottle.)

Impose a one-cent tax on soft drinks (including fountain beverages except those with a milk base) for each drink costing 6 cents or less, and 75 cents a gallon for syrups used in making soft drinks.

Tax cigarets at one tenth of a cent each—two cents on a package of 20.

Tax cigars, smoking and chewing tobacco at one cent for each 10 cents of sales price. A package of tobacco costing 15 cents would have a two-cent tax.

Estimated revenue from all $20,700,000 a year.

New Ga. Governor Flays Talmadge

ATLANTA, Ga., March 20. (AP)—Gov. Melvin E. Thompson castigated his ousted predecessor, Herman Talmadge, today before a silent Georgia Legislature, rebuking him for what Thompson called attempted seizure of the government by force and fraud.

A joint session of the House and Senate cheered Thompson when he declared law and order had returned to Georgia. But it fell silent as he assailed Talmadge-sponsored "white supremacy" legislation, and declared Talmadge and his associates no longer could speak for the Democratic Party.

Thompson, who was proclaimed Georgia's legal Governor yesterday by the State Supreme Court, spoke for 15 minutes. When he concluded, floor leaders of the Talmadge faction grimly promised political war.

Rep. Robert Elliott, of Muscogee (Columbus), declared: "The issue is the same as it was when Eugene Talmadge was elected. It is white supremacy. Thompson is against a white primary. Talmadge is for a white primary. The people will decide."

Rep. W. J. Crowe, of Worth (Sylvester), commented bitterly: "Thompson is saying that all Talmadge people are thieves and rogues. He is trying to read us out of the Democratic Party, but he can't do it."

Thompson endorsed the principal of white supremacy—adopted as part of the Democratic Party platform in Georgia—but said Talmadge's plan to divorce primaries from state control and make them subject to party rules was invitation to fraud and stolen elections.

Cuba Deports Luciano To His Native Italy

HAVANA, Cuba, March 20. (AP)—Charles (Lucky) Luciano, former New York vice overlord, was deported today to his native Italy.

He left aboard the Turkish ship Bakir on a voyage that will require 18 days.

He might have continued to live in Cuba indefinitely without molestation except for the United States Bureau of Narcotics. The bureau notified the Cuban government on February 21 that it would ship no more narcotics to Cuba because Luciano's presence might lead to "diversion of the drugs."

Congressional Smelt-Eating Title Stowed Away By Ohio's Rep. Brown

WASHINGTON, March 20. (AP)—A new smelt-eating champion was crowned in Congress today.

Rep. Clarence Brown (R-Ohio), in a magnificent stowing away exhibition, outstuffed the former champion, Rep. Jesse P. Wolcott (R-Mich).

Wolcott, who beat Brown in the last contest, in 1939, was a sorry sight today, far off his usual brilliant form. He came in third in the three-man race, with Rep. Sam Rayburn (D-Tex) a steady second.

From the start it was apparent that Brown would be tough to handle. Employing a beautiful boarding house stroke, the 250-pound, six-foot-two Brown swept so far ahead no official count was made.

Brown counted the 20-odd fish skeletons by his plate and said he had eaten 51. Wolcott mumbled something feebly here, but apparently was too weak to challenge Brown's mathematics.

But Brown is no phoney champion. He also polished off a heap of shoestring potatoes, a mess of lima beans, a scoop of ice cream—and wound up by eating another smelt for photographers.

The contest, staged by Rep. Fred Bradley (R-Mich) who comes from a smelt-catching district, was not run off uneventfully.

Brown let out one bellow of foul. This was when he came across an extra large smelt.

"A catfish," Brown cried, "possibly even a carp!"

As Wolcott fell farther and farther behind, he had to put up with considerable heckling from the 50 or so congressmen who attended the party in the House speaker's dining room.

Sen. Homer Ferguson (R-Mich) noticed that Wolcott kept squeezing lemon juice on the smelt.

"He's trying to get them down by shrinking them," said Ferguson.

Lewis Protests Naming Of Boyd To Mines Post

"A Political Deal," UMW Leader Says

WASHINGTON, March 20 (AP) — John L. Lewis said today the choice of James Boyd to head the Bureau of Mines was "a political deal" and the government should have consulted "the men who are going to die in the mines" before naming Boyd to be in charge of their safety.

"We want less wailing and keening in the coal camps," he said.

("Keening" is defined by Webster's New International Dictionary as a "lamentation. . . a wordless cry or wail. . . sometimes, an exhortation to vengeance.")

Makes Appeal To Senate Group

The United Mine Workers' chief made his appeal to a Senate Public Lands Subcommittee in protesting President Truman's appointment of Boyd, 42, Australian-born professor.

Lewis declared bluntly that the appointment will embitter the miners.

"We resent the fact that the Department of Interior plucked him out of obscurity without asking the men who are going to die in the mines if they are satisfied," he said.

"The miners resent it from the bottoms of their hearts."

Emphasizing the precarious lives of the men who work far underground, Lewis went on to testify that "statistically, in six years every man in the coal mining industry is either killed or injured."

Many coal mining states, he said, actually spend more money for the protection of wild life than to protect the miners' lives.

Mine Casualties Cited

Lewis said that from 1942 to 1945 there were 6,224 fatalities out of 322,637 casualties in the nation's coal mines. Since 1942, he said, coal miners have dwindled in number from 450,000 to 375,000.

Contending that Boyd is unqualified and does not understand the coal miners' problems, Lewis said:

"Mr. Boyd may be a good man—good to his family. But we want someone who will be kind to the coal miners families. We, the coal miners, are petitioning the Senate not to approve the appointment of a man who does not possess the qualifications for this job—and Mr. Boyd does not.

"It's like employing a watchmaker to repair a steam shovel."

11 Firms Named In Sugar Fraud

ALBUQUERQUE, March 20, (AP)—Indictments accusing the Dr. Pepper Company and its associates in the soft drink business of conspiracy to divert a million and a quarter pounds of industrially-rationed sugar into the black market were reported today by a federal grand jury.

Fraudulent withdrawals and illegal use of the commodity were alleged in eight states from Wyoming to North Carolina. United States Atty. Everett N. Grantham said "probably the biggest sugar fraud in the nation" was involved.

In all there were four indictments naming 11 corporations and 36 individuals, most of them heads of Dr. Pepper bottling plants which a spokesman for the parent firm in Dallas described as independent units.

The indictments were delivered to United States District Judge Colin Neblett, who directed that the defendants be brought into his court at Santa Fe, N. M., for arraignment on May 5.

A. M. Bartlett, 37, owner of the Hobbs, N. M., Dr. Pepper bottling works, was named as a defendant in all the indictments.

Divorcee Is Convicted In Slaying Of Her Lover

COURTLAND, Va., March 20 (AP)—A Southampton County jury tonight convicted Mrs. Mary Louise Macon, 48-year-old divorcee, of a charge of manslaughter in the death of Andrew C. Thomas, 45, fixed her punishment at one year in the penitentiary and recommended clemency.

The jury returned its verdict at 10:50 p. m. after deliberating two hours and 50 minutes. She had been indicted on a charge of murder.

Mrs. Macon, who pleaded innocent at the opening of the trial Monday, showed no emotion as she heard the verdict convicting her in the pistol slaying of Thomas, her admitted lover and father of four children by his estranged wife.

a Maryland tax program. President Byrnes sponsored a bill for a constitutional amendment to set up a graduated income tax in Maryland.

The issue would be presented to the voters in 1948. A similar proposal for a graduated income tax was rejected by the voters in 1938.

The Senate Finance Committee, in session while the Senate was in technical recess, acted swiftly after a joint session with the Judiciary Committee. The committees shunted aside suggestions that a subcommittee be appointed to make the bill "a more finished product."

Cancer Appropriation

NEW YORK, March 20, (AP) — An appropriation of $1,559,025 for expansion of cancer research was announced today by the American Cancer Society, which said it made the allocation from contributions received during campaigns in 1945 and 1946.

Yugoslavia Ruled Out

WASHINGTON, March 20, (AP)—Amid congressional debate over what aid the United States should extend to needy foreign nations, the State Department today pointedly ruled out Yugoslavia from any share in the pending $350,000,000 relief appropriation.

Another Bumper Crop Year Looms

WASHINGTON, March 20 (AP) — Another bumper croup production year, topped by what may be the largest wheat crop ever, was forecast by the Agriculture Department today.

The forecast was in a report showing farmers plan to plant slightly larger acreages than during the past two seasons.

The nation's wheat supply, now dwindling under a heavy export demand, will be replenished by a crop of about 1,212,000,000 bushels if present prospects turn out. Last year's crop, the largest yet grown, was 1,155,715,000 bushels.

Likewise, present rather plentiful supplies of corn would be augumented by another crop of more than 3,000,000,000 bushels. Corn production last year was 3,278,927,000 while production for the 1935-44 period averaged 2,608,499,000.

The department said a survey of farmer's planting intentions, as of March 1, indicated 358,000,000 acres may be grown to principal crops compared with 355,500,000 last year and with 355,000,000 for the 10-year average.

Woodchuck Goes On Biting Spree

DEARBORN, Mich., March 20, (AP) —You can never tell what may happen when a door is opened.

Take Mrs. Alma Wilson, for instance. She opened hers and into her home trudged a large woodchuck.

She nudged the animal with her foot and it "barked" at her. Then it took after her son Stuart, 4, who leaped on a couch.

Finally, the woodchuck wandered into the basement and Mrs. Wilson slammed the door. She sent Johnny, 5, to the corner grocery to call police.

By the time police arrived, they found also in the basement a very angry meter reader, Frank Newood.

Mrs. Wilson said it seemed useless to warn Newood because "he would think it silly to be afraid."

While Newood was reading the meter, the woodchuck popped out of a coal bin. He pushed it with his foot. It bit him.

The Dearborn dog catcher, Patrolman Bruce Dean, lured the animal away with cookies and took it to the dog pound.

The woodchuck bit him, too.

Laborites Rebuked

LONDON, March 20, (AP) — The overwhelmingly conservative House of Lords rebuked the Labor government tonight, by 119 votes to 30, for the "inadequacy" of its efforts to pull Britain out of the current economic crisis.

Patterson Calls For Unification Of Armed Forces

Declares U. S. Lacks Overall Defense Plan

WASHINGTON, March 20 (AP) — Secretary of War Patterson informed senators today that the United States lacks "any overall plan for defense of the nation" and will continue to lack one until Army, Navy and Air Forces are unified.

The Secretary told the Senate Armed Forces Committee that the Japanese sneak attack at Pearl Harbor was a "death blow" to the "old idea of voluntary cooperation" between the War and Navy Departments.

Patterson asked congressional approval of the administration bill for unification of the armed services under a single Secretary of National Defense. There would be individual Army, Navy and Air Force departments administered by separate subordinate secretaries.

Sen. Bridges (R-NH), protested that the "super-deluxe" Secretary of National Defense might "put us behind the eight ball" and favor one branch of the services over the others.

Patterson replied that Congress had the final say on all money any government agency got and how it was to be spent.

Sen. Byrd (D-Va), questioned Patterson upon the exact intent and powers in the legislation.

"I think the language is perfectly clear," Patterson replied.

He said the single secretary would be an "executive" with detailed "administration" handled by the Secretaries of Army, Navy and Air.

Byrd said that as a member of the Naval Affairs Committee last year he was convinced that a previous Army-Navy merger bill would "be very harmful to the morale of the Navy and the Marine Corps."

Sentenced To Workhouse For Burning Baby's Feet

CINCINNATI, March 20 (AP) — Municipal Judge Clarence Spraul today found Jack Slagle, 34, guilty of torturing his five-months-old son by burning his feet with a cigaret and sentenced him to serve six months in the city workhouse.

The verdict was reached without participation in the trial of the principal witnesses—the wife, Anna, who signed the warrant for Slagle's arrest, and Joe Ann, the four-year-old daughter who said she saw her father apply the lighted cigaret to Baby Lionel's feet.

MAY WALK SOON—In gratitude for the help given her in her fight to live like other girls, attractive Betty Jean Lampe, 22, Chicago, will make her first public appearance as a singer at the annual Newspaper Memorial Service on Palm Sunday in Chicago. Born footless, Betty has undergone two operations to enable her to be fitted with artificial feet. In another month, Betty expects to be able to walk.

Britain And U. S. Accused Of Teaming Up On Russia

LONDON, March 20, (AP) — Konni Zilliacus, left-wing labor member of Parliament and critic of British foreign policy, accused Britain and the United States tonight of teaming up against Russia.

His accusation came after Defense Minister A. V. Alexander told the House of Commons during a debate on defense policy that the United Nations is still too weak for Britain to safely trim its armed forces below 1,772,000 men.

Zilliacus charged that Britain has entered into "an Anglo-American entente and an arms tie-up for a balance of power against the Soviet Union."

Woman Abandons Her Children, Calls Police

NORRISTOWN, Pa., March 20. (AP)—A sobbing woman telephoned police today that she had abandoned her three children.

Following her instructions, a squad car of police sped to a business building and Chief Robert Reilly said they found Barbara O'Connor, eight; Robert, five; and Loretta, three.

Barbara had a note in her pocket which she told Reilly her mother gave her before kissing each of the children and telling them to wait while she went for some stamps.

Said the note addressed to the police chief:

"I can't go on any longer. My nerves have reached the breaking point for there is no food or heat in our home. Three little hearts will be broken and so is mine x x x."

Reilly sent the children to the House of Detention and ordered a search for Mrs. Anne O'Connor, whose name was signed to the note, and her husband Howard.

Swirling Waters Spread Over New Areas In England

Amphibious Vehicles Help In Rescue Work

LONDON, March 20 (AP) — Motor launches bucked the swirling flood waters of the Don River tonight, carrying food to the Yorkshire mining towns of Bentley and Arksey where 2,000 persons were trapped in the second floors of their cottages.

The plight of these villagers added new tasks to 1,000 troops and German prisoners of war who battled rising waters in the fens, 70 miles north of London, as widespread spring floods mounted the banks of England's storied streams.

About 500 persons were taken out of the Toll Bar section of Bentley today while motor launches, with enough power to overcome the strong flood currents, ferried bread and milk to inhabitants leaning through upper story windows. Army amphibious vehicles assisted in the rescue work.

Officials said they believed flood waters were beginning to recede at Bentley, but tons of water sluicing through a breach in the Don dykes threatened to isolate still more persons in Arksey by midnight.

Although there have been no casualties thus far, police and hundreds of civilian volunteers prepared for possible emergency at Asksey tonight or tomorrow.

Meanwhile, water rose nine inches an hour along a defense line holding back the Wissey River, and flood fighters feverishly stacked sandbags on a dyke already seven feet high.

Farm families, driving livestock ahead, continued to evacuate the threatened area and the crisis was expected early tomorrow. The fens are fertile lowlands in Cambridge County.

LaGuardia Says In-Laws "Can't Live Together"

WASHINGTON, March 20, (AP) — "In-laws just can't live together," Fiorello H. LaGuardia told the Senate Banking Committee today in urging speedy action on a long-range housing bill.

"Chaos will set in on this country unless we start building homes," said LaGuardia, former New York Mayor. "There is nothing in this problem that money cannot cure. It will cost a lot but it must be done."

Franklin D. Roosevelt, Jr., told the committee that a "guaranteed market for building trade labor for 10 years" would curtail union "restrictive practices."

Ex-WAC Rejected Minister's Offer

PRINCETON, W. Va., March 20 (AP)—Mrs. Gerda Jones testified today in her alienation of affections suit against her father-in-law, Rev. Joseph S. Jones, and his wife, that the clergyman asked her what she would "take for an annulment" of her marriage to his son, Edward Tate Jones.

The 26-year-old former WAC said she rejected the implied offer, allegedly made when she met her father-in-law in a New York hotel lobby shortly after return from overseas in January, 1946.

The dark, attractive brunette asks $25,000 for alienation of affections, contending that the parents of her 23-year-old ex-soldier husband were responsible for destroying their marriage.

They were married at Rheims, France in October, 1945.

China Begins All-Out War On Communists

NANKING, March 20, (AP)—The Chinese government has embarked on a program of total war calculated to defeat the Communists within three months, the government's army chief of staff declared today in discussing the sudden capture of Yenan, Communist capital.

Speaking at a press conference, Gen. Chen Cheng said, "This does not mean the end of all armed Communists — naturally there will be pockets left—but it does mean the enemy will cease to exist as a formal, armed opposition."

Miss Truman Will Go Ahead With Her Career

WASHINGTON, March 20 (AP)—Margaret Truman, obviously happy over the reaction to her singing debut Sunday with the Detroit Symphony Orchestra, made her first appearance at a White House news conference today.

Quite apparently her decision to by-pass the gay time she could have socially and instead to study seriously for a professional career has been rewarding to her.

"Yes I am going ahead with my singing career," she said.

As for her next public appearance, "I have no immediate plans," she added.

Women's Jury Service Bill Is Okayed By House

Measure Exempts Allegany County

ANNAPOLIS, Md., March 20. (AP) —The House of Delegates, by a 86-16 vote, approved today a bill providing that women may serve on juries in 11 of Maryland's 23 counties and Baltimore City, after hearing a warning that it would cause considerable confusion in courts.

Already passed in the Senate, where 10 counties were exempted from the bill's provisions, it now returns to that body for concurrence in House amendments including two more counties—Calvert and Charles.

Thus was ended, at least for the time, a battle started 20 years ago by various women's clubs and organizations for the right to serve on juries.

There was little doubt, however, that if it proves acceptable that supporters will continue efforts to have the bill's provisions made state-wide at future sessions of the Legislature.

In addition to Calvert and Charles Counties, Allegany, Carroll, Garrett, Queen Anne's, Talbot, Worcester, Howard, St. Mary's, Kent and Washington were excluded.

Majority Floor Leader Pumphrey (D-Prince George's), long opposed to women on juries, warned of court confusion.

There was no debate on the measure, but Pumphrey was one of several delegates who arose on roll call to explain his vote.

"In Maryland," he explained, "our circuit courts are divided to include three, four and five counties, with the same judges, clerks, and other officals. Also, there are provisions for removal of cases from one county to another.

"I am not arguing against women on juries, only that we are going to have a situation that is very confusing. It is my very definite opinion that the state is the smallest unit under which this can operate."

Lewis Protests Naming Of Boyd To Mines Post

"A Political Deal," UMW Leader Says

WASHINGTON, March 20 (AP) — John L. Lewis said today the choice of James Boyd to head the Bureau of Mines was "a political deal" and the government should have consulted "the men who are going to die in the mines" before naming Boyd to be in charge of their safety.

"We want less wailing and keening in the coal camps," he said.

("Keening" is defined by Webster's New International Dictionary as a "lamentation. . . a wordless cry or wail. . . sometimes, an exhortation to vengeance.")

Makes Appeal To Senate Group

The United Mine Workers' chief made his appeal to a Senate Public Lands Subcommittee in protesting President Truman's appointment of Boyd, 42, Australian-born professor.

Lewis declared bluntly that the appointment will embitter the miners.

"We resent the fact that the Department of Interior plucked him out of obscurity without asking the men who are going to die in the mines if they are satisfied," he said.

"The miners resent it from the bottoms of their hearts."

Emphasizing the precarious lives of the men who work far underground, Lewis went on to testify that "statistically, in six years every man in the coal mining industry is either killed or injured."

Many coal mining states, he said, actually spend more money for the protection of wild life than to protect the miners' lives.

Mine Casualties Cited

Lewis said that from 1942 to 1945 there were 6,224 fatalities out of 322,637 casualties in the nation's coal mines. Since 1942, he said, coal miners have dwindled in number from 450,000 to 375,000.

Contending that Boyd is unqualified and does not understand the coal miners' problems, Lewis said:

"Mr. Boyd may be a good man—good to his family. But we want someone who will be kind to the coal miners families. We, the coal miners, are petitioning the Senate not to approve the appointment of a man who does not possess the qualifications for this job—and Mr. Boyd does not.

"It's like employing a watchmaker to repair a steam shovel."

11 Firms Named In Sugar Fraud

ALBUQUERQUE, March 20, (AP)—Indictments accusing the Dr. Pepper Company and its associates in the soft drink business of conspiracy to divert a million and a quarter pounds of industrially-rationed sugar into the black market were reported today by a federal grand jury.

Fraudulent withdrawals and illegal use of the commodity were alleged in eight states from Wyoming to North Carolina. United States Atty. Everett N. Grantham said "probably the biggest sugar fraud in the nation" was involved.

In all there were four indictments naming 11 corporations and 36 individuals, most of them heads of Dr. Pepper bottling plants which a spokesman for the parent firm in Dallas described as independent units.

The indictments were delivered to United States District Judge Colin Neglett, who directed that the defendants be brought into his court at Santa Fe, N. M., for arraignment on May 5.

A. M. Bartlett, 37, owner of the Hobbs, N. M., Dr. Pepper bottling works, was named as a defendant in all the indictments.

Divorcee Is Convicted In Slaying Of Her Lover

COURTLAND, Va., March 20 (AP)—A Southampton County jury tonight convicted Mrs. Mary Louise Macon, 48-year-old divorcee, of a charge of manslaughter in the death of Andrew C. Thomas, 45, fixed her punishment at one year in the penitentiary and recommended clemency.

The jury returned its verdict at 10:50 p. m. after deliberating two hours and 50 minutes. She had been indicted on a charge of murder.

Mrs. Macon, who pleaded innocent at the opening of the trial Monday, showed no emotion as she heard the verdict convicting her in the pistol slaying of Thomas, her admitted lover and father of four children by his estranged wife.

The issue would be presented to the voters in 1948. A similar proposal for a graduated income tax was rejected by the voters in 1938.

Cancer Appropriation

Yugoslavia Ruled Out

WASHINGTON, March 20, (AP)—Amid congressional debate over what aid the United States should extend to needy foreign nations, the State Department today pointedly ruled out Yugoslavia from any share in the pending $350,000,000 relief appropriation.

Another Bumper Crop Year Looms

WASHINGTON, March 20 (AP) — Another bumper croup production year, topped by what may be the largest wheat crop ever, was forecast by the Agriculture Department today.

The forecast was in a report showing farmers plan to plant slightly larger acreages than during the past two seasons.

The nation's wheat supply, now dwindling under a heavy export demand, will be replenished by a crop of about 1,212,000,000 bushels if present prospects turn out. Last year's crop, the largest yet grown, was 1,155,715,000 bushels.

Likewise, present rather plentiful supplies of corn would be augumented by another crop of more than 3,000,000,000 bushels. Corn production last year was 3,278,927,000 while production for the 1935-44 period averaged 2,608,499,000.

The department said a survey of farmer's planting intentions, as of March 1, indicated 358,000,000 acres may be grown to principal crops compared with 355,500,000 last year and with 355,000,000 for the 10-year average.

Woodchuck Goes On Biting Spree

DEARBORN, Mich., March 20, (AP)—You can never tell what may happen when a door is opened.

Take Mrs. Alma Wilson, for instance. She opened hers and into her home trudged a large woodchuck.

She nudged the animal with her foot and it "barked" at her. Then it took after her son Stuart, 4, who leaped on a couch.

Finally, the woodchuck wandered into the basement and Mrs. Wilson slammed the door. She sent Johnny, 5, to the corner grocery to call police.

By the time police arrived, they found also in the basement a very angry meter reader, Frank Newood.

Mrs. Wilson said it seemed useless to warn Newood because "he would think it silly to be afraid."

While Newood was reading the meter, the woodchuck popped out of a coal bin. He pushed it with his foot. It bit him.

The Dearborn dog catcher, Patrolman Bruce Dean, lured the animal away with cookies and took it to the dog pound.

The woodchuck bit him, too.

Laborites Rebuked

LONDON, March 20, (AP) — The overwhelmingly conservative House of Lords rebuked the Labor government tonight, by 119 votes to 30, for the "inadequacy" of its efforts to pull Britain out of the current economic crisis.

Patterson Calls For Unification Of Armed Forces

Declares U. S. Lacks Overall Defense Plan

WASHINGTON, March 20 (AP) — Secretary of War Patterson informed senators today that the United States lacks "any overall plan for defense of the nation" and will continue to lack one until Army, Navy and Air Forces are unified.

The Secretary told the Senate Armed Forces Committee that the Japanese sneak attack at Pearl Harbor was a "death blow" to the "old idea of voluntary cooperation" between the War and Navy Departments.

Patterson asked congressional approval of the administration bill for unification of the armed services under a single Secretary of National Defense. There would be individual Army, Navy and Air Force departments administered by separate subordinate secretaries.

Sen. Bridges (R-NH), protested that the "super-deluxe" Secretary of National Defense might "put us behind the eight ball" and favor one branch of the services over the others.

Patterson replied that Congress had the final say on all money any government agency got and how it was to be spent.

Sen. Byrd (D-Va), questioned Patterson upon the exact intent and powers in the legislation.

"I think the language is perfectly clear," Patterson replied.

He said the single secretary would be an "executive" with detailed "administration" handled by the Secretaries of Army, Navy and Air.

Byrd said that as a member of the Naval Affairs Committee last year he was convinced that a previous Army-Navy merger bill would "be very harmful to the morale of the Navy and the Marine Corps."

Sentenced To Workhouse For Burning Baby's Feet

CINCINNATI, March 20 (AP) — Municipal Judge Clarence Spraul today found Jack Slagle, 34, guilty of torturing his five-months-old son by burning his feet with a cigaret and sentenced him to serve six months in the city workhouse.

The verdict was reached without participation in the trial of the principal witnesses—the wife, Anna, who signed the warrant for Slagle's arrest, and Joe Ann, the four-year-old daughter who said she saw her father apply the lighted cigaret to Baby Lionel's feet.

Britain And U. S. Accused Of Teaming Up On Russia

LONDON, March 20, (AP) — Konni Zilliacus, left-wing labor member of Parliament and critic of British foreign policy, accused Britain and the United States tonight of teaming up against Russia.

His accusation came after Defense Minister A. V. Alexander told the House of Commons during a debate on defense policy that the United Nations is still too weak for Britain to safely trim its armed forces below 1,772,000 men.

Zilliacus charged that Britain has entered into "an Anglo-American entente and an arms tie-up for a balance of power against the Soviet Union."

Man Burns Self To Death In Park

DETROIT, March 20 (AP) — An elderly man, who police said acted deliberately, burned himself to death last night in a self-set pyre in the park.

As two boys and a woman frantically sought help, flames springing six feet high from a ring of lighted gasoline enveloped the man.

Police Lieut. Vincent Mann, conceding it was "one of the strangest" incidents in his experience, identified the man as William H. Mathewson, about 60, and said he obviously meant to take his own life.

Mathewson was described as a widower and a beneficiary of the welfare department. His landlady, Miss Margaret Allison, said he had been despondent.

Two brothers, Edward Benz, 13, and his brother, Michael, 10, told police they were flying kites in Palmer Park, off Woodward Avenue at six-mile road, about 6 p. m. when Mathewson entered.

The boys said Mathewson removed his overcoat, laid his cane on the ground and began pouring gasoline from a can on his clothes and onto the ground in a circle about 10 feet in diameter.

Then he stepped within the circle, Lieut. Mann said the boys related, and lighted the gasoline.

The boys said they ran to him but were helpless.

"The flames were six feet high," Edward said, "and the man was jumping up and down.

A woman passerby and the boys ran for help. Lieut. Mann said that when police arrived, however, the fire was virtually out and Mathewson was dead.

Death Sentence For Rape Upheld

ANNAPOLIS, Md., March 20 (AP) —A death sentence imposed on Vernon F. Weinecke by the Baltimore County Circuit Court last fall for assault with intent to commit rape was affirmed yesterday by the Court of Appeals.

Counsel for Weinecke had argued that it is not a crime under Maryland Law to attempt to rape a girl under 14 years of age and legally this count in his indictment was no different from a second count of "assault with intent to have carnal knowledge of a woman child under the age of 14 years."

With Judge Grason writing the opinion, the court held that the offenses "are distinguished by the element of force" and that the crimes as charged in the indictment were separate.

"The propriety of the sentence imposed is not before us," the court noted. "If the sentence was too severe, under all the circumstances of the case, the appeal of that question is not here."

The combined spring and fall pig crop of 1946 is estimated at 83,201,000 head. This number is about four percent below the 1945 crop and is the smallest crop since 1941. However, it is about one percent larger than the 10-year average.

Man Burns Self To Death In Park

DETROIT, March 20 (AP) — An elderly man, who police said acted deliberately, burned himself to death last night in a self-set pyre in the park.

As two boys and a woman frantically sought help, flames springing six feet high from a ring of lighted gasoline enveloped the man.

Police Lieut. Vincent Mann, conceding it was "one of the strangest" incidents in his experience, identified the man as William H. Mathewson, about 60, and said he obviously meant to take his own life.

Mathewson was described as a widower and a beneficiary of the welfare department. His landlady, Miss Margaret Allison, said he had been despondent.

Two brothers, Edward Benz, 13, and his brother, Michael, 10, told police they were flying kites in Palmer Park, off Woodward Avenue at six-mile road, about 6 p. m. when Mathewson entered.

The boys said Mathewson removed his overcoat, laid his cane on the ground and began pouring gasoline from a can on his clothes and onto the ground in a circle about 10 feet in diameter.

Then he stepped within the circle, Lieut. Mann said the boys related, and lighted the gasoline.

The boys said they ran to him but were helpless.

"The flames were six feet high," Edward said, "and the man was jumping up and down.

A woman passerby and the boys ran for help. Lieut. Mann said that when police arrived, however, the fire was virtually out and Mathewson was dead.

Death Sentence For Rape Upheld

ANNAPOLIS, Md., March 20 (AP) —A death sentence imposed on Vernon F. Weinecke by the Baltimore County Circuit Court last fall for assault with intent to commit rape was affirmed yesterday by the Court of Appeals.

Counsel for Weinecke had argued that it is not a crime under Maryland Law to attempt to rape a girl under 14 years of age and legally this count in his indictment was no different from a second count of "assault with intent to have carnal knowledge of a woman child under the age of 14 years."

With Judge Grason writing the opinion, the court held that the offenses "are distinguished by the element of force" and that the crimes as charged in the indictment were separate.

"The propriety of the sentence imposed is not before us," the court noted. "If the sentence was too severe, under all the circumstances of the case, the appeal of that question is not here."

The combined spring and fall pig crop of 1946 is estimated at 83,201,000 head. This number is about four percent below the 1945 crop and is the smallest crop since 1941. However, it is about one percent larger than the 10-year average.

Two Express Views On Greek-Turkey Proposal

In the opinion of Senator Henry Cabot Lodge, Jr., a Massachusetts Republican, "The last hope of ever organizing peace would vanish," if Congress rejects President Truman's effort to check Communism. Sen. Lodge was, of course, referring to the Greek-Turkish situation, urging support of the President's program.

Senator Lodge admits that, to the nation, this is an "unhappy and sickening moment," and it doesn't like "any part" of the decision to be made. But he is convinced the one alternative that cannot be taken is to refuse to make any decision. He said:

"We can be sure of one thing: Weakness will not avoid trouble. There is a much better chance that strength, guided by virtuous motives, will do so." Appeasement did not prevent the wars with Germany and Japan. It has failed to win the co-operation of Russia. Concessions to the Soviets only encouraged new and unreasonable demands at the expense of weaker peoples. Mr. Truman's program seeks to contain Communism within its present boundaries.

The essential significance of the President's proposal is that once committed to this policy, there is no turning back. It must be followed until the question has been determined whether democracy and Communism can live together, or until one or the other is destroyed. There is no use deluding ourselves into the belief there is any other way out once the step is taken.

That is one point of view in support of Mr. Truman's bid for $400,000,000 to be poured into Greece and Turkey. Former Ambassador Joseph P. Kennedy has another as reported by Arthur Krock in the New York Times. Here is a summation of that view: Mr. Kennedy feels that the United States' resources, while huge, are not infinite. They can be exhausted. In other words our 140,000,000 people cannot hope, with the best will in the world, to feed, clothe and otherwise support themselves plus the approximately 2,000,000,000 other people on earth.

Mr. Kennedy also points out that Communism, which advertises itself as the answer to all the poor man's troubles, has had a fair tryout up to now in only one country—Russia. The Russian Communists take every precaution to keep the rest of the world from getting at the truth about what goes on in Russia—whether it is a paradise the Red propaganda makes it out to be, or whether it is the poverty-stricken country which cannot hope to approach Western European or U. S. living standards as long as the great planner in the Kremlin insists in doing all the thinking for the Russian people. On the other hand, our domestic system has to work in the open. Therefore, all our faults can be and are played up by Communist propagandists everywhere.

Because of this, Mr. Kennedy takes the stand of why not let the Communists take over as many European countries as they can? Let the comrades, he says, try to make good on those promises of instant and endless happiness and comfort for the people of every country that will entrust its fate to them. In that event, Mr. Kennedy goes on, the peoples of these countries will find in a few years that Communism is a fraud and a phony, and that it cannot deliver bread and the essentials of life in any such quantities as democratic capitalism can and does deliver.

Mr. Kennedy feels that while various European peoples are finding out about Communism the hard way we should conserve our system. Improve it, and increase its benefits to more and more of our own people. Eventually, he contends, it should dawn on European dupes of the Reds that democratic capitalism is far superior to Communism. He feels the downfall of the Communists in most if not all of Europe should then follow fairly fast. When these nations become ravaged by Reds, and Communism begins to crawl back toward its original Russian home, we could move in with well considered, businesslike loans to help those disillusioned peoples set up their economies along democratic and capitalistic systems. Mr. Kennedy goes further, and advocates shutting off food relief to any nation during this interlude of letting the Communists stew in their own juice.

Mr. Kennedy feels that the political-loan policy Mr. Truman advocates can only lead to more and more loans in more and more countries, if to nothing worse with the net result to weaken rather than strengthen this nation. There you have it. Take your choice.

Spring, Most Important Development Of Year, Comes

Another season is born today!

Spring, the most important development of the year, is not news. It is essentially anticipated, indefinite in its advent and entirely unreliable as a fact until it has grown upon mankind beyond its due appreciation. Logically, it is the beginning of the year, considering years as installments of life.

To start the year with Winter suggests beginning to live when one is old, though some do. Thus Spring serves supremely to enable man to get his bearings and to realize the meaning of his existence. It is nature's kindliest service to man.

Man needs the Spring to live right—that is, to live consciously, courageously, cheerfully and practically. If he lives in the past, he does not live at all. If he lives in the present, he needs to live also in the future. This is where Spring comes in. Nature insists that everybody relax, if not physically at least mentally.

Man is reminded that life is worthwhile and that, in its most trying and burdensome phases, it is only following a divine pattern of stress and release, patience and compensation, disappointment and hope, the normal process of growth that makes for fulfillment of destiny. There is always something to live for, is the gospel of Spring.

But the Lord of nature overlooks nothing. He stirs Spring poetry in every heart. The beauty of life is too overwhelming to escape some measure of individual emotional response. In the shining newness of Spring, everyone is stirred by recollections of good that has been lived, with zest of immediate living and the promise of life's infinite flexibility and continuance.

Even those held in the wintry compulsion of human vicissitude are encouraged to look to brighter horizons. While there's life, there is hope—and with the Spring God renews His covenant with man for blessed survival.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

THE PSYCHOLOGICAL ASPECT OF DIETING

EATING is an enjoyable duty. It is a baby's first pleasure and, thruout the years, the majority of us find the experience loses none of its charm. Perhaps the explanation lies in the fact that the consumption of food furnishes more than nutriment; in many instances, a feeling of security is provided also.

It is easy to comprehend the feeling of tension created when the average-person is told by his physician, after a checkup, that a diet is necessary. The patient with edema may feel that meals without salt will make life, too, lose its savor. But after the sufferer understands that it is the sodium fraction that holds fluid in the tissues, and that potassium chloride may be employed for flavoring, he is much encouraged.

In like manner, the housewife who is an excellent cook will be dismayed at the thought of a gall bladder regimen. Visions of abstinence from highly seasoned and fried dishes, rich gravies, and luscious pastries will make her rebellious, particularly if she continues to prepare them for the other members of the family. Eventually, however, she will be convinced that freedom from discomfort is worth the price. The victim of any chronic disease, such as diabetes, is inclined to become resentful and react with emotion to changed eating habits. There is no doubt that dieting is a handicap but, by taking an intelligent attitude, the nuisance can be minimized.

In other words, the success or failure of the procedure in various disorders depends on the ability to adjust to an altered routine. Unless the motivation is there, the proper outlook cannot be acquired. Obesity is a good illustration. A recent article on the subject in this column brought thousands of letters, asking for the reducing chart. A moderate percentage of these readers stated that in spite of rigid restrictions on previous attempts, they were unable to slim down. I can't help but be skeptical for, except in the small number in which glandular deficiency is present or water metabolism is disturbed, fat will not be retained on a low caloric intake. If fuel is not provided, the tissues must call on the body's reserve to keep going. Somewhere along the line there is a slip-up—a nibble here and a bite there.

Babcock tells of an adolescent who was much too heavy. Diets and injections had proved useless and it was not until the whole story was known that the key was found. There was a conflict between the apparently solicitous mother and this child, a state of affairs understood by neither. The mother had wished for a son and unconsciously resented the daughter. Altho she complained to the physician that the daughter was too stout, she took delight in baking mouth-watering cookies and hiding them where she knew the girl could find them. The youngster was old enough to know better but she felt the antagonism instinctively and gleefully gobbled the cakes as a compensation for the feeling of rejection.

Many persons resort to food in difficult situations in the same way that others have recourse to alcohol as an escape mechanism. Since some overweight individuals have narrow interests, an incentive must be provided in order to turn the craving toward constructive patterns. Thus a reducing program is more likely to work if the underlying emotional disturbance is corrected.

COULD BE

Mrs. W. J. writes: Can you explain my being awakened from sleep by a sound or sensation of air passing thru my ears? Could this be gas or indigestion?

REPLY

Surely there are no jet propelled planes overhead. There is no connection between the ears and the intestine. It is conceivable, however, that the sound originates in the bowel and because the ear is against the pillow, the vibration may be felt plainly.

It Says Here

By BOB HOPE

President Truman's recent visit to Mexico was so successful Mexican President Aleman has promised to return the visit this spring. This is being viewed with great expectations and is causing quite a bit of excitement at the Capitol—right now President Truman and a Senate investigation committee are busy dusting the guest room. Aleman will be a guest of the White House and I can just see it now—three towels hung neatly on the rack—His—Hers—and Amigo. He's making the trip on his special train "The Super Gaucho" accompanied by a huge staff of interpreters — and after hearing "Zippidy Doo Dah" and "Glocca Morra" who can blame him?

Aleman's visit to this country promises to be the event of the season and a tremendous reception is being planned for him—they're going to hold a nationwide siesta in his honor. He'll attend a session of Congress during his stay and we hope to show him what a real bullfight looks like.

And of course the White House plans to have a showing of my latest picture "My Favorite Brunette". It'll certainly be a novelty—I was never hit with Enchiladas before.

Everyone's very happy to have a visitor from Mexico, but all our ballplayers will be under lock and key. Just in case.

The true purpose of this visit had not as yet been announced to the public, but being on the inside I can tell you — I have it from reliable sources that President Aleman is coming here to borrow a cup of sugar.

USA Should Exact Advance Terms From Greeks And British Before Giving Aid; Greek Baby Must Later Be Placed On United Nations Doorstep

Says DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON, March 20.—A Latin American Ambassador was talking off-the-record about North American diplomacy. A very sage diplomat and a very good friend of the USA, he spoke frankly.

The trouble with your diplomats," he said, "is that they expect the representatives of other countries to act as gentlemen. You expect them to be just as honest as you are. Instead they are tough, shrewd, sometimes very dishonest bargainers. Yet your diplomats haven't learned bare-knuckle diplomacy."

Early in the war, the late Frank Knox, then Secretary of the Navy, complained of the same thing. Talking to a small group of newsmen, he revealed that the United States was not exacting post-war terms from its Allies during the war. We were waiting, like perfect gentlemen, until the war was over.

Sumner Welles, then Undersecretary of State, felt the same way. As early as 1942, the first year of the war, Welles began setting up an American commission to work on the terms of the peace. Like any practical lawyer, he believed in collecting Uncle Sam's fees while his clients' tears were hot. But he was overruled—and later kicked out—by Cordell Hull. In the files of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee is a significant letter from Hull stating that the terms of peace must wait until the end of the war. That tragic mistake accounts for much of our trouble today. Ex-Allies; their tears no longer hot, their backs no longer to the wall at Stalingrad, and the Champs Elysee no longer patrolled by enemy troops, are in no mood to bargain.

Rectify Mistakes Now

The only reason for crying over spilt milk at this time is to prevent more milk from being spilled. And at the moment we are embarking on a vital new chapter of foreign policy, apparently without fixing our terms in advance.

Congress seems certain to approve the Truman aid-to-Greece proposal—and it should. The chips are now down and the USA is playing the international game for keeps.

However, since we are going into this cutthroat game with our eyes open, there are certain terms Congress may want to exact from the British and Greek Governments—in advance. Here are some of them:

1. Cancellation of British loans to Greece. Some of the loans made by British banks carry an interest rate up to 16 per cent, and have constituted one of the main obligations of the Greek Government. If British loans are not canceled, it merely means that American taxpayers will be paying interest to British banks.

2. Exit of the controversial, Fascist-minded King of Greece. As long as George is on the throne, Greek guerrillas will never surrender.

3. Organization of a middle-of-the-road coalition government. Some of the Democratic Greek opposition leaders who have recently conferred with the State Department could help form such a coalition.

4. Early exit of the British Army, as soon as American-trained Greeks can take over.

5. Heavier taxation for wealthy Greeks. Thousands of wealthy Greeks, many of them living abroad, contribute relatively little in taxes to their Government.

Transfer To United Nations

Finally, we owe it to ourselves and to the pledge we took as a member of the United Nations gradually to transfer the American burden in Greece to the United Nations. While the United Nations may not be immediately equipped to unsnarl the Greek tangle, once the United States has unsnarled the main tangles, the UN should be able to iron out the rest. Furthermore, we are obligated to consult and advise with the United Nations. This should begin immediately, together with word that the UN should get ready to take over later.

Not only does the American taxpayer not want to carry the Greek burden indefinitely, but the United Nations, if it is to gain strength, must learn to use its wobbly legs—and the sooner the better.

Taxing Wealthy Greeks

Fiorello LaGuardia had some interesting things to say the other day about the taxing of wealthy Greeks. Talking to friends, the ex-Mayor of New York told how he had conferred with the Premier of Greece while in Athens and proposed to him that the thousands of wealthy Greeks living in Egypt, North Africa and other Mediterranean sectors bear some of the burden of their mother country's plight.

LaGuardia pointed out that these Greeks had built up large fortunes, sometimes at the expense of Greece, though living outside of Greece, and they should be taxed. The Greek Premier, however, was not enthusiastic.

"Money," he replied, "knows no national boundaries."

That ended the conversation.

Greeks Hate British

Few people realize how bitter most Greeks are against the British. Here is one incident, told by an Amberican UNRRA worker, which illustrates why.

After the British took over Athens, they imposed a curfew requiring all Athenians to be off the streets after 7 p. m. Two nights later in front of the Acropol Palace Hotel, where the UNRRA mission was quartered, a Greek peddler had made a sale—just before seven. Because of inflation, the counting of the paper money took a minute or so, and by the time the peddler had gathered up his bundles, it was a few minutes past 7 p. m.

At that moment a British armored car came around the corner. UNRRA workers were horrified to see it riddle the peddler with a machine-gun bullets. He died in his tracks.

Note—This column will supply the American eyewitness to this tragedy to any committee of Congress that is interested.

PITCHING HORSESHOES by Billy Rose

I don't know how the conversation got started. Anyhow, over the coffee, we were discussing, "What is the one thing mankind can't do without?"

"The ability to think and reason," said the son of our hostess, down from Yale for the weekend.

"We've gotten along without that for centuries," I pontificated. "I vote for the sense of humor. Life would be one long Bette Davis picture without it."

"Love," said our attractive hostess. The other women at the table nodded like Christmas tigers.

Billy Rose

A dramatist whose last two plays had been distinguished flops raised a pony of brandy and remarked, "The stuff in this glass makes the entire argument unnecessary."

"You are all wrong," said the father of our hostess, gently. "The one thing mankind cannot do without is sleep."

I looked at the old boy and saw him clearly for the first time. He had the eyes of a man who had seen too much. I was about to say, "If you're going to put it on that level, how about air, food and a pair of pants?" But I didn't say it. I remembered a certain night when sleep seemed like the most important thing in the world.

It was in Salzburg, about 15 months ago. I had been jeeping through Germany for several weeks, inspecting our Army recreation facilities. I hadn't slept much that month. At night, my head was full of what I had seen during the day—garbage piles which had once been cities, concentration camps with their lime pits and ovens, and the endless processions of punched-out people going nowhere.

The trip from Nuernberg to Salzburg had been particularly rugged. Every few miles along the autobahn, we would get to a blown-up bridge, and the driver would have to ad lib a detour. To make it a bit more complicated, it was snowing in Bavaria that day and there were no chains on the jeep.

At Army headquarters in Salzburg, I was welcomed by the young Special Service captain who had been assigned to wet-nurse me during my stay. "How about some dinner?" he smiled.

"Thanks," I mumbled. "If you don't mind, I'll have dinner for breakfast. Where do I sleep?"

He showed me to a double-decker wooden bunk and pointed to the top tier. The mattress would have stopped an .88.

It looked like another bad night. I knew that at three o'clock I'd be halfway through a pack of butts and again walking through the gas chambers at Dachau.

"I get air sick up that high," I wearily flipped. "Can't you find me a sissy bed, one with sheets?"

The Captain thought a minute. "I think I know one," he said. "But I'll have to get an okay from G-2."

He left. Five minutes later he was back. "You got yourself a bed," he said.

He drove me to a large villa about ten miles outside Salzburg. We pulled up in front of a high stone wall. I followed him through the grounds into a big hourse. On the second floor, he opened the door into a huge bedroom. "Sweet dreams" he said. "I'll come by for you in the morning."

The bed was the biggest and loveliest hunk of sleeping ground I had ever seen. I ripped off my clothes and slid under the covers. A few seconds later, I was in a moonlit world where silver birds were singing like Lily Pons. A lady in white was coming toward me through black patent leather trees.

Twelve hours later, the Captain nudged me. "How about some lunch?" he said. "Feel better?"

"I think I'll live," I chirped. "This is the finest bed I ever slept in. Whose is it?"

"Glad you didn't ask last night," smiled the young Captain. "On the way out, you mentioned you'd been to Dachau. You might not have slept so well had I told you this was Himmler's house and you were sleeping in Heinrich's bed."

Law To Prohibit Employer Or Union Being Coerced Held Need

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON, March 20.—Just how far compulsion and coercion is to be the vehicle by which a governmental agency shall force employers to agree with unions against their own better judgment is the real issue which Congress faces in repairing the mischief done to the American economic system by the National Labor Relations Board under the Wagner Act in the last ten years.

The fair-minded American often is lulled by such innocent phrases as "collective bargaining" into thinking that all the controversy about the Wagner Act revolves around a refusal to let employees form a union. He would be surprised if he could read the thousands of capricious and arbitrary interpretations rendered by the labor board that deprive citizens of their fundamental rights.

No tolitarian government, in issuing its decrees, has offered any more specious reasoning than lies behind the distortion of the powers granted by the labor board's open defense of its arbitrary decisions in the lengthy document it submitted recently to the Senate labor committee.

Although the Wagner law does not compel the employer or the union to agree on anything when they sit down to confer and negotiate, the labor board says, in effect, that the employer must agree or face a charge of unfair labor practice for "refusal to bargain."

Denies Forcing Employer

The board denies that in all cases it requires the employer to bargain and leaves the bewildered citizen to find out just when he may expect such compulsion and when he may escape from it. The board has insisted that an employer must bargain in good faith but that a union need not do so. The board has recently issued a decision implying, in effect, that a union must bargain in good faith, but there is no telling when there will be another change. Just now, while it is under fire, the labor board's decisions are like railroad timetables—subject to change without notice.

There is nothing in the law which makes the reaching of an agreement compulsory nor does it place on the employer the obligation to bargain "in good faith," but the labor board has read into the law such an obligation.

"This does not mean," says the board in its statement to the senate committee, "as is frequently and carelessly asserted, that an employer must make concessions. A counterproposal and a concession are vastly different things; wholly valid counterproposals may merely state existing conditions. The failure to make a counterproposal (as distinguished from a concession) may be evidence of bad faith—that is, of an intent under no circumstances to reach an agreement—but that is all. And we have found in many cases that an employer has bargained in good faith even though he made no counterproposals, let alone concessions."

What the foregoing means is that a government agency seeks to apply a "mechanical test to a state of mind" and that the rights of a citizen who is an employer to decide what he can or cannot grant in a labor union negotiation are limited to what this or some future labor board may decide is a "counterproposal" or a "concession."

Board's Disingenuous Advice

When a member of Congress proposes to amend the Wagner law on the basis that, if collective bargaining means an obligation to negotiate in good faith such an obligation should apply equally to the labor unions, the labor board comes forth with this piece of disingenuous advice to congress:

"In all candor we must express a doubt whether, in practice, such an amendment would prove particularly useful to the employers who urge it, because it merely imposes upon labor organizations the obligation to perform the very function that they were created to perform."

What the labor board fails to see is that its own decisions have been used as a means of blackmailing small employers into submission by union threats to raise a question of "refusal to bargain" and few employers can afford to add to their expenses the cost of litigating matters before the labor board.

The law, of course, should not impose any obligation that could even remotely be considered as compelling an agreement. What is needed is an amendment prohibiting the labor board from compelling either an employer or a union to be coerced into an agreement through the use of threats by either party to bring charges of "unfair labor practices" before the labor board once the union has been recognized and negotiations have begun.

THESE DAYS

By George E. Sokolsky

NO MATTER what form the discussion takes, the Truman Doctrine means only one thing, namely, that the United States has assumed the obligation and responsibility of stemming the tide of Soviet imperialism. Secretary of State Marshall is pursuing this policy at the Moscow Conference. His phrase, "Retreat to Yalta," is the final veto upon the Roosevelt-Stalin secret agreements at Yalta to make Soviet Russia the master of Europe.

Yalta was one of the blackest crimes in the history of man, and this writer is proud that he so reported it at the time of its occurrence that Western civilization was betrayed at Yalta.

On February 16, 1945, I wrote:

". . . I do not begrudge Stalin his achievements. They are now historical and all opinions on all political questions have to be revised in the face of the new effort to unify Europe under Stalin. He may or may not succeed in this task. Two wars in a quarter of a century, vicious propaganda and degrading materialistic education in all countries and horrifying confusion of principle and purposes in Great Britain and America have paved his way smooth. Now, we move off from there. Yalta has become another European landmark before which stands the solitary figure of Stalin."

To all of this, President Truman has now called a halt. It is obvious, more from Marshall's position at Moscow than from the discussion of Greek and Turkish aid, that the Truman Doctrine insists that no further territory is open to Soviet imperialism, that no more peoples are to be enslaved to Russia's expanding domination, that wars may not be waged by ideological penetration and that this country will safeguard those peoples who wish to be safeguarded.

No such crusade should have been necessary, and it would not have been necessary had the United States Senate demanded that President Roosevelt conduct his relations with foreign countries constitutionally. This would have required treaties confirmed by the Senate and textually made public when submitted to the Senate. Nothing else is binding upon the United States. What Roosevelt said to Stalin at Yalta is private conversation because no Treaty came out of that meeting. It was only a declaration. The United States of America is in no way bound by such private conversations.

The Russians will not make war over the Truman Doctrine because they must have anticipated and discounted the awakening of the American people and the restoration of dignity to the American government. They have beyond doubt tried to move as speedily as possible with the object of getting as much as possible before the Americans grew weary of insult and abuse. Surely they have by now exceeded the limits of their own expectations. This is the moment for a N. E. P. retreat, to which the Russians are accustomed, that is, to take a step backward in the hope of greater progress at a future date. At Moscow they are now probing to discover a soft spot and if none is discovered, they will sulk and they will denounce. But they will not go to war because they cannot. Were they able to fight now, there would today be no Moscow Conference.

It is difficult for me to see how the United States can do without the Truman Doctrine. In fact, it is at least five years too late. The fact that it is enunciated in relationship to Greece and Turkey has nothing to do with the principle of the thing. It should have been enunciated at Quebec, at Teheran, at Yalta. It should have been the minimum basis for American participation in the war. Those who believed that the conduct of the war permitted or even required a debasement of American honor and dignity failed to realize the historic consequences in blood and wealth of their infamy.

It is to this that the Truman Doctrine calls a halt. This Doctrine, as Senator Vandenberg so clearly stated in his rebuke to Gael Sullivan, requires thought, debate and honest acceptance rather than acknowledgment by the osmosis of propaganda. But accepted it will be by the overwhelming support of those who believe that the United States is more than a money bag with a sieve at its bottom.

Heart Hunger

The two greatest hungers in the world are hunger of the body and hunger of the heart. But there are more people in the world with the latter than the former, terrible as is the former. I have experienced both in their acute form!

People who have never experienced the hunger of the body, have traveled the earth, built mansions, met the famous, and entertained in lavish fashion—without appearing in the slightest degree the hunger of heart, which they most craved to satisfy.

Fortunes have been spent in the pursuit of this one thing — but money does not, and cannot, give sustenance to the hungry heart. Something else is necessary. Love, perhaps, may do it, or some simple act of appreciation may give to it a joyous meal! The woman, in the Bible story, who gave her last mite, must have experienced immediate spiritual wealth—her heart hunger fully assuaged.

There are people who have never known bodily hunger from the time that they were born—but I would like to know of one who could honestly say that he had never hungered in heart. It seems to be a universal hunger, for which no one remedy has yet been revealed. There are, of course, sedatives, like an understanding friend, and often —religion. Losing onesself in the beauties, wonders, and mysteries of Nature, also helps. But, on the whole, heart hunger remains as something to which we are all heir, and which we must accept and handle with patience and courage.

What do the displaced and enslaved people of the world care about territorial boundaries and sovereignty? They only want a home and a decent chance to live and to express themselves. Their heart hunger is tragic. There is no problem in this world, at the present time, so important as that one which shall offer to them hope and an uplift of a practical nature. No political or economic problem is so fraught with possible service to all mankind as through the relief of these unfortunate people.

I heard a great world reporter say recently that the one hope of this world, in its confused condition, was a return to the Sermon on the Mount and the Golden Rule. Imagine what that could do to you and to me — and to the world at large!

Two Express Views On Greek-Turkey Proposal

In the opinion of Senator Henry Cabot Lodge, Jr., a Massachusetts Republican, "The last hope of ever organizing peace would vanish," if Congress rejects President Truman's effort to check Communism. Sen. Lodge was, of course, referring to the Greek-Turkish situation, urging support of the President's program.

Senator Lodge admits that, to the nation, this is an "unhappy and sickening moment," and it doesn't like "any part" of the decision to be made. But he is convinced the one alternative that cannot be taken is to refuse to make any decision. He said:

"We can be sure of one thing: Weakness will not avoid trouble. There is a much better chance that strength, guided by virtuous motives, will do so." Appeasement did not prevent the wars with Germany and Japan. It has failed to win the co-operation of Russia. Concessions to the Soviets only encouraged new and unreasonable demands at the expense of weaker peoples. Mr. Truman's program seeks to contain Communism within its present boundaries.

The essential significance of the President's proposal is that once committed to this policy, there is no turning back. It must be followed until the question has been determined whether democracy and Communism can live together, or until one or the other is destroyed. There is no use deluding ourselves into the belief there is any other way out once the step is taken.

That is one point of view in support of Mr. Truman's bid for $400,000,000 to be poured into Greece and Turkey. Former Ambassador Joseph P. Kennedy has another as reported by Arthur Krock in the New York Times. Here is a summation of that view: Mr. Kennedy feels that the United States' resources, while huge, are not infinite. They can be exhausted. In other words our 140,000,000 people cannot hope, with the best will in the world, to feed, clothe and otherwise support themselves plus the approximately 2,000,000,000 other people on earth.

Mr. Kennedy also points out that Communism, which advertises itself as the answer to all the poor man's troubles, has had a fair tryout up to now in only one country—Russia. The Russian Communists take every precaution to keep the rest of the world from getting at the truth about what goes on in Russia—whether it is a paradise the Red propaganda makes it out to be, or whether it is the poverty-stricken country which cannot hope to approach Western European or U. S. living standards as long as the great planner in the Kremlin insists in doing all the thinking for the Russian people. On the other hand, our domestic system has to work in the open. Therefore, all our faults can be and are played up by Communist propagandists everywhere.

Because of this, Mr. Kennedy takes the stand of why not let the Communists take over as many European countries as they can? Let the comrades, he says, try to make good on those promises of instant and endless happiness and comfort for the people of every country that will entrust its fate to them. In that event, Mr. Kennedy goes on, the peoples of these countries will find in a few years that Communism is a fraud and a phony, and that it cannot deliver bread and the essentials of life in any such quantities as democratic capitalism can and does deliver.

Mr. Kennedy feels that while various European peoples are finding out about Communism the hard way we should conserve our system. Improve it, and increase its benefits to more and more of our own people. Eventually, he contends, it should dawn on European dupes of the Reds that democratic capitalism is far superior to Communism. He feels the downfall of the Communists in most if not all of Europe should then follow fairly fast. When these nations become ravaged by Reds, and Communism begins to crawl back toward its original Russian home, we could move in with well considered, businesslike loans to help those disillusioned peoples set up their economies along democratic and capitalistic systems. Mr. Kennedy goes further, and advocates shutting off food relief to any nation during this interlude of letting the Communists stew in their own juice.

Mr. Kennedy feels that the political-loan policy Mr. Truman advocates can only lead to more and more loans in more and more countries, if to nothing worse with the net result to weaken rather than strengthen this nation. There you have it. Take your choice.

Spring, Most Important Development Of Year, Comes

Another season is born today!

Spring, the most important development of the year, is not news. It is essentially anticipated, indefinite in its advent and entirely unreliable as a fact until it has grown upon mankind beyond its due appreciation. Logically, it is the beginning of the year, considering years as installments of life.

To start the year with Winter suggests beginning to live when one is old, though some do. Thus Spring serves supremely to enable man to get his bearings and to realize the meaning of his existence. It is nature's kindliest service to man.

Man needs the Spring to live right—that is, to live consciously, courageously, cheerfully and practically. If he lives in the pact, he does not live at all. If he lives in the present, he needs to live also in the future. This is where Spring comes in. Nature insists that everybody relax, if not physically at least mentally.

Man is reminded that life is worthwhile and that, in its most trying and burdensome phases, it is only following a divine pattern of stress and release, patience and compensation, disappointment and hope, the normal process of growth that makes for fulfillment of destiny. There is always something to live for, is the gospel of Spring.

But the Lord of nature overlooks nothing. He stirs Spring poetry in every heart. The beauty of life is too overwhelming to escape some measure of individual emotional response. In the shining newness of Spring, everyone is stirred by recollections of good that has been lived, with zest of immediate living and the promise of life's infinite flexibility and continuance.

Even those held in the wintry compulsion of human vicissitude are encouraged to look to brighter horizons. While there's life, there is hope—and with the Spring God renews His covenant with man for blessed survival.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

THE PSYCHOLOGICAL ASPECT OF DIETING

EATING is an enjoyable duty. It is a baby's first pleasure and, thruout the years, the majority of us find the experience loses none of its charm. Perhaps the explanation lies in the fact that the consumption of food furnishes more than nutriment; in many instances, a feeling of security is provided also.

It is easy to comprehend the feeling of tension created when the average-person is told by his physician, after a checkup, that a diet is necessary. The patient with edema may feel that meals without salt will make life, too, lose its savor. But after the sufferer understands that it is the sodium fraction that holds fluid in the tissues, and that potassium chloride may be employed for flavoring, he is much encouraged.

In like manner, the housewife who is an excellent cook will be dismayed at the thought of a gall bladder regimen. Visions of abstinence from highly seasoned and fried dishes, rich gravies, and luscious pastries will make her rebellious, particularly if she continues to prepare them for the other members of the family. Eventually, however, she will be convinced that freedom from discomfort is worth the price. The victim of any chronic disease, such as diabetes, is inclined to become resentful and react with emotion to changed eating habits. There is no doubt that dieting is a handicap but, by taking an intelligent attitude, the nuisance can be minimized.

In other words, the success or failure of the procedure in various disorders depends on the ability to adjust to an altered routine. Unless the motivation is there, the proper outlook cannot be acquired. Obesity is a good illustration. A recent article on the subject in this column brought thousands of letters, asking for the reducing chart. A moderate percentage of these readers stated that in spite of rigid restrictions on previous attempts, they were unable to slim down. I can't help but be skeptical for, except in the small number in which glandular deficiency is present or water metabolism is disturbed, fat will not be retained on a low caloric intake. If fuel is not provided, the tissues must call on the body's reserve to keep going. Somewhere along the line there is a slip-up—a nibble here and a bite there.

Babcock tells of an adolescent who was much too heavy. Diets and injections had proved useless and it was not until the whole story was known that the key was found. There was a conflict between the apparently solicitous mother and this child, a state of affairs understood by neither. The mother had wished for a son and unconsciously resented the daughter. Altho she complained to the physician that the daughter was too stout, she took delight in baking mouth-watering cookies and hiding them where she knew the girl could find them. The youngster was old enough to know better but she felt the antagonism instinctively and gleefully gobbled the cakes as a compensation for the feeling of rejection.

Many persons resort to food in difficult situations in the same way that others have recourse to alcohol as an escape mechanism. Since some overweight individuals have narrow interests, an incentive must be provided in order to turn the craving toward constructive patterns. Thus a reducing program is more likely to work if the underlying emotional disturbance is corrected.

COULD BE

Mrs. W. J. writes: Can you explain my being awakened from sleep by a sound or sensation of air passing thru my ears? Could this be gas or indigestion?

REPLY

Surely there are no jet propelled planes overhead. There is no connection between the ears and the intestine. It is conceivable, however, that the sound originates in the bowel and because the ear is against the pillow, the vibration may be felt plainly.

It Says Here

By BOB HOPE

President Truman's recent visit to Mexico was so successful Mexican President Aleman has promised to return the visit this spring. This is being viewed with great expectations and is causing quite a bit of excitement at the Capitol—right now President Truman and a Senate investigation committee are busy dusting the guest room. Aleman will be a guest of the White House and I can just see it now—three towels hung neatly on the rack—His—Hers—and Amigo. He's making the trip on his special train "The Super Gaucho" accompanied by a huge staff of interpreters — and after hearing "Zippidy Doo Dah" and "Glocca Morra" who can blame him?

Aleman's visit to this country promises to be the event of the season and a tremendous reception is being planned for him—they're going to hold a nationwide siesta in his honor. He'll attend a session of Congress during his stay and we hope to show him what a real bullfight looks like.

And of course the White House plans to have a showing of my latest picture "My Favorite Brunette". It'll certainly be a novelty—I was never hit with Enchiladas before.

Everyone's very happy to have a visitor from Mexico, but all our ballplayers will be under lock and key. Just in case.

The true purpose of this visit had not as yet been announced to the public, but being on the inside I can tell you — I have it from reliable sources that President Aleman is coming here to borrow a cup of sugar.

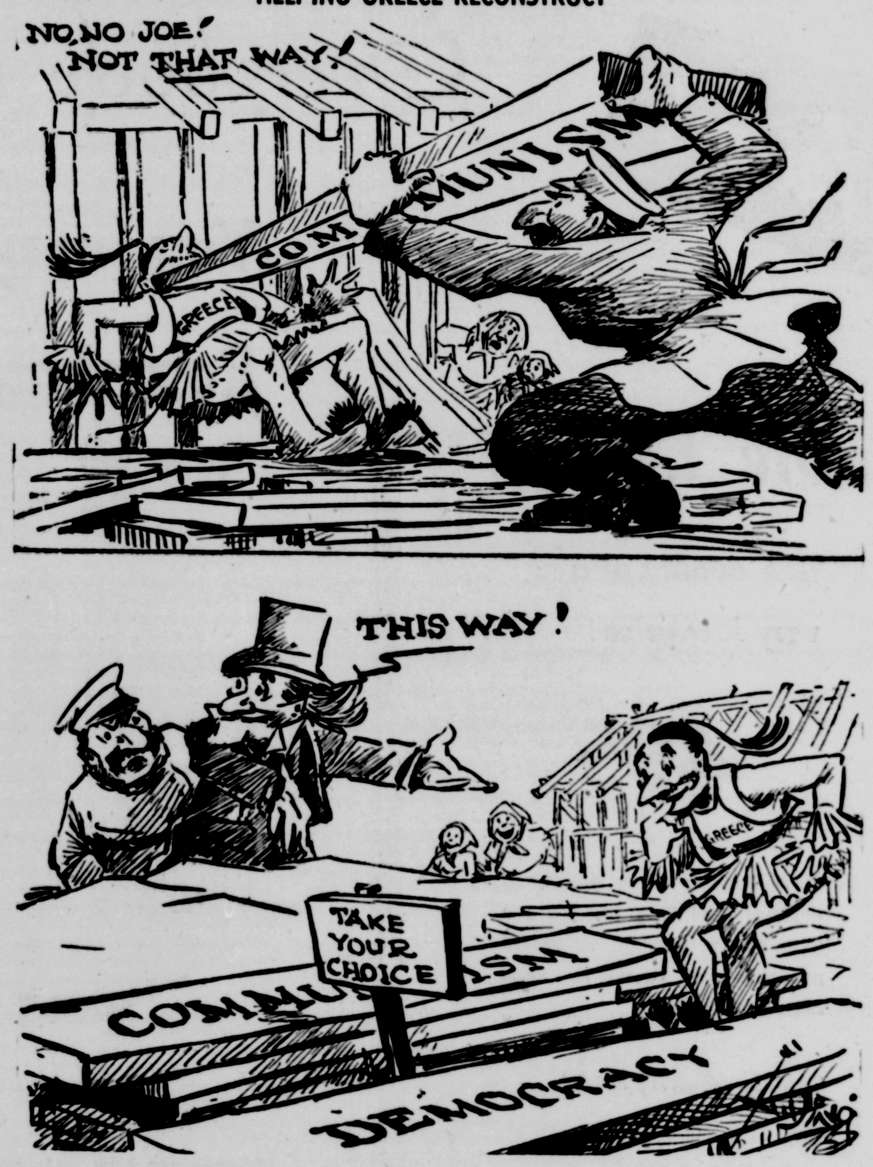
HELPING GREECE RECONSTRUCT



The Washington Merry-Go-Round

USA Should Exact Advance Terms From Greeks And British Before Giving Aid; Greek Baby Must Later Be Placed On United Nations Doorstep

Says DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON, March 20.—A Latin American Ambassador was talking off-the-record about North American diplomacy. A very sage diplomat and a very good friend of the USA, he spoke frankly.

The trouble with your diplomats," he said, "is that they expect the representatives of other countries to act as gentlemen. You expect them to be just as honest as you are. Instead they are tough, shrewd, sometimes very dishonest bargainers. Yet your diplomats haven't learned bare-knuckle diplomacy."

Early in the war, the late Frank Knox, then Secretary of the Navy, complained of the same thing. Talking to a small group of newsmen, he revealed that the United States was not exacting post-war terms from its Allies during the war. We were waiting, like perfect gentlemen, until the war was over.

Sumner Welles, then Undersecretary of State, felt the same way. As early as 1942, the first year of the war, Welles began setting up an American commission to work on the terms of the peace. Like any practical lawyer, he believed in collecting Uncle Sam's fees while his clients' tears were hot. But he was overruled—and later kicked out—by Cordell Hull. In the files of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee is a significant letter from Hull stating that the terms of peace must wait until the end of the war. That tragic mistake accounts for much of our trouble today. Ex-Allies; their tears no longer hot, their backs no longer to the wall at Stalingrad, and the Champs Elysee no longer patrolled by enemy troops, are in no mood to bargain.

Rectify Mistakes Now

The only reason for crying over spilt milk at this time is to prevent more milk from being spilled. And at the moment we are embarking on a vital new chapter of foreign policy, apparently without fixing our terms in advance.

Congress seems certain to approve the Truman aid-to-Greece proposal—and it should. The chips are now down and the USA is playing the international game for keeps.

However, since we are going into this cutthroat game with our eyes open, there are certain terms Congress may want to exact from the British and Greek Governments—in advance. Here are some of them:

1. Cancellation of British loans to Greece. Some of the loans made by British banks carry an interest rate up to 16 per cent, and have constituted one of the main obligations of the Greek Government. If British loans are not canceled, it merely means that American taxpayers will be paying interest to British banks.

2. Exit of the controversial, Fascist-minded King of Greece. As long as George is on the throne, Greek guerrillas will never surrender.

3. Organization of a middle-of-the-road coalition government. Some of the Democratic Greek opposition leaders who have recently conferred with the State Department could help form such a coalition.

4. Early exit of the British Army, as soon as American-trained Greeks can take over.

5. Heavier taxation for wealthy Greeks. Thousands of wealthy Greeks, many of them living abroad, contribute relatively little in taxes to their Government.

Tr nsfer To United Nations

Finally, we owe it to ourselves and to the pledge we took as a member of the United Nations gradually to transfer the American burden in Greece to the United Nations. While the United Nations may not be immediately equipped to unsnarl the Greek tangle, once the United States has unsnarled the main tangles, the UN should be able to iron out the rest. Furthermore, we are obligated to consult and advise with the United Nations. This should begin immediately, together with word that the UN should get ready to take over later.

Not only does the American taxpayer not want to carry the Greek burden indefinitely, but the United Nations, if it is to gain strength, must learn to use its wobbly legs—and the sooner the better.

Taxing Wealthy Greeks

Fiorello LaGuardia had some interesting things to say the other day about the taxing of wealthy Greeks. Talking to friends, the ex-Mayor of New York told how he had conferred with the Premier of Greece while in Athens and proposed to him that the thousands of wealthy Greeks living in Egypt, North Africa and other Mediterranean sectors bear some of the burden of their mother country's plight.

LaGuardia pointed out that these Greeks had built up large fortunes, sometimes at the expense of Greece, though living outside of Greece, and they should be taxed. The Greek Premier, however, was not enthusiastic.

"Money," he replied, "knows no national boundaries."

That ended the conversation.

Greeks Hate British

Few people realize how bitter most Greeks are against the British. Here is one incident, told by an American UNRRA worker, which illustrates why.

After the British took over Athens, they imposed a curfew requiring all Athenians to be off the streets after 7 p. m. Two nights later in front of the Acropol Palace Hotel, where the UNRRA mission was quartered, a Greek peddler had made a sale—just before seven. Because of inflation, the counting of the paper money took a minute or so, and by the time the peddler had gathered up his bundles, it was a few minutes past 7 p. m.

At that moment a British armored car came around the corner. UNRRA workers were horrified to see it riddle the peddler with a machine-gun bullets. He died in his tracks.

Note—This column will supply the American eyewitness to this tragedy to any committee of Congress that is interested.

PITCHING HORSESHOES by Billy Rose

I don't know how the conversation got started. Anyhow, over the coffee, we were discussing, "What is the one thing mankind can't do without?"

"The ability to think and reason," said the son of our hostess, down from Yale for the weekend.

"We've gotten along without that for centuries," I pontificated. "I vote for the sense of humor. Life would be one long Bette Davis picture without it."

"Love," said our attractive hostess. The other women at the table nodded like Christmas tigers.

A dramatist whose last two plays had been distinguished flops raised a pony o brandy and remarked, "The Billy Rose stuff in this glass makes the entire argument unnecessary."

"You are all wrong," said the father of our hostess, gently. "The one thing mankind cannot do without is sleep."

I looked at the old boy and saw him clearly for the first time. He had the eyes of a man who had seen too much. I was about to say, "If you're going to put it on that level, how about air, food and a pair of pants?" But I didn't say it. I remembered a certain night when sleep seemed like the most important thing in the world.

It was in Salzburg, about 15 months ago. I had been jeeping through Germany for several weeks, inspecting our Army recreation facilities. I hadn't slept much that month. At night, my head was full of what I had seen during the day—garbage piles which had once been cities, concentration camps with their lime pits and ovens, and the endless processions of punched-out people going nowhere.

The trip from Nuernberg to Salzburg had been particularly rugged. Every few miles along the autobahn, we would get to a blown-up bridge, and the driver would have to ad lib a detour. To make it a bit more complicated, it was snowing in Bavaria that day and there were no chains on the jeep.

At Army headquarters in Salzburg, I was welcomed by the young Special Service captain who had been assigned to wet-nurse me during my stay. "How about some dinner?" he smiled.

"Thanks," I mumbled. "If you don't mind, I'll have dinner for breakfast. Where do I sleep?"

He showed me to a double-decker wooden bunk and pointed to the top tier. The mattress would have stopped an .88.

It looked like another bad night. I knew that at three o'clock I'd be halfway through a pack of butts and again walking through the gas chambers at Dachau.

"I get air sick up that high," I wearily flipped. "Can't you find me a sissy bed, one with sheets?"

The Captain thought a minute. "I think I know one," he said. "But I'll have to get an okay from G-2."

He left. Five minutes later he was back. "You got yourself a bed," he said.

He drove me to a large villa about ten miles outside Salzburg. We pulled up in front of a high stone wall. I followed him through the grounds into a big hourse. On the second floor, he opened the door into a huge bedroom. "Sweet dreams" he said. "I'll come by for you in the morning."

The bed was the biggest and loveliest hunk of sleeping ground I had ever seen. I ripped off my clothes and slid under the covers. A few seconds later, I was in a moonlit world where silver birds were singing like Lily Pons. A lady in white was coming toward me through black patent leather trees.

Twelve hours later, the Captain nudged me. "How about some lunch?" he said. "Feel better?"

"I think I'll live," I chirped. "This is the finest bed I ever slept in. Whose is it?"

"Glad you didn't ask last night," smiled the young Captain. "On the way out, you mentioned you'd been to Dachau. You might not have slept so well had I told you this was Himmler's house and you were sleeping in Heinrich's bed."

Law To Prohibit Employer Or Union Being Coerced Held Need

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON, March 20.—Just how far compulsion and coercion is to be the vehicle by which a governmental agency shall force employers to agree with unions against their own better judgment is the real issue which Congress faces in repairing the mischief done to the American economic system by the National Labor Relations Board under the Wagner Act in the last ten years.

The fair-minded American often is lulled by such innocent phrases as "collective bargaining" into thinking that all the controversy about the Wagner Act revolves around a refusal to let employees form a union. He would be surprised if he could read the thousands of capricious and arbitrary interpretations rendered by the labor board that deprive citizens of their fundamental rights.

No tolitarian government, in issuing its decrees, has offered any more specious reasoning than lies behind the distortion of the powers granted by the labor board's open defense of its arbitrary decisions in the lengthy document it submitted recently to the Senate labor committee.

Although the Wagner law does not compel the employer or the union to agree on anything when they sit down to confer and negotiate, the labor board says, in effect, that the employer must agree or face a charge of unfair labor practice for "refusal to bargain."

Denies Forcing Employer

The board denies that in all cases it requires the employer to bargain and leaves the bewildered citizen to find out just when he may expect such compulsion and when he may escape from it. The board has insisted that an employer must bargain in good faith but that a union need not do so. The board has recently issued a decision implying, in effect, that a union must bargain in good faith, but there is no telling when there will be another change. Just now, while it is under fire, the labor board's decisions are like railroad timetables—subject to change without notice.

There is nothing in the law which makes the reaching of an agreement compulsory nor does it place on the employer the obligation to bargain "in good faith," but the labor board has read into the law such an obligation.

"This does not mean," says the board in its statement to the senate committee, "as is frequently and carelessly asserted, that an employer must make concessions. A counterproposal and a concession are vastly different things; wholly valid counterproposals may merely state existing conditions. The failure to make a counterproposal (as distinguished from a concession) may be evidence of bad faith—that is, of an intent under no circumstances to reach an agreement—but that is all. And we have found in many cases that an employer has bargained in good faith even though he made no counterproposals, let alone concessions."

What the foregoing means is that a government agency seeks to apply a "mechanical test to a state of mind" and that the rights of a citizen who is an employer to decide what he can or cannot grant in a labor union negotiation are limited to what this or some future labor board may decide is a "counterproposal" or a "concession."

Board's Disingenuous Advice

When a member of Congress proposes to amend the Wagner law on the basis that, if collective bargaining means an obligation to negotiate in good faith such an obligation should apply equally to the labor unions, the labor board comes forth with this piece of disingenuous advice to congress:

"In all candor we must express a doubt whether, in practice, such an amendment would prove particularly useful to the employers who urge it, because it merely imposes upon labor organizations the obligation to perform the very function that they were created to perform."

What the labor board fails to see is that its own decisions have been used as a means of blackmailing small employers into submission by union threats to raise a question of "refusal to bargain" and few employers can afford to add to their expenses the cost of litigating matters before the labor board.

The law, of course, should not impose any obligation that could even remotely be considered as compelling an agreement. What is needed is an amendment prohibiting the labor board from compelling either an employer or a union to be coerced into an agreement through the use of threats by either party to bring charges of "unfair labor practices" before the labor board once the union has been recognized and negotiations have begun.

THESE DAYS

By George E. Sokolsky

NO MATTER what form the discussion takes, the Truman Doctrine means only one thing, namely, that the United States has assumed the obligation and responsibility of stemming the tide of Soviet imperialism. Secretary of State Marshall is pursuing this policy at the Moscow Conference. His phrase, "Retreat to Yalta," is the final veto upon the Roosevelt-Stalin secret agreements at Yalta to make Soviet Russia the master of Europe.

Yalta was one of the blackest crimes in the history of man, and this writer is proud that he so reported it at the time of its occurrence that Western civilization was betrayed at Yalta.

On February 16, 1945, I wrote:

". . . I do not begrudge Stalin his achievements. They are now historical and all opinions on all political questions have to be revised in the face of the new effort to unify Europe under Stalin. He may or may not succeed in this task. Two wars in a quarter of a century, vicious propaganda and degrading materialistic education in all countries and horrifying confusion of principle and purposes in Great Britain and America have paved his way smooth. Now, we move off from there. Yalta has become another European landmark before which stands the solitary figure of Stalin."

To all of this, President Truman has now called a halt. It is obvious, more from Marshall's position at Moscow than from the discussion of Greek and Turkish aid, that the Truman Doctrine insists that no further territory is open to Soviet imperialism, that no more peoples are to be enslaved to Russia's expanding domination, that wars may not be waged by ideological penetration and that this country will safeguard those peoples who wish to be safeguarded.

No such crusade should have been necessary, and it would not have been necessary had the United States Senate demanded that President Roosevelt conduct his relations with foreign countries constitutionally. This would have required treaties confirmed by the Senate and textually made public when submitted to the Senate. Nothing else is binding upon the United States. What Roosevelt said to Stalin at Yalta is private conversation because no Treaty came out of that meeting. It was only a declaration. The United States of America is in no way bound by such private conversations.

The Russians will not make war over the Truman Doctrine because they must have anticipated and discounted the awakening of the American people and the restoration of dignity to the American government. They have beyond doubt tried to move as speedily as possible with the object of getting as much as possible before the Americans grew weary of insult and abuse. Surely they have by now exceeded the limits of their own expectations. This is the moment for a N. E. P. retreat, to which the Russians are accustomed, that is, to take a step backward in the hope of greater progress at a future date. At Moscow they are now probing to discover a soft spot and if none is discovered, they will sulk and they will denounce. But they will not go to war because they cannot. Were they able to fight now, there would today be no Moscow Conference.

It is difficult for me to see how the United States can do without the Truman Doctrine. In fact, it is at least five years too late. The fact that it is enunciated in relationship to Greece and Turkey has nothing to do with the principle of the thing. It should have been enunciated at Quebec, at Teheran, at Yalta. It should have been the minimum basis for American participation in the war. Those who believed that the conduct of the war permitted or even required a debasement of American honor and dignity failed to realize the historic consequences in blood and wealth of their infamy.

It is to this that the Truman Doctrine calls a halt. This Doctrine, as Senator Vandenberg so clearly stated in his rebuke to Gael Sullivan, requires thought, debate and honest acceptance rather than acknowledgment by the osmosis of propaganda. But accepted it will be by the overwhelming support of those who believe that the United States is more than a money bag with a sieve at its bottom.

California Develops Seven-Day House

MADISON, Calif. (AP)—People said there was a housing shortage, but the Clarks came from Missouri. They bought a vacant lot, worked six days, and on the seventh put the finishing touches on their modern cottage home.

Owner Otis Clark called on his uncle Noah Clark, now of Winters, Calif.; the two poured a foundation on Tuesday. Otis started immediately to tour all lumber yards and hardwares from Sacramento to Woodland to Winters to Madison, while Uncle Noah hammered and sawed. Eight days later Otis was moved in.

Uncle Noah said it was simple: "You can't let grass grow under your feet."

Grace Men's Bible Class Has Annual Father-Son Banquet

The Men's Bible Class of Grace Methodist Church held its annual father-son banquet, last night in Grace Community hall, with R. L. Teter serving as master of ceremonies and Ralph P. Wimer, assistant principal at Fort Hill High School, the principal speaker. In his talk on the association Mr. Wiemer stressed the importance of the home life and associates of the boys.

Extemporaneous speeches were given by Judge George Henderson Robert W. Young, James Conway, former tax collector; and Charles Stewart, register of wills.

Following the singing of one verse of "America," Rev. Arthur L. Hunter offered the invocation, and John Park, teacher, gave the address of welcome. The musical program included two selections by the Men's Bible Class Quartet, composed of William Gill, Virgil Stemple, John Park and Harry K. Poling; group singing, directed by James Stevenson; several duets by Prof. Arthur Thomas and William Plummer; a solo by Prof. Thomas and closed with the group singing of "Until We Meet Again," after which Rev. Mr. Hunter gave the benediction. The evening concluded with Mr. Park showing moving pictures of the class. Members of Circle 5 served the 150 guests, under the chairmanship of Mrs. Ernest T. Storer.

Robert Smith To Sing With Group From Frostburg

Robert Smith, senior at Allegany High School, will accompany the Maryland Singers of Frostburg State Teachers College, on a week's tour of the Great Lakes section and Canada. The group will leave Frostburg by bus, April 18. Included in the itinerary are Columbus, O., Detroit, and points in Canada.

Smith is a student of Prof. Maurice Matteson at Frostburg, and will do solo work with the group. He also participates in many music groups at Allegany including the choir, glee club, and octet, as will as dramatics and speaking contests. He also portrayed Marston in the senior class play, "Ten Little Indians," and won the third place in the finals of the speaking contest.

Allegany Seniors Choose Music Box As Theme Of Prom

Allegany High School Seniors will culminate their activities of the year with their prom on May 30. A "Music Box" theme has been chosen to make the dance one of musical memories of 1946-1947 year. The music box, in reality, will be Bill Grey's orchestra surrounded by a frame evoking the impression of a music box.

The dance will be held under a "sky" of azure blue, with a complementary background of American Beauty red and primrose yellow. Interspersed throughout the false seiling of crepe paper, will be shimmering musical notes and figures.

Patricia Anderson and Ernest Screen head the Decorations committee, which includes Elaine Diamond, Covas Sherred, Doris Davis, Thomas Jamison, James German, William Carson and Frances Allen.

The dance programs, to be constructed on the idea of a scroll of music, are under the chairmanship of Elaine Diamond.

Dr. M. L. Enders Urges Developing Stages Of Life

Rev. Martin Luther Enders, D.D., of First English Lutheran Church, Baltimore, was the speaker at the first annual Men's Dinner meeting of the Woman's Civic Club, held last night at the Ali Ghan Shrine Country Club. In his preliminary remarks, Dr. Enders said he felt, "as one who has come home and yet as one among strangers" and reminisced of his years spent in Cumberland.

Dr. Enders' talk dealt with the great era in American history of the present day, and said the answers to the question of how to preserve "for our children's children the bounties we have enjoyed," is found in developing to the fullest the three stages of life; the physical, mental and spiritual.

Following the salute to the flag and the singing of "The Star Spangled Banner," the invocation was given by Mrs. Nellie Wilson Footer, past president.

Mrs. Arthur C. Bright presided and welcomed the members and guests. The program was in charge of Mrs. William H. Longwell who presented Mrs. Harry F. Butler contralto, who sang, "O, Thou Billowy Harvest-Field," Rachmaninoff; "Sheep and Lambs," Sidney Homer; and "When I Have Sung My Songs," Ernest Charles; and as an encore, a Creole song, "My Banjo." She was accompanied at the piano by Mrs. Herbert Platt.

Souvenir programs were given as favors at the affair which was well attended. Arrangements for dinner were in charge of Mrs. Miles G. Thompson, Hospitality chairman.

REAL BEAUTIES—Admiring a bouquet of Talisman Roses at the International Flower Show, in New York, is pretty Jo-Anne Whitney, who graces the flowers with an added aura of beauty. Bloom and flower experts from distant parts of the world are attending the show, said to be the finest in many years and certainly since the end of the war.

Three Permits Are Issued; One Denied

Marie K. Holzshu secured a permit in the city engineer's office yesterday to build a one-story four-room house at 50 Oak Street at an estimated cost of $3,000.

The 25 by 28-foot structure will have a concrete block foundation and walls, and a composition roof. Work will be done by the owner.

Another permit was granted to the John I. Vandegrift Company to construct a storage building on the rear of a lot at 111 Cumberland Street at an estimated cost of $2,000. The one-story building, which will measure 30 by 64 feet, will have a concrete block foundation and walls and a built-up roof. Work will be done by the owner.

J. R. Dean, manager of National Radio Laboratories, secured a permit to use the second floor of a two-story concrete block building at the rear of 34 Virginia Avenue as a radio repair shop. The premises, owned by Trevor Jones, 933 Maryland Avenue, have been vacant about four years but were used for the same purpose prior to that time.

An appeal has been filed to the Board of Zoning Appeals by the General Outdoor Advertising Company to use a property at 306 Williams Street for construction of a two-car garage to house advertising trucks. Howard M. Spiker, agent for Mrs. Annie W. Craddock, 603 Louisiana Avenue, owner of the lot, filed the appeal when the company's application for an occupancy permit was denied because the property is located in a Residential B district.

The application stated that the lot is vacant except for two billboards. The proposed one-story garage would be located on the front of the lot along the property line and would measure 24 by 20 feet. It would be built of concrete and concrete block.

Solid color ties in subdued tones will soon replace the garnish wallpaper type of cravats prevailing now, says a style authority. However, we'll still get the other kind, come Christmas.

Garrett County Farm Bureau Incorporates

By GEORGE H. HANST

OAKLAND, Md., March 20 — The Garrett County Farm Bureau, organized in September, 1938, which has carried out a farm program in this county since that time, has now been incorporated, according to an announcement by William Winterberg, president. Mr. Winterberg stated it was felt that the organization could be of more service to the farm people since being incorporated, and it is the aim of all the officers and directors to work toward this goal.

A district meeting will be held March 26, at 10 a. m., at the Arlington hotel, near Grantsville. The county farm bureau officers and directors will be represented and plans will be discussed as to how the program of organization can reach more farm families. "In order for an organization of this type to be of the most benefit to the farm people, it is necessary for it to be represented in all sections of the county," he said.

Plans are being set up for a spring membership drive which probably will begin about the first of April. Details are to be announced at the district meeting.

Want Community Building

Some interest and agitation for a community building in Oakland is evident among a number of business men, particularly among members of the Fire Department who are anxious for a new fire house, according to Edward A. Shaffer, president of the fire company.

A meeting of members of a committee of the Fire Department with members of the Mayor and Town Council was scheduled for Monday night but lack of a quorum prevented anything but a general discussion of the project.

Mr. Shaffer said it was the idea of the firemen either to cooperate with the town in construction of a community building, a part of which would be used as a fire house, or to get permission to build a fire house of their own on the town property on Third street, adjoining the Coca-Cola property, purchased several years ago from the Offutt family.

With the agitation for a community building apparent, a review of a number of facts was made this week.

On February 10, 1939 the people voted favorably at a special election on "an act to authorize and empower the Mayor and Town Council to issue and sell bonds and to use the proceeds to build a community building."

Accordingly bonds in the amount of $25,000 were ordered printed, and on April 25, 1940, ten $1,000 bonds were sold. Of this amount $8,000 was used to purchase the Helbig property at the north edge of town, until recently used as a community park, but which will be turned over to the County Commissioners when the hospital is built.

On September 10, 1941, four $1,000 bonds were sold, and this money was used to purchase the Offutt property on Third street. Arthur Lawton, clerk-collector for the town, said that in addition to the purchase of land, $1,750 was paid to Fred L. W. Moehle, architect under the WPA, for plans for the community building which was a project under the WPA, and which would have cost $75,000 including federal grants. Taxes on the Helbig property, expense of printing the bonds and other incidentals were also paid out of the fund, and there is now on hand $198.88, plus eleven $1,000 bonds which have never been sold.

Mr. Lawton said, of the 14 bonds which were outstanding, six have been paid, and the remaining eight were included in the refunding bonds of a year or two ago. The refunding bonds also included $24,000 for water and sewerage, $7,000 for reservoir, making a total of $39,000. The town's bonded indebtedness also includes $5,000 in electric bonds, not incorporated in the refunding bonds.

Mr. Shaffer said the firemen had in mind a one-story building, with the fire house in the center, meeting rooms on each side, and across the back of the building a large auditorium for community purposes.

Young Adults Elect.

B. Beeson Snyder was elected president of the Methodist Young Adult Fellowship group which met for dinner this week in St. Paul's church. About eighty persons attended. Mrs. Frederick D. Bell was named vice-president; and Mrs. H. Robert DeWitt was named secretary-treasurer.

The program consisted of vocal duets by Misses Susanna Porter and Barbara Smith, and Mrs. Jay L. Bell, and a trio consisting of Mrs. Bell, Misses Porter and Smith. A quiz program, conducted by Howard Naylor, was won by Mrs. Lewis Jones and O. T. Graser, Mr. and Mrs. Walter E. Dawson arranged the program.

In charge of the supper were Mr. and Mrs. Reaford Purbaugh, chairman, Mr. and Mrs. Walter E. Dawson, Mr. and Mrs. William Nace, Mr. and Mrs. Thornton Deffinbaugh, Mr. and Mrs. John Stevenson, Mr. and Mrs. Playford Ryan, Miss Ann Smith, Mrs. William Warfield.

Marriage Is Announced

Mr. and Mrs. William H. Miller, Gormania, have announced the marriage of their daughter, Evelyn A. Miller, to Roy W. Harvey, son of Rev. and Mrs. Wesley Harvey, Gormania.

The double ring ceremony was performed by candlelight at 7 p. m., March 5 at the home of the bride's parents, by Rev. Wesley Harvey, father of the bridegroom.

Mrs. Austin Schwartz played the wedding music and accompanied Mrs. Maynard Evans who Sang "I Love You Truly."

The bride wore the traditional white satin, with long pointed sleeves and sweetheart neckline. Her finger tip veil was held by small flowers. She carried a bouquet of white rose buds and ribbon.

Mrs. Genevieve Kessel, sister of the bride, was matron of honor. Lawrence Harvey, brother of the bridegroom, served as best man. Following the ceremony an informal reception was given for relatives and friends.

Mrs. Harvey is a graduate of Bayard High School and did substitute teaching in Garrett County the first semester of this year. Mr. Harvey is a graduate of Oakland High School and a veteran of World War II, serving 18 months in Calcutta with the rank of captain. He is now employed by his father. After a trip through the south the couple will be home at Gormania.

Drought Reduces Swiss Electricity

BERN, Switzerland, (AP) — Because of low-water levels in the Rhine, the Rhone and interior streams, and the consequent danger of exhausting electric-power reservoirs, the Swiss government has announced measures for conservation of electricity.

All industrial establishments have been ordered to reduce their consumption to from 70 to 90 percent of normal, the percentage depending upon the size of the plant.

All show-window and advertising lighting has been ordered cut off. Radio broadcasting hours have been reduced.

These measures follow recent reduction in electric rail and tram service and in domestic consumption of electricity.

Helium is injected into oil sands to chart underground movement of oil deposits and gases.

After "The Egg and I" will come "Great Expectations," dramatized from the Charles Dickens' novel, sometime in June . . . . Mme. Maria Victor Hugo, great niece of the French novelist, is off to Paris soon to be artistic adviser on the movie made from Hugo's famous story, "Hernani." . . . Gene Lockhart, currently supporting Lucille Ball and Franchot Tone in "Her Husband's Affair," will be general manager of a new Summer stock company at Lake Arrowhead in California in which is is investing. . . . Carroll Case, son of the late Frank (Algonquin) Case, is one the lucky investors in "Brigadoon," which should make a fortune for all concerned.

Prof. Davies of Yale University is putting out a book called "Refugees in America" March 26 (Harper's) which contains some interesting and amusing angles on what new Americans thinks of America. One example: "Since there are no self-service stores in Germany, a refugee had the mistaken notion that people being checked out at the counter of the A. & P. Super Market were being investigated for theft." (Thanks for tip from Julia Sarner, once of this departmeint but now of United Service for New Americans.)

Blizzards covered the shamrocks of Ireland with snow on St. Patrick's Day, according to a cabeled dispatch. Shure, and we'd hated to have been a weather forecaster allergic to the shillelah!

ALLIGATOR BAG BECOMES RARE IN LOUISIANA

AP Newsfeatures

NEW ORLEANS — If you've been salting away ten-dollar bills to buy a Louisiana alligator bag you had better buy it quickly. The Louisiana alligator business is falling off, although tanners and manufacturers seem to agree that Lousiana alligators furnish the best skins for purses and luggage.

In the bayou country the 'gators slither about the swamps and soft grasses easily and avoid too much wear and tear on their valuable hides. In tropical habitats the reptiles quarrel more and tear their scales and scratch them in many trips across sharp rocks and briars.

Thousands of baby 'gators are sneaked out of their homelands to become pets in Illinois, Arizona or Maine. Alligators are slowgrowing and not prolific reproducers and the deportation of those little ones has greatly reduced the number of potential hides for manufacture.

For nearly 45 years, alligators have been hunted so relentlessly for their skins that few live to reach the reproducing age. Also the 'gators have been thinned out as being a hazard to bayoudwellers, trappers and small furbearing animals.

World production of oil multiplied 12 times from 1901 to 1938 — from 160 million barrels to more than two billion barrels.

British Soldiers Are Sent To Sea

SINGAPORE — (AP) — British soldiers here are learning first-hand what the life of their opposite numbers in the Royal Navy is like.

Small groups of Army officers and enlisted men are being taken on cruises along the Malayan coast "to give army personnel some knowledge of how the navy works at the same time affording the soldier a change."

The army personnel is divided among various "watches" and technical crews, performing with the sailors such shipboard tasks as painting ship, repairing motor boat engines, stoking and handling lines.

The army personnel so far has been enthusiastic about the cruises. Said one private: "We were put to very interesting work . . . The food was excellent, entertainments were reasonable and there was plenty of shore leave."

In Guatemala, corn plants have been known to grow 28 feet tall with ears 24 inches long.

SERMON MAGIC GETS RESULTS SAYS PASTOR

AP Newsfeatues

LOUISVILLE, Ky. — The Rev. Warren Filkin is a preacher who's as likely as not to yank a rabbit out of a hat while he's in the pulpit.

The 39-year-old member of the faculty of Moody Bible Institute in Chicago was nine years old when his father took him to see Howard Thurston.

"I got 'the bug'," the minister explained. "I begged secrets here and there, practiced ardently, and one day announced proudly that I was a magician."

Later, he decided to combine magic and preaching.

"I realized there would be those who wouldn't approve," Dr. Filkin said, "So I studied for eight years for a Ph.D in Old Testament at the Southern Baptist Theological Seminary so I could do things I wanted without apoligizing for it."

There's method in his magic.

"People learn faster when material is introduced with humor," he believes. "I use magic as a springboard to get laughter, then I slide in what I want to tell them, sort of sneak up on them, you know."

The superstitious thought that "gabble retchet," a cry like that of hounds, heard at night, was a foreboding of trouble. It was said to be the souls of unbaptized children wandering through the air until the day of judgment.

Listen World

By ELSIE ROBINSON

She wants to know if it isn't possible for a person to so plan his existence that he can "escape the hardships of life." She is young, with a moderate but assured income and a pleasant circle of relatives and friends. Tragedy has never come her way. She has not been touched by grief or poverty and she doesn't plan to be, if she can help it.

"Why," she wonders, "should life be such a difficult thing for so many people? Surely it is possible to escape suffering and shock if you use your head."

So you'd like to escape the hardships of life, my dear? It can be done. A clam does it. And if you prefer to live like a clam you will probably enjoy many comfortable, uneventful and completely stupid years.

But no one who wished to live a fuller life than a clam ever escaped loss and grief and hard knocks. Life doesn't consist in eating, drinking, sleeping and reproducing one's kind. The lowest one celled animal can and does do that very successfully. But human beings are not one celled animals nor were they designed to live in isolated comfort in mud flats.

You are a human being. Your mechanism, physical, mental and spiritual is infinitely more complex than even the highest form of brute life. You were given a mind to use and a heart to feel and a backbone to carry you through the fight you must face.

Use that heart. It will cost you a great deal of pain and it may quite possibly break in the process. But what of it? No heart was ever really useful or productive until it was broken, just as no field can bear a harvest until it is plowed.

You were given a mind which would enable you to meet all realities. Use that mind. You will probably meet many realities which will shock and disgust you, and which will scar you. But what of that? Minds were made to be shocked and disgusted and scarred. You are not a baby. You can't live in a cradle all your life and listen to lullabies. You have got to get out and heag the horror and sob and shriek of the great voice of humanity. And until you do you are still in the clam class.

Yes, it's true. Thousands of fully endowed human beings prefer to live like clams. They never know shock or great sorrow because they bypass all these difficulties. When a hardship arises they think first of their own comfort. The starving children of Europe do not impress them nor are they worried about certain vast unhappy problems in our own land. Those things lie beyond the horizon of their particular mud flats and they have no desire to explore them.

Can you plan a completely happy life? Can you lead a thoroughly comfortable existence?

You can.

But God help you if you do.

Legislative Howl Was Justified

ANNAPOLIS, Md.—(AP)—Omar, an independent from Frederick County who sits in on the Maryland legislature, has taken the floor only once—when somebody walked on his tail.

He raised the point of personal privilege from his seat on the Democratic aisle next to Delegate C. Clifton Virts, 36-year-old Frederick attorney who lost his sight in a dynamite cap explosion when he was nine years old.

Omar, a cross between a chow and a German shepherd, is a graduate of the seeing eye school at Morristown, N. J.

Virts, a freshman this session, and Charles M. See, Allegany County Republican who also is blind, have performed a coalition for going over the bills, with See's wife doing the reading.

Probably the most fertile fish in the world, the common ling produces 30 million eggs at a time.

Many ancient Egyptian rulers were famed for their skill in medicine.

One half of one percent of the petroleum produced in the United States, if converted into alcohol, would produce an amount equal to all U. S. alcohol requirements.

"Two Faiths In One Family" Create Problems But They Can Be Solved

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

Famous Authority on Problems of Love and Marriage

Some weeks ago, I printed a letter from a girl who wanted to drop a young man because she had just discovered he held religious beliefs different from her own.

I thought this a very narrow-minded thing to do, and told the girl so. I said also that I thought it too bad she wasn't able to enjoy a friendship with anyone except a person who held the same views she did, and that any such attitude would cheat her out of a lot of interesting experiences.

At the moment, I was thinking of the thing solely in terms of friendships, as no mention of marriage had been made in the girl's letter. But a reader who writes in to take exception to what I said, wants to discuss the question from the other angle, so we'll give her the floor today. She writes:

"I just read your article and your opinion of a girl who is afraid to become too well acquainted with a man of another faith.

"I can readily understand her fear, as I have seen much, much unhappiness arising from a marriage of two faiths, each party clinging to its own teachings and beliefs. Is it not better to be cautious than to become too seriously attached to someone she knows she could not agree with on the most important question—that of religion?

"True, she had known the boy only a short time, and perhaps nothing serious would come of their relationship. But no one can judge the outcome, and it is much better to stop seeing him before anyone is hurt.

"I myself am a Protestant, and many of my best friends are Catholic. We get along splendidly, since we all feel that each is entitled to his own opinion and belief. But in a relationship on the basis of the possible meeting of a lifetime mate, there would be much less unhappiness if both boys and girls would keep their choice of dates among those of their own faith. If they believe that their faith is the only true faith, then how can they bargain, when the time comes, on whether to go his way or hers?

"'To Each His Own' may be the right answer to many questions, but two faiths in one family certainly bring difficulties. If you don't believe this, then go to any family where this motto is carried out or tried, and ask what happens when the children arrive. One party must give in, and the only possible result is unhappiness and discord. Better to avoid this problem before it arises.

"MARGARET."

Now there is without doubt a great deal in what this writer says, and it is, equally without doubt, unfortunately true that in many instances where a man and a woman of different faith have married, unhappiness and discord have resulted. But I disagree with her when she declares that "unhappiness and discord" are "the only possible result" of such marriages. And the chief reason I disagree with her is because I have seen, over and over again, marriages of this type result in happiness and harmony rather than unhappiness and discord.

Of course there will be problems—difficult and complicated ones—to be solved under such circumstances. But they can be, and in numerous cases have been, worked out satisfactorily if husband and wife are people of character, intelligence, tolerance, unselfishly devoted to each other, and possess the will to make their marriage a success.

Do not misunderstand me. I do not for a minute intend to imply that the working out of such problems is simple or easy. On the contrary, I think it is a task of staggering proportions, not to be attempted lightly or by any but those who have, in advance of marriage, thought the whole thing through, recognized the inevitable stumbling blocks ahead and agreed on certain general principles of procedure in handling them.

But because it is so difficult does not seem to me a valid reason for dismissing the whole thing as impossible; especially not, when its possibility has already been demonstrated on so many occasions.

Young Accepts NYC Invitation

PALM BEACH, Fla., March 20 (AP)—Robert R. Young, chairman of the board of the C. & O. Railroad, said today that he and Robert J. Bowman, C. & O. president, had accepted invitations to join the board of directors of the New York Central Railroad.

The C. & O. Railroad is the largest single stockholder in the New York Central with some 315,000 shares.

Young said the invitations were extended in a meeting here recently with G. Metzman, New York Central president, and Harold S. Vanderbilt, a director and large stockholder. He said the acceptance had been verbal and was now subject to approval of the interstate commerce commission.

WOMEN TALK ABOUT IT

Mrs. Filbert's Margarine is so different—so superior millions of women think there is nothing quite like it.

Mrs. Filbert believes if you will try her margarine you will find, too, there is nothing quite so good as a spread for bread—as a shortening with richer flavor—for cooking vegetables and for pan frying. Ask for Mrs. Filbert's Margarine.

HONEY LAYER CAKE
(½ cup sugar only)

1 egg
½ cup sugar
1 cup flour
1 teaspoon baking powder
½ teaspoon salt
¼ cup milk
3 tablespoons melted Mrs. Filbert's margarine
¼ teaspoon lemon extract
½ teaspoon vanilla

Beat egg and add sugar while beating. Add flour sifted with baking powder and salt. Then add milk, melted Mrs. Filbert's margarine and flavoring. Bake 25 minutes in two 7-inch layer-cake pans or in 7x10-inch pan in moderate oven (350°F)

Honey Frosting or Filling

1 egg white
½ cup honey

Cook honey to 238°F. Pour slowly onto egg white, beaten stiff. Beat until thick enough to hold its shape.

Mr. and Mrs. Skit Returning To Spot On MBS Network

By C. E. BUTTERFIELD

NEW YORK, March 20—A one-time program, which however may get a regular birth depending on the listener reaction, makes an MBS appearance on Friday night at 10:30. It is titled Joe and Mabel, described as a "situation comedy," but actually a Mr. and Mrs. skit. Gloria Blondell and Jackie Cooper get the leads.

The Moore and Durante show on CBS at 9:30 is to be more than a Durante and Moore show. It also is to be a Frank Sinatra show. That's because Frankie has agreed upon a guest appearance therein. It is another of those radio guest exchange arrangements.

Boxing in the welterweight division comes up for the ABC weekly broadcast at 10. A scheduled ten-rounder, the mixup is to involve Tippy Larkin of Garfield, N. J., and Billy Graham of New York. This fight is supposed to carry with it a possible bid for a chance at the title in this division.

Instead of Serenade to America, which it has at 6:15 other nights in the week, NBC is going out to Denver for another of those Rhapsody of the Rockies "dinner" music concerts. . . The Campus Salute on MBS at 12:30 p. m. by the U. S. Army band will be directed toward Northwestern university.

For the Opinion Please session of the School of the Air on CBS at 5 there will be a discussion of the question "Should communism be studied in our schools?" Dr. George S. Counts of Columbia U., and Dr. Ruth Alexander of Cornell will be at the microphone for the half-hour, which also is to include a forum discussion by Cornell students.

Radio In Review

By JOHN CROSBY

The End And The Means

There was a story in the early days of broadcasting, probably apocryphal, about a sound effects man who was seriously frustrated in his attempts to reproduce the sound of clashing swords. He had tried rolling a barrel full of tin cans, he experimented vainly with the sound of splashing water but neither these nor a dozen other devices sounded at all right. Finally, in desperation, he tried clashing two swords together. It worked fine.

John Crosby

Writers in trying to convey information in plain news or in documentary broadcasts have pursued somewhat the same course; that is, they will go to preposterous lengths to avoid simple telling the information. With great and frequently misspent ingenuity, they have employed drama, massed choirs, street noises, crowds noises, symphony orchestras, and sometimes, when absolutely necessary, the sound of the human voice.

Of course, it would be foolish to carry the analogy too far. Much of this experiment in the art of sound, if such a phrase is permissible, has been strikingly effective in putting across an idea or, in some cases just a plain news story. Still, in looking back upon a great many documentary broadcasts of one sort or another, the most effective one I ever heard was the broadcast of John Hersey's "Hiroshima" over the American Broadcasting Company. At the insistence of Hersey, who resisted all attempts to have the story dramatized, "Hiroshima" was simply read. The only concession to broadcasting technique was the employment of different voices for the various parts of the story devoted to the six different characters.

This method transmitted to the listener not only the highly dramatic story but also the keen intelligence that went into its writing. The listener was left with the impression of a gifted mind assembling the fragments of one of the most significant stories of our time. If the screams of the dying, or the crackle of flames had been allowed to intrude, the broadcast would have descended to the level of all the broadcasts which have ever used these sounds, including a great many whodunits.

Recently, the American Broadcasting Company presented another highly effective, but somewhat different, documentary called "Welcome, Honorable Enemy" on its series of public service broadcasts called "World Security Workshop" (10 p. m. EST Thursdays) "Welcome, Honorable Enemy" were the impressions of occupied Japan of Joseph Julian, a radio actor who formerly broadcast for the Red Cross in Japan.

The technique, I would say, was about halfway between the "Hiroshima" reading and the traditional method. Julian used a good deal of straight drama but he also used far more than the normal amount of plain exposition. The exposition took the form of a conversation between Julian and his announcer, Roger Krupp. Somehow, the two men sounded as relaxed as if they were discussing Japan over an after dinner cup of coffee and at the same time the talk had the coherence of a well-written script.

Julian explained why the Japanese did all that hissing (It's a form of politeness), how illogical the Japanese are about their emperor, and what a shriek strike is. Along with each small anecdote, he interpolated his own serious interpretation. By avoiding both cliches and pretensions, the two men succeeded in sounding intelligent, one of the most difficult things in the world to do over the air.

The trick, I guess, is to match the technique to the message. To employ an ear-catching device when you are attempting to engage the intelligence is a serious mistake in anatomy. It is not sounds that stir men's minds but ideas, and the sounds employed to put the ideas across ought to be on the same intellectual level as the ideas.

Well, let's not get too involved. I have just one other idea I'd like to pass along. Radio, it seems to me, is just beginning to master the techniques of sound broadcasting at a time when television is just around the corner. The movies had the same experience. At just about the point the movie-makers were demonstrating a superb mastery of the techniques of silent pictures, sound pictures came in and the movie producers had to start all over again. The broadcasters still have that ahead of them.

Old Woodcut Offered For Sale To City

An old woodcut, said to be the first seal of the City of Cumberland and estimated to date from about 1850, has been offered for sale to the Mayor and City Council for $25 by its present owner, Charles R. Keyser, 801 Trost Avenue.

Mayor Thomas S. Post said he may bring up the offer at the council meeting next Monday.

The raised seal depicts a canal boat, and is believed to date from the time the Chesapeake and Ohio canal was completed about 100 years ago.

Keyser said he purchased the woodcut in 1927 or 1928 from Charles Hambright, one of the first printers in Cumberland, who died about 10 years ago. Keyser surmised that Hambright may have come across the seal in a printing shop.

The mayor said he believes the city should purchase the woodcut for its historical value.

the interest in the operas, but to no avail.

After spending four hours trying to work out something that would appease the Company, so that a show would be staged, and with the Veterans insisting that the Company fill its contract, Reutemann forfeited his agreement and left the city with the remainder of his unit, promising to reorganize and return the week after Easter Sunday and fill his engagements.

Reynolds Issues Statement

Following a meeting of the Opera committee at the VFW home last night, Commander Raymond Reynolds issued the following statement:

"It was with great regret that we witnessed the cancelling of the scheduled performances of "La Traviata" and "Carmen" Thursday night and Friday afternoon and night, by the New York Civic Opera Company, which the VFW sponsored.

"This cancellation was the result of internal dissension among the members of the Opera Company itself, and was entirely due to circumstances beyond the control of the VFW or any of its members.

"The advance sale of tickets had been most gratifying and there is no question but that the performance here would have been a financial success for all concerned, as well as a cultural treat for the city. The recent press notices of performances by the company in other cities had been very laudatory.

"As matters now stand, the VFW plans to bring this company, reorganized, back to Cumberland the week after Easter Sunday, and we will appreciate continued support of the public. However, we wish to emphasize the fact that any one who has purchased tickets, or who advertised in the program, may have their money refunded upon request.

"We expect to announce, on Tuesday, whether the Opera Company will be presented here for certain, and the dates of the performances. If the performances are presented, tickets already sold will be honored, but if anyone wants a refund in the meantime, we would make it clear and definite that Henry Hart Post will make the refund."

No Wartime Condition

While he has made no study of the matter, Heskett said he had no solution or suggestion to offer. It is the opinion in Annapolis, he said, that the only way it can be done would be to "change six or seven state laws and then condemn.

"Certainly no wartime condition exists in Cumberland," Heskett said, adding, "There's a question if the Governor would have power to seize buses, much less Cumberland."

There were no other developments in the bus strike in the city which is now entering its 16th day. Conciliator James A. Holden, of the United States Conciliation Service, is expected to return to Cumberland today and may arrange another meeting between the union and the company.

The speaker was introduced by Robert Little Ebert for the Junior Association of Commerce, sponsors of the Forum.

The vessel, which now is being especially accommodated to this transport, normally carries some 80 passengers, but, children under 12 will sleep in pairs in one cabin-bed and all hundred Chileans can be transported at one time.

Money Available For Pay Increases

The City of Cumberland is virtually assured of receiving $100,000 additional income as the result of measures already passed and pending in Annapolis, State Senator Robert B. Kimble said yesterday following an inquiry from Mayor Thomas S. Post as to what source would provide the income for proposed salary increases for police.

Kimble said a bill passed in December at the special session guarantees Cumberland around $55,000 to $60,000, these figures being conservative, in additional revenue from race tracks as proposed by the Sherbow Report.

Kimble also said municipalities would probably receive increased revenue from trader's licenses. Under a plan considered, the state would collect the funds from these licenses and retain 10 per cent, turning back 90 per cent to the various cities.

Another probable source of revenue will be from alcoholic beverage licenses, Kimble said, adding that due to the recent ruling by the Court of Appeals on the Allegany County liquor law, a bill increasing the costs of licenses will not be introduced until after necessary adjustments are made in the liquor law. Once these adjustments are made, a bill increasing the cost of liquor licenses probably will be introduced, the Senator said.

No Wartime Condition

While he has made no study of the matter, Heskett said he had no solution or suggestion to offer. It is the opinion in Annapolis, he said, that the only way it can be done would be to "change six or seven state laws and then condemn.

"Certainly no wartime condition exists in Cumberland," Heskett said, adding, "There's a question if the Governor would have power to seize buses, much less Cumberland."

There were no other developments in the bus strike in the city which is now entering its 16th day. Conciliator James A. Holden, of the United States Conciliation Service, is expected to return to Cumberland today and may arrange another meeting between the union and the company.

affairs and politics for the first time. Science offers no "antidote" or counter weapon for the bomb, and scientists believe that the secret must be protected and controls set up by nations and between nations to prevent its use, or the world will be blown to bits.

Bliven concluded his discourse with the remark, "Frankly, I'm scared to death."

The speaker was introduced by Robert Little Ebert for the Junior Association of Commerce, sponsors of the Forum.

Chileans Returning From Germany

ROTTERDAM— (AP) — One hundred Chilean men, women and children, still in Germany since before war, will return to their homeland.

The Chilean government chartered the 9300-ton steamer "Alphard" of the Rotterdam-South Africa Line (Van Nieveld Goudriaan) to transport them. The vessel, which now is being especially accommodated to this transport, normally carries some 80 passengers, but, children under 12 will sleep in pairs in one cabin-bed and all hundred Chileans can be transported at one time.

Money Available For Pay Increases

The City of Cumberland is virtually assured of receiving $100,000 additional income as the result of measures already passed and pending in Annapolis, State Senator Robert B. Kimble said yesterday following an inquiry from Mayor Thomas S. Post as to what source would provide the income for proposed salary increases for police.

Kimble said a bill passed in December at the special session guarantees Cumberland around $55,000 to $60,000, these figures being conservative, in additional revenue from race tracks as proposed by the Sherbow Report.

Kimble also said municipalities would probably receive increased revenue from trader's licenses. Under a plan considered, the state would collect the funds from these licenses and retain 10 per cent, turning back 90 per cent to the various cities.

Another probable source of revenue will be from alcoholic beverage licenses, Kimble said, adding that due to the recent ruling by the Court of Appeals on the Allegany County liquor law, a bill increasing the costs of licenses will not be introduced until after necessary adjustments are made in the liquor law. Once these adjustments are made, a bill increasing the cost of liquor licenses probably will be introduced, the Senator said.

Hardy County Schools To Benefit By Legislation Recently Passed

Increases To Be Given Teachers

By KATHERINE FISHER

MOOREFIELD, W. Va., March 20 —Hardy county will benefit to the extent of $100,635 under the new formula for state aid passed by the recent legislature. This figure includes teachers salaries, maintenance, supplies, bus drivers salaries and other non-teaching expenses.

County Superintendent R. S. Dispanet announced that teachers salaries under the new formula will be increased by $56,464.55 yearly. This figure increases the average salary of teachers in Hardy County from $1,434.35 to $2,016.50. The minimum salary now paid by the Hardy County schools is $95 per month. The minimum under the new formula will be $125 per month.

Teachers salaries will be based on the educational qualifications and on teaching experience with a maximum pay of $2,889 annually. The $2,889 salary would be paid to a teacher with a masters degree and 16 years teaching experience.

Dispanet explained that the new state aid formula was a more equitable method of distributing funds for the schools. Under the old state aid system salaries and state aid were based on the premise that there were 33 students per teacher and the allocation was based on Hardy County having 84 teachers. Actually, Dispanet said, Hardy County has to employ 97 teachers for many of the mountain schools have an enrollment of only 16 and 17. The additional teachers had to be paid out of funds that would have gone to maintenance.

Hardy County could not have had a full school year next year under the present system of state aid, according to Dispanet.

The new formula will enable the county schools to replace worn out buses, erect bus pick-up shelters for the pupils, who wait for the bus in inclement weather, repair many schools, install new teaching equipment, raise salaries for bus drivers, janitors and office personnel and to secure many supplies not available under the present budget.

Hardy county will no longer be a marginal aid county under the new formula. Under the present state aid system, any money saved from operating expenses during a school year could not be used in the next year. No reserve for buildings could be built up for the money was subtracted from the next year's aid. Under the new system the school board will be able to carry over any savings for the purpose of new buildings or to place in a reserve fund.

Dispanet was a member of the Legislative committee in Charleston at the session of the legislature and assisted in drawing up the state aid formula as passed by the legislature this session. The new state aid formula will go into effect on July 1, when the new fiscal year begins.

The new boxes for the patrons have not arrived but Postmaster W. J. Teets stated that he had received word shipment would be made May 1. The other new equipment has been standing in the post office lobby since last October, awaiting the arrival of the man to erect it.

In addition to the new equipment in the Moorefield post office, B. J. McWhorter, owner of the building, recently installed a vestibule and new lights. A new floor was laid just prior to the Christmas season.

Hardy County Schools To Benefit By Legislation Recently Passed

By KATHERINE FISHER

MOOREFIELD, W. Va., March 20—Hardy county will benefit to the extent of $100,635 under the new formula for state aid passed by the recent legislature. This figure includes teachers salaries, maintenance, supplies, bus drivers salaries and other non-teaching expenses.

County Superintendent R. S. Dispanet announced that teachers salaries under the new formula will be increased by $56,464.55 yearly. This figure increases the average salary of teachers in Hardy County from $1,434.35 to $2,016.50. The minimum salary now paid by the Hardy County schools is $95 per month. The minimum under the new formula will be $125 per month.

Teachers salaries will be based on the educational qualifications and on teaching experience with a maximum pay of $2,889 annually. The $2,889 salary would be paid to a teacher with a masters degree and 16 years teaching experience.

Dispanet explained that the new state aid formula was a more equitable method of distributing funds for the schools. Under the old state aid system salaries and state aid were based on the premise that there were 33 students per teacher and the allocation was based on Hardy County having 84 teachers. Actually, Dispanet said, Hardy County has to employ 97 teachers for many of the mountain schools have an enrollment of only 16 and 17. The additional teachers had to be paid out of funds that would have gone to maintenance.

Hardy County could not have had a full school year next year under the present system of state aid, according to Dispanet.

The new formula will enable the county schools to replace worn out buses, erect bus pick-up shelters for the pupils, who wait for the bus in inclement weather, repair many schools, install new teaching equipment, raise salaries for bus drivers, janitors and office personnel and to secure many supplies not available under the present budget.

Hardy county will no longer be a marginal aid county under the new formula. Under the present state aid system, any money saved from operating expenses during a school year could not be used in the next year. No reserve for buildings could be built up for the money was subtracted from the next year's aid. Under the new system the school board will be able to carry over any savings for the purpose of new buildings or to place in a reserve fund.

Dispanet was a member of the Legislative committee in Charleston at the session of the legislature and assisted in drawing up the state aid formula as passed by the legislature this session. The new state aid formula will go into effect on July 1, when the new fiscal year begins.

Growing Number In U. S. Believe Russia Out To Dominate World

More People Are Becoming Suspicious

By DR. GEORGE GALLUP
Director, American Institute of Public Opinion

PRINCETON, N. J., March 20 — The decision of President Truman and Secretary of State George Marshall to intervene in Greece, thus precipitating a showdown with Russia, has a significant relation to the atmosphere of American public opinion today.

Public belief that Russia is out to try to dominate the world has increased sharply as compared to a year ago.

When Undersecretary of State Dean Acheson declared recently that Russia is following an aggressive, expansionist policy, Moscow became indignant. But Mr. Acheson's statement closely mirrors the sentiments of the American people as a whole.

From coast to coast interviewers for the Institute have just tested sentiment on a two-part question. The first part was as follows:

"Do you believe any nation or nations would like to dominate or run the world?"

A poll on this same question was conducted a year ago. A comparison of results follows:

	Mar. 1946	Today
Yes	59%	65%
No	27	24
No opinion	14	11

In the second part of the question voters who replied in the affirmative to the above were asked: "Which nation or nations?"

When the results are compared with those of a year ago, a marked rise in the number saying Russia is found.

	Mar. 1946	Today
Russia	39%	52%
Britain	19	9
Germany	15	10
Japan	9	3
United States	3	5
Others	2	2
All big nations	2	1
No opinion	1	3
	90%	85%

Because some people named more than one country the two columns add to more than the number who gave a "yes" answer to the first question.

The new turn which our foreign policy has taken in Greece bears close relation to the attitudes of the public concerning Mr. Marshall as Secretary of State.

When Mr. Marshall took office the Institute queried voters across the continent on whether he should try to follow the general policies of James F. Byrnes, former Secretary, regarding Russia, or whether he should follow a firmer policy or a softer policy.

The vote came out unmistakably against any softening of American policy toward Russia. A total of 19% thought that the State Department policy prior to Marshall was satisfactory, while 51% wanted a firmer policy, making a total of 70% expressing opposition to any relaxation of attitude. Only five per cent wanted a softer policy and the rest no opinion.

The Greek issue, however, has many ramifications. Are the American people willing to go as far as Mr. Marshall and President Truman want to go in supporting Greece?

Opinion on the new turn which our foreign policy has taken is now being sounded by the Institute in a coast to coast survey. Results will be reported at the earliest possible moment.

Gold production in Nicaragua increased from a value of $848,808 for the year 1937 to $7,117,155 for the year 1945.

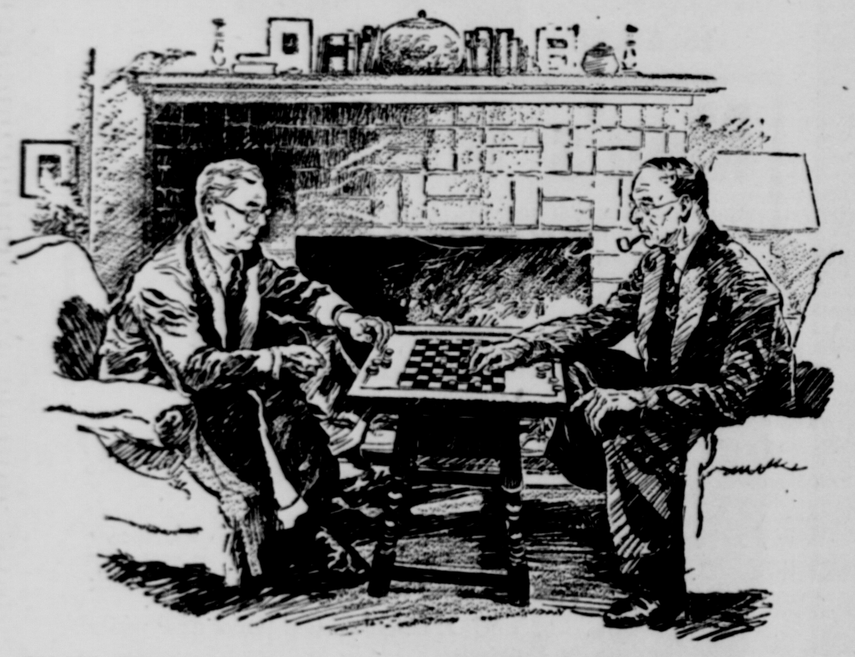
THE OLD JUDGE SAYS...


FRANK: "Would you mind repeating those percentages again, Judge . . . they're very interesting to me?"
OLD JUDGE: "Certainly, Frank. Men who have made a study of drinking report that 95% of those who drink, drink sensibly. 5% drink excessively at times. And included in that 5% is the small percentage of drinkers known as alcoholics."
FRANK: "And what was that about alcoholics being sick people?"
OLD JUDGE: "That is what scientific research disclosed. In other words, it was found that, in most cases, it was not a craving for alcohol that made people drink to excess. Alcoholics were found to be suffering from some deep-rooted mental, physical or emotional condition. If they hadn't turned to alcohol for escape, they would have turned to something else."
FRANK: "I am glad to learn about that enlightened viewpoint, Judge. I can see how it is possible to cure so many of these sick folks today . . . now the real cause is known."

Growing Number In U. S. Believe Russia Out To Dominate World

More People Are Becoming Suspicious

By DR. GEORGE GALLUP
Director, American Institute of Public Opinion

PRINCETON, N. J., March 20 — The decision of President Truman and Secretary of State George Marshall to intervene in Greece, thus precipitating a showdown with Russia, has a significant relation to the atmosphere of American public opinion today.

Public belief that Russia is out to try to dominate the world has increased sharply as compared to a year ago.

When Undersecretary of State Dean Acheson declared recently that Russia is following an aggressive, expansionist policy, Moscow became indignant. But Mr. Acheson's statement closely mirrors the sentiments of the American people as a whole.

From coast to coast interviewers for the Institute have just tested sentiment on a two-part question. The first part was as follows:

"Do you believe any nation or nations would like to dominate or run the world?"

A poll on this same question was conducted a year ago. A comparison of results follows:

	Mar. 1946	Today
Yes	59%	65%
No	27	24
No opinion	14	11

In the second part of the question voters who replied in the affirmative to the above were asked: "Which nation or nations?"

When the results are compared with those of a year ago, a marked rise in the number saying Russia is found.

	Mar. 1946	Today
Russia	39%	52%
Britain	19	9
Germany	15	10
Japan	9	3
United States	3	5
Others	2	2
All big nations	2	1
No opinion	1	3
	90%	85%

Because some people named more than one country the two columns add to more than the number who gave a "yes" answer to the first question.

The new turn which our foreign policy has taken in Greece bears close relation to the attitudes of the public concerning Mr. Marshall as Secretary of State.

When Mr. Marshall took office the Institute queried voters across the continent on whether he should try to follow the general policies of James F. Byrnes, former Secretary, regarding Russia, or whether he should follow a firmer policy or a softer policy.

The vote came out unmistakably against any softening of American policy toward Russia. A total of 19% thought that the State Department policy prior to Marshall was satisfactory, while 51% wanted a firmer policy, making a total of 70% expressing opposition to any relaxation of attitude. Only five per cent wanted a softer policy and the rest no opinion.

The Greek issue, however, has many ramifications. Are the American people willing to go as far as Mr. Marshall and President Truman want to go in supporting Greece?

Opinion on the new turn which our foreign policy has taken is now being sounded by the Institute in a coast to coast survey. Results will be reported at the earliest possible moment.

Gold production in Nicaragua increased from a value of $848,808 for the year 1937 to $7,117,155 for the year 1945.

Market, Following Three Modest Recovery Sessions, Backs Down

NEW YORK, March 20 (AP)—The stock market generally backed down today, after three modest recovery sessions, but dealings were among the slowest of the past year and scattered leaders managed to remain in the plus column.

Transfers of 630,000 shares compared with 760,000 the day before and were a low for a full stretch since last August 15.

Atlas Tack was up 5¼ points at 27½ on 100 shares, first sale since March 12. Pleasing earnings statements lifted Lowenstein one at 24, Pfizer five-eighths at 52¼ and Publicker seven-eighths at 27¾. Improved were Eastern Air Lines, United Air Lines, Detroit Edison, Columbia Gas (the day's most active mover on talk of a possibly boosted quarterly), Standard Oil (NJ), Westinghouse, American Smelting, International Harvester, Philip Morris, Owens-Illinois and Union Carbide.

Johns-Manville yielded 3½ at 122, Norfolk and Western two at 242½, Santa Fe 1¼ at 87¼, Union Pacific one at 123, du Pont one at 182, Cerro de Pasco one at 32 and Goodyear one at 54½. Pennsylvania Central Airlines dropped 1⅞ at 11 when directors took no action on bond interest due April 1.

Among curb stumblers were American Superpower, Catalin, McCord Corporation, Technicolor, American Gas and Cities Service. Minor gains were held by Standard Cap, Sonotone and American Cyanamid. Turnover here was 170,000 shares versus 230,000 yesterday.

Railway issues lost fractions to more than two points in lackadaisical trade in the bond market today.

United States governments in the over-the-counter market held steady with the Victory Loan December 2½s of '67-'72 at 103 9/32 bid.

Wiley Ford Water Stock To Be Sold

Residents of the community will be given first opportunity to purchase stock in the Wiley Ford Water Company when it is placed on public sale next Thursday at 7:30 p. m. in Dixie School, Howard A. Henderson, president, said.

Four hundred shares are to be offered at $25 each, Henderson said, adding that purchases in the amount of $4,000 have already been pledged.

The community has already been granted a certificate to operate, Henderson explained, and the only delay now in actually starting the business is approval of the Public Service Commission. The company will purchase its water from the City of Cumberland, which is already supplying water to the school under an emergency arrangement, Henderson stated.

J. P. Blundon, 94 South Main Street, Keyser, W. Va., is attending a two-week seminar course for Civil Engineer Corps officers in Washington, D. C., studying shore facilities at naval bases in the Washington and Norfolk, Va., areas, and attending classes of instruction at the Navy's Bureau of Yards and Docks.

During the war, Blundon served as a captain at Guadalcanal with the 6th Battalion, 34th Regiment. He is a consulting engineer in Keyser.

Evicted Family Has Offer Of Home

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Roberts, and 16 children, evicted from their home near Hancock last week, yesterday received two offers for residences from landlords near Hagerstown.

Representing the first chance the family has had for a home of their own since eviction last week, both landlords stated that they did not want any publicity but explained that the homes were in rural sections, one in Washington County and the other "just across the county line."

The mother and 14 of the children have been staying with the Volunteers of America organization in Hagerstown. Roberts did not have sufficient funds to purchase a home and had been afraid that it would be necessary to break up the family.

Hagerstown Charter Bill Is Rejected

ANNAPOLIS, Md., March 20 (AP) — Hagerstown's charter bill was rejected yesterday by the State Senate shortly after Senator McLaughlin (R-Washington) introduced a bill to appoint a charter commission.

The rejection of the Charter Bill, already passed by the House, came in adoption of an unfavorable report of a select committee which included McLaughlin as a member.

McLaughlin said opposition had arisen in Hagerstown to the Charter Bill and his idea was to substitute a commission.

The bill calls for the Mayor to appoint a bi-partisan commission of two persons from each ward and two at large. This group would consider the advisability of amending the existing charter or drafting a new one.

Fellowship Of Prayer

Daily Lenten Devotional

Prepared by
DR. VERE V. LOPER
for the Federal Council of the Churches of Christ in America—Copyright 1947

FELLOW WORKERS

"I beseech thee also, true yokefellow. . . help. . . the rest of my fellow-workers." Read Philippians 4:1-3.

Each of sixty thousand people seated in darkness in a great stadium lighted a match at the same moment. The thrill of joining with others to make that brilliant circle of light will not be forgotten by those who shared the experience.

From the beginning of Christian history the darkness of hunger, disease, superstition, ignorance, and human exploitation has enveloped much of the world. In every age, since Paul led his infant churches in feeding the hungry Christians of Jerusalem, the church has put its servants to work in that darkness reminding them, "Ye are the light of the world." If we could see at some one time the resulting lights glowing around our entire globe, we should be thrilled by the accomplishments of Christians working together.

Our sense of participation in so great an enterprise and our deepened fellowship with God and man in this common labor widens our horizons, and we catch more than a fleeting glance of him who said, "I will go before you."

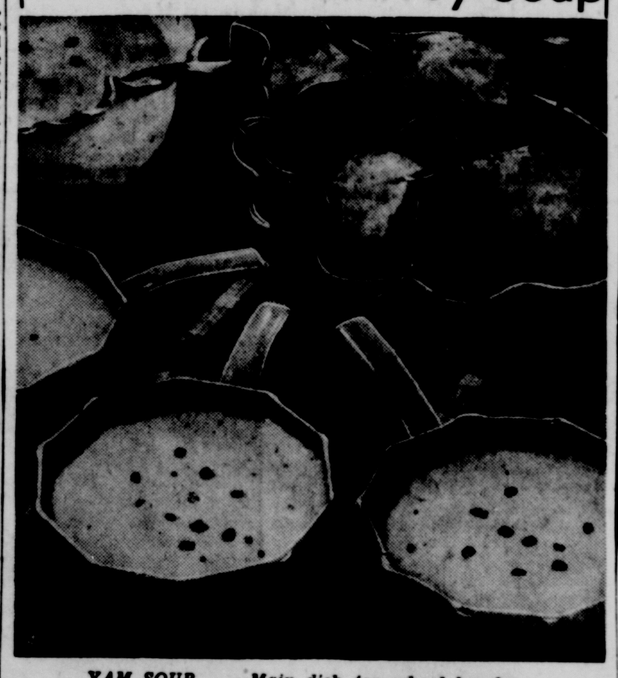
Let Us Pray: Lord of the Nations, who hast broken down in Christ the wall of partition between Jew and Gentile, help us to break down the barriers which keep us from going into all the world to serve men regardless of nationality, race or creed. As we stand before a needy child of thine, may we hear the Master's voice say again, "Feed My sheep." Amen.

The annual "harvest" of commercial fishing in this country is valued at more than $110,000,000.

The population of Iceland is a little more than 120,000.

Food

Give The Small-Frey Soup



YAM SOUP . . . Main dish for school lunches.

By CHARLOTTE ADAMS
Associated Press Food Editor

Most mothers are busy people. But if the children come home for lunch, a mother must offer them a good nutritious hot meal, especially on chilly days.

Soup makes an excellent stick-to-the-ribs base for a school child's lunch. With it you can serve sandwiches, a salad and fruit-from-the-hand for dessert. This is an easy type of meal to prepare and offers the filling quality and the food values which are essential.

Here are some good, simple soup recipes to make that main dish for luncheon:

Yam Soup

2 cups cooked yams, mashed through a sieve	2 tablespoons butter or margarine
2 cups chicken broth or bouillon	2 teaspoons salt
	3 cups milk
	Dash of mace or nutmeg

Blend yams with broth to make a smooth mixture. Add butter, salt and milk. Heat to boiling and serve hot with a dash of mace or nutmeg on top of each serving. To add a special, but simple, touch fry small cubes of raw yam until crisp in hot shortening, and float them on top of the soup.

Yams, which come from the south, and are plentiful in our markets this year, are highly nutritious.

Cream of Corn Soup

1 can whole kernel corn	2 cups milk
1 sliced onion	3 tablespoons butter or margarine
1 stalk celery	3 tablespoons flour
½ cup cream	1 teaspoon salt
½ cup water	Dash of pepper

Combine corn with liquor, onion, celery and water. Cover and simmer 30 min. Strain. Stir flour into melted butter or margarine. Add seasonings and stir in milk gradually. Stir over low heat until it thickens. Add liquor in which corn was cooked and stir until mixture thickens again. Add corn and cream and heat just to the boiling point. Serve at once.

Cream of Tomato Soup

1 No. 2 can tomatoes	2 cups milk
1 onion, sliced	3 tablespoons flour
Salt and pepper	3 tablespoons butter

Cook tomatoes and onion for ten minutes. Sieve and discard seeds. Blend melted butter and flour. Stir in milk and cook over low heat until the mixture thickens, stirring constantly. Combine with strained tomatoes. Season to taste with salt and pepper, and hold over boiling water for five min. Stir once or twice. If cream of tomato soup is held too long before serving it may curdle. Therefore, do not combine the cream sauce and tomato puree until almost time to serve the soup.

AT INDEPENDENT GROCERS

Black Market Beats The Dutch

AMSTERDAM. (AP) — "Black Peter," the name given by the Dutch to black marketeers, is in comptition with the Dutch government and . . . he wins.

The story is this:

American cigarettes are one of the current items on black markets in the Netherlands. Millions of them are sold every week, the average price of a 20-piece package being about $1.70 (4.50 guilders). Thus, a huge amount of foreign exchange is going out of the Netherlands through unlawful channels.

With the triple aim to stop this, to collect money for a postwar welfare organization and to provide Dutch smokers with some more mouth-fuel the Dutch government has put some millions of American cigarettes on the market, charging each packet of 20 with an additional tax of about $1.13 (three guilders) added to the regular price of about 45 to 86 cents, on behalf of the welfare organization "Volksherstel."

Apparently, however, the welfare organization will not become a millionaire by this proceeding.

"Black Peter" immediately hit back, lowering the price of his merchandise from an average of 4.50. down to an average of three guilders.

Grouse are so wild they never have been raised successfully on game farms. About every seven years the wild stock diminishes, and science has never solved the mystery of this disappearance, says the Ohio Conservation Bulletin.

Sweden Prepares Monopoly In Oil

STOCKHOLM—(AP)—Sweden is expected to have a government oil monopoly. Government experts recommend a monopoly with the majority of shares held by the government to become effective in July next year when the present wholesale companies would be bought out. Oil refineries already working would continue, but their products would be sold by the monopoly.

The report recommended that the government eventually purchase its own fleet of tankers.

Plague Of Mice

SZCECIN, Poland, (AP) — Farmers in this district lost as much as 80 percent of their crops in 1946 due to a plague of field mice. They're fighting a possible recurrence of that by using 400 tons of poisoned corn to kill off mice.

Ethiopians Seek Police Organizers

LONDON—(AP)—Emporer Haile Selassie of Ethiopia wants 18 experienced British police officers. He is prepared to pay them salaries ranging from $2,800 to $4,400 a year, there will be no income tax, and free houses will be provided. The Lion of Judah, however, is not prepared to pay pensions at the end of the term of service.

The men are wanted to take charge of thousands of native policemen who are to be recruited for areas of Abyssinia never before policed.

The vacancies are for two deputy commissioners ($4,400 a year), 14 superintendents ($3,600 a year) and two assistant superintendents ($2,800 a year). There is no age limit but the candidates must be physically fit and capable of organizing, trainnig and supervising 1,500 or more men.

Germans Like U. S. News Style

KARLSRUHE, Germany—(AP)—The Badische Neueste Nachrichten, a newspaper here, brought out a special number with American-style makeup and asked for readers' opinion. Replies showed a 75 per cent majority in favor of the new makeup, which few readers had ever seen before in the often stodgy German press.

Holy Cross And CCNY Win NCAA Games

Crusaders Sink Navy, 55-47; Beavers Top Badgers, 70-56

Winners Will Clash In Finals Saturday

By AUSTIN BEALMEAR

NEW YORK, March 20 (AP) — A spectacular comeback in the second half carried City College of New York to a 70-56 triumph over Wisconsin tonight and landed the scrappy Beavers in the finals of the eastern regional NCAA basketball playoffs here Saturday night against Holy Cross.

Holy Cross reached the finals by stopping Navy, 55-47, in the first game of tonight's doubleheader at Madison Square Garden, where a sellout crowd of 18,472 watched the collegiate quintets open the eastern half of the eliminations leading to the title held the past two years by Oklahoma A. and M.

Hopelessly behind throughout the first half, which ended with Wisconsin's Big Nine champions in command, 37-27, the New Yorkers needed only five minutes of the second period to knot the count at 39-all and kept blazing away with a scorching offensive which piled up a total of 43 points in the 20 minutes, compared to 19 for the Badgers.

Joe Mullaney, a Deadeye Dick who fires with one hand from any place on the floor, and George Kaftan, who specializes in tipping in the shots his cohorts miss, were the big guns in the smooth-working Crusader attack.

The Middies, winners of 16 of their 17 games over the regular season, matched the Crusaders in drive and spirit but lost out when they fell victims to two extended cooling-off periods when they couldn't buy a bucket. Lineups:

Inskeep And Ryan To Join Big League Farm Clubs

Westmont High Wins; Dusic Pilots Rockets

Two well known Bi-State League twirlers will be shoving off soon for tryouts with major league "farm" teams.

Joseph P. Inskeep, Jr., of Barton, has received instructions from the Brooklyn Dodgers to report to the High Point, (N. C.) Club of the Class "B" Piedmont League. He will leave for North Carolina on Monday, March 31.

Inskeep, an ex-GI, twirled for the Barton Braves last season after obtaining his discharge from the armed services. Joe won three and lost five last season but three of his defeats were by the margin of a single run. The team he pitched for won only 7 out of 28 games.

Leo Ryan, of Westernport, also a righthanded pitcher, will report next month to the Vandergrift (Pa.) Club of the Middle Atlantic League.

Vandergrift will be making its debut in President Elmer Daily's circuit this season and is a "farm" of the Philadelphia Nationals.

Ryan played with Utica (N. Y.) of the Class "A" Eastern League early in the 1946 campaign and finished the season with Westvaco in the Bi-State League. Leo won six and lost two for the Bi-State champions.

Daniel R. Staley, training director at the plant of the West Virginia Pulp and Paper Company, Luke, reports that Ryan will be given a leave of absence during the time he is with the Vandergrift team.

The Middle Atlantic League season opens April 25.

Keyser High School, victor over Princeton by the score of 48-40 yesterday afternoon, is competing in the West Virginia championship tourney for the 14th time since 1916.

Twice before Keyser has reached the semi-finals, losing to Elkins 18-16 in 1928 and to Wheeling 23-21 in 1929. In 1944, Keyser's last trip to the state tourney, the Mineral Countians were eliminated in the opening round by Beckley. Parsons is the only team from the eastern panhandle to win the state title and that was in 1934. Keyser won the "B" crown in 1923.

Westmont High of Johnstown, which split even with Allegany during the current season, won the District No. 6 title in Pennsylvania by defeating Altoona High, 60-46. Somerset, which dropped two games to AHS, then annexed the District No. 5 title by beating Bedford, was eliminated by Duquesne High, District No. 7 titleholder, 65-22. Westmont and Duquesne will clash tonight at the Pitt stadium.

The Romney team of the Bi-State Baseball League will be known as the Rockets this year and will be co-sponsored by the V.F.W., Loyal Order of Moose and American Legion. Ralph Dusic will manage the team and Ellis Patterson will be captain. Romney launches its league season in Lonaconing, Sunday, April 27.

W. G. Douglas, trainer, scored three victories with the first four 2-year-olds he sent to the post at Hialeah this season.

Russia has become a member of soccer's international government body, and Soviet teams may make world tours in the future.

Keyser High Upsets Princeton, 48 To 40

4,000 Fans See Golden Tornado Conquer Tigers

Tommy Quinn's Goal Breaks 38-38 Tie

By CHARLES ARMENTROUT

MOUNTAINEER FIELD HOUSE, MORGANTOWN, W. Va., March 20 (AP)—An overlooked Keyser five upset Princeton 48-40, and Huntington East outraced Weirton 49-43 today to open the 34th annual West Virginia high school basketball tournament before 4,000 fans.

The Golden Tornado from the Eastern Panhandle trailed until the middle of the second quarter, then surprised the Tigers by rushing ahead on Billy Jones' long shot.

Out in front 19-18 at this point, Keyser started to clinch its hard-earned victory as Freddie Blamer tossed in one and came right back with a foul.

Keyser Leads At Half 24-19

Bill Likenhoker made a foul for Princeton, but Don Horner and Blamer hit for goals in quick succession and Keyser went in to rest at the half leading, 24-19.

The underdog loving crowd sensed a sure thing in the making for Coach Fred Clark's team as they roared into the third with Blamer dumping one, Kenneth See goaling two, Jones tossing the fourth while in the meantime Odell Thompson was chalking a lone two-pointer for the Tigers. The score favored Keyser 32-21.

Princeton perked up and started a drive to tie the score in the first minute of the fourth period, 28-28.

Big Odell Thompson, Perry Shrewsbury and Elvin Little turned on their scoring guns. They drew up to a 38-38 deadlock.

Quinn Turns Tide

Then big Tommy Quinn, turning his favorite trick, dribbled right up to the basket and scored to break the tie and put his team out in front to stay.

Carl Repass dropped through a free throw, but the Tigers' hopes fell as Ken See intercepted a pass and laid up a beauty. Seconds later Quinn one-handed a goal and all was lost for Princeton.

Thompson, who bounced them on the rim all through the game, topped Princeton's scoring effort with 14 points. Repass had nine and Little seven. Lineups:

Rens Still Big Favorites On Court After Many Years Of Play For Pay

Central Press Sports Editor

One of the most spectacular basketball teams ever organized, the New York Rens, is still packing in the customers night after night in city after city, although this is the 25th season the famous Negro team has been plying its trade.

The Rens, short for Renaissance Club, are a professional team, although they play in no league, compete in exhibition games and also enter tournaments where cash money is put up as prizes.

Although most of the players jumped right off the high school courts to win places on the team, the Rens are wonderful shotmakers but above all, sensational floor men.

As part of their show, they work the ball down the court in scoring position but instead of shooting for the basket they baffle the opposing team men with their passes, fakes, stunts and speed.

The Rens are about the smoothest ball handlers in the business. They dribble, stop, hand the ball to their opponents and then dodge around them. They place the ball on the floor, daring the opponent to pick it up. They fire passes backwards, under their legs and overhand style. They play baseball on the courts.

Truly masters of the court game, the Rens don't put on their show purely for self-edification. Promoters of basketball carnivals, where they appear, demand they do this although it makes the opposing team look silly.

According to Eric Illidge, the team's coach and manager for the last 23 years, the Rens were organized back in 1921 in New York's Harlem when a dance hall, called the Renaissance Club was built.

It was a social gathering place for the colored people and with gymnasium facilities, the basketball team was formed.

For the first two years the club played as amateurs. The team won so many games and became so much in demand that the club turned professional.

Illidge, who attended New York U., played with that first club.

Each year since the Rens have looked over new players and added stars.

Two veterans on the club are Pudgy Bell, stocky guard and Sonny Woods, ace shooter. Bell has been with the team since 1937 and Woods since 1939. Both were high school stars in New York.

Among the outstanding new men on the squad are Hilton Nathaniel, a high school star in Chicago who played with the Army team overseas in Italy last year. Woods and Jim Ursy, another of the Rens, also played with the Army team.

Other members of the Rens are Ed Younger, former Long Island U. standout; Hillery Brown and Hank DeZonie.

Greatest star the Rens every had was Hilton Slocum, called the "Boy Wonder" when he played with the team many years ago.

The Rens play every night. They travel from town to town in their own bus. They flew out to Los Angeles this season for a two-game series and flew back.

The pay is good. The Rens get between $500 and $1,000 a month to play 40 minutes of basketball each night.

The team's record, of course, is amazing.

Greatest record was established in 1934 when the Rens won 145 games and lost five, 88 of the wins coming in succession.

RENS PLAY AMVETS SUNDAY AT 9 P. M.

The Rens will play the Cumberland Amvets Sunday night at 9 o'clock on SS. Peter and Paul court.

It will be the Amvets' 24th game of the season. The locals have won 15 and lost 8 and have captured their last 14 contests.

Coach "Bobby" Cavanaugh's pros started their current winning streak on Christmas Day when they defeated the House of David.

Former Major League Players Are Missing From Mexican Rosters

MEXICO CITY, March 20, (AP) — Big money players, at least eight of them imported from the United States last year, were notably missing today from the rosters of six Mexican Baseball League clubs which will open the 1947 season March 27.

Max Lanier, who formerly pitched for the St. Louis Cardinals, Lou Klein, second baseman for the Cards before jumping to the Mexican League, Fred Martin, ex-Cardinal pitcher, and Danny Gardella, Ace Adams, Harry Feldman, George Hausmann, and Roy Zimmerman, formerly of the New York Giants, were not included.

The eight players who have been barred from U. S. baseball for their jump to Mexico were reportedly looking for an even longer hop to South American teams.

Although there was no comment from league headquarters, reliable sources said the eight could not agree with baseball boss Jorge Pasquel on salaries.

Eight Maryland Quints Will Play At College Park

Sparrows Point Won 10 League Contests

COLLEGE PARK, Md., March 20 (AP)—Finalists, headed by Allegany High School and Sparrows Point, will clash here Saturday afternoon at the windup of the Maryland scholastic basketball tournament.

Entries compete in four divisions based on the size of schools. The largest, or "A" contenders, are Allegany and Sparrows Point.

The Sparrows Point five fought its way up through the Baltimore County League, where it had a 10-2 record. Later it defeated Catonsville and Glenn Burnie to reach the finalists bracket in the tourney.

Other schools that will tangle here Saturday include Hyattsville against Westminster in the B group; Brunswick against Greenbelt in the C division, and Williamsport against Mt. Rainier in the D unit.

Winners will hold the Western Shore championships for their respective divisions. A separate tourney is fought for the Eastern Shore championship, in which no "A" schools compete.

As for the girls' quintet, Kenwood has already copped the "A" championship while the three other group contestants have yet to clash.

Meeting Saturday will be Bladensburg and Westminster, B, Boonsboro and Greenbelt, C, and Williamsport and Gwynn Park, D.

Fred Hopkins, the trainer who developed Equipoise, is a member of the staff of John Medala, director of safety at Hialeah.

BROTHER DECLAN APPOINTED BASEBALL COACH AT LASALLE

61 Candidates Report To Explorers' Mentor

Brother Declan became baseball coach at LaSalle High School yesterday and the newly appointed mentor greeted 61 candidates for the squad at a classroom get-together at Carroll Hall.

The turnout for baseball was reported to be the largest in the school's history.

Today at Carroll Hall, Brother Declan will look over the battery material and hopes to put the candidates through indoor exercises. Weather permitting, the LaSalle squad plans to hold outdoor workouts at Community Park the latter part of next week. In the meantime, all candidates will work indoors, commencing Monday.

Of the 61 candidates, 13 are veterans from last year's squad. The list includes three seniors, 19 juniors, 20 sophomores and 19 freshmen.

Coached Philly Teams

Brother Declan is completing his first year at LaSalle and is teacher of French, moderator of the sophomore class and moderator of dramatics at the North Centre Street school. He came to the local school from LaSalle College, Philadelphia, where he coached freshman baseball, basketball and football and his teams won several all-Catholic freshmen titles in the City of Brotherly Love. LaSalle College is now a "farm" for the Philadelphia Athletics of the American League. In 1941 Brother Declan coached LaSalle College's ice hockey team which lost only one game to Georgetown. Prior to moving to Philadelphia, Brother Declan was instructor in French at Three Rivers, Canada, for three years.

John J. Long, who was named coach of all sports at LaSalle several months ago, will be unable to handle the reins of the baseball team due to the fact that he is employed by the West Virginia Pulp and Paper Company plant at Luke and arrives in Cumberland too late each evening to be of any help as instructor during the baseball season.

Rider Reinstated

BALTIMORE, March 21 (AP)—The Maryland Racing Commission announced today the restoration of a riding license to John (Jack) Bosley, 3d, a Baltimore steeplechase jockey, who was given an "indefinite" suspension last september.

Roy Worters, former New York American hockey goalie, owns a Toronto inn.

Larkin And Graham Clash In New York

NEW YORK, March 20, (AP) — World Junior Welterweight Champion Tippy Larkin, who was knocked out by one young welterweight in his last local punch-party, tries to hit the win column again tomorrow night in a ten-rounder with another up-and-coming clouter in Madison Square Garden.

Stopped by Charlie Fusari, unbeaten Jersey jolter, in nine rounds five weeks ago, the Garfield (N.J.) veteran this time tangles with Billy Graham, from New York's East Side, who has lost only two fights in 70 trips to the post since he first went into the beak-busting business. Larkin's little-used title is not at stake.

Hyndman Fans Will Manicure Diamond

Persons interested in putting the Hyndman (Pa.) baseball park in shape for the coming season are requested to report there Sunday morning at 8:30 o'clock—with their picks and shovels.

That's the request made by Manager Walter "Pete" Cook, of the Hyndman Firemen of the Bi-State Baseball League.

The mound will be rebuilt and other parts of the field will be manicured.

Cumberland Amvets will open the season at Hyndman on Sunday, April 27.

17 COLLEGES ENTER BOXING TOURNAMENT

MADISON, Wis., March 20. (AP)—Guy M. Sundt, manager of the National Collegiate Athletic Association boxing tournament, said today 17 schools had filed entries for the meet scheduled for the field house here March 27-29.

The host University of Wisconsin, undefeated in five straight dual matches this year, will enter a complete team.

Other entries have been received from Virginia, Penn State, Maryland and South Carolina.

Rube Melton Enters Johns Hopkins Hospital

BALTIMORE, March 20. (AP)—Pitcher Rube Melton of the Brooklyn Dodgers checked in at Johns Hopkins Hospital for an examination today.

Dr. Eugene Bennett, orthopedic surgeon who was to have a look at a bone chip in Melton's elbow, did not indicate when he would examine the ballplayer.

Gord Davidson, sturdy defenseman of the Cleveland Barons in the American Hockey League, is a locomotive fireman in the summer months.

KEEPING UP WITH

HOLLYWOOD

By LOUELLA PARSONS

HOLLYWOOD, March 19—When Lana Turner came to see me a few days ago, she was moaning that M.G.M. had no movie ready for her. Weep no more, my lady—you start work immediately in "Cass Timberlane" with Spencer Tracy.

Diana Lynn

This puts us right back where we started from, for Lana and Spence were the first names mentioned for Sinclair Lewis' widely read book. But since the day we first printed that producer Arthur Hornblow had chosen Lana and Spence everybody from Jimmy Durante and Joan Davis have also been rumored for the leads.

To mention just a few who have been up for Jinny, the charmer who leads a staid judge around by a nose ring — there were Jennifer Jones, Ava Gardner, Deborah Kerr, Marie MacDonald and a half-dozen others.

Well, I promise Lana will have all the charms of Jinny, plus some she never had.

My best peeping eye at the keyhole has disclosed some highly interesting news. Pretty red-headed Evelyn Keyes has been borrowed from Cohn at Columbia — Harry, that is, for "Nightmare Alley."

A very good break for the little Keyes girl to play opposite Tyrone Power, 20th's top male star. Evelyn has really been coming up and up since "The Jolson Story," and this won't hurt her.

Celeste Holm gets her wish and will have a chance to bring Zeena, the seeress, to the screen.

When Hal Wallis told me his new find, Wendell Corey, was going to England to co-star on the stage with Margaret Sullavan in "Voice Of The Turtle," I said: "But Margaret isn't going. She told me she wouldn't do it."

That's where Mr. W. was smarter than I. When I called her, Maggie told me she had changed her mind and leaves in June. "I just couldn't resist it," said Margaret. I can't blame her. She played the role so long on Broadway and was so wonderful.

Hal believes that Corey is the next important male star in Hollywood. When he returns from England he goes into "Be Still My Love" with Barbara Stanwyck. Meanwhile, his appearances in the still unreleased "Desert Fury" and "I Walk Alone" will keep the fan fires stoked while he's away.

Chatter in Hollywood: The Alan Youngs, who reconciled briefly, have decided that divorce is the best solution to their matrimonial problems.

Although there have been rumors that Virginia McKurdy, singer on Young's show will be the next Mrs. Young, this has not been verified by the Youngs or the young lady herself. Miss McKurdy is here on a visit.

Could be the happy marriage of Maria Montez and Jean Pierre Aumont set such a good example that their stand-ins, Doreen Mulvey and Bob Bohannon, have decided to say their "I do's." Doreen, of course, works with Maria and Bob with Jean Pierre.

The happy event takes place on the set of "Atlantis," but not until after the picture is finished.

The Racquet Club in Palm Springs, organized originally by Ralph Bellamy and Charles Farrell and now run by Charlie and Virginia Farrell is one of the most successful clubs of its kind in the world, and it's almost impossible to get reservations in season.

Now Charlie's bought a boys school at Catalina and is turning it into a Catalina Rasquet Club. It opens after the Palm Springs season is over.

Boats will take the guests from Wilmington to the club. Be something—won't it—if Catalina, the tourists delight, goes fashionable on us.

Snapshots of Hollywood collected at random: Charlie Chaplin leaves Saturday for New York to take a print of "Monsieur Verdoux" with him. Wonder when the Los Angeles press get a look-see?

That new convertible, all shiny and everything, driven by Alan Jones was given him by the Detroit Civic Light Opera Company for his appearance there in "Firefly."

Andrea King hopes Warner Brothers will relent and let Charlie Einfeld and Harry Sherman see some of her film. It means a good job for her.

There's a lot of talk that Frank Sinatra will play Father Paul in "The Miracle Of The Bells" if a deal can be made with M-G-M.

Joan Blondell and Mike Todd, if you're interested, are heading in our direction.

"Mr. Adam," which couldn't be turned into a movie because of its theme, is being dramatized for the stage in New York with Ezra Stone as director.

Mercy me, what an avalanche of social events. You just can't go to all of them unless you are triplets. Last night, Mary Pickford had a cocktail party for the Harold Brooks and Arnold Grant dined the Hollywood friends of Mr. and Mrs. Toots Shorr at the Bel Air.

Saturday, the John Considines give a party for the Bob Considines. The same night, Eddie Lasker is entertaining for his sister and Dolly Walker is having a dinner for her sister and new brother-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. William Rains. These are just a few of the many, many events.

Dan Duryea and his wife spent the night on the roadside after being caught in a heavy sand storm on their way back from Palm Springs.

Olivia De Havilland has gone to Palm Springs to recuperate from Oscar jitters. Marcus Goodrich went along to recuperate, too.

Just finished reading "Carriage Entrance," by Polan Banks. Polan calls attention to the fact that his first book, "Black Ivory" written in 1927, was given a blurb in my column. Well, here's one for 1947, and a hope he'll sell it to the movies.

Bob Neill and Diana Lynn, as lovey-dovey as ever at Peggy Clearey's "Talk Of The Town." I wouldn't be one bit surprised if Diana marries him.

George Sidney calls attention to the fact that he also has a wonderful mother. I congratulated his dad on 34 years of married life but said not a word about Mrs. Sidney.

That's all today.

Tired Kidneys Often Bring Sleepless Nights
Doctors say your kidneys contain 15 miles of tiny tubes or filters which help to purify the blood and keep you healthy. When they get tired and don't work right in the daytime, many people have to get up nights. Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning sometimes shows there is something wrong with your kidneys or bladder. Don't neglect this condition and lose valuable, restful sleep.
When disorder of kidney function permits poisonous matter to remain in your blood, it may also cause nagging backache, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness.
Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, a stimulant diuretic, used successfully by millions for over 50 years. Doan's give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from your blood. Get Doan's Pills.

Doctor's Discovery FOR FLUSHING KIDNEYS
● Backache, loss of pep, getting up nights, and headache are often caused by nothing more than improper kidney action due to excess acid in the urine. Kidneys are one of Nature's ways of removing impurities from the blood. And when these impurities back up, trouble may start.
So if you have these troubles, give your kidneys and bladder a good flushing out by taking Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root. It works on the kidneys to flush them out, increasing the flow of urine to help relieve that excess acidity and ease that burning when you pass water, helps that bladder irritation that gets you up nights.
Made of 16 herbs, roots, vegetables, and balsams, Swamp-Root is absolutely non-habit forming. Caution: take as directed.
For free trial supply, send to Dept. Z, Kilmer & Co., Inc., Box 1255, Stamford, Conn. Or—get full-sized bottle of Swamp-Root today at your drugstore.

Card of Thanks

We are grateful for the many acts of kindness and helpfulness of our friends and neighbors since our home was destroyed by fire.

MR. AND MRS. LAWRENCE R. GLOVER. 3-21-1t

In Memoriam

In memory of our son and brother, James Robertson, who entered into Eternal Rest three years ago today, March 21, 1944.

In the book of Life there are pages
Filled with memories fond and true
And of those most dear through the ages
Are the beautiful memories of you.
Death came swiftly-like an arrow,
Just three years ago today,
When God took you, dear son and brother
To His Heavenly home to stay.
Do not ask if we don't miss him.
There is such a vacant place.
Oft we think we hear his footsteps,
And can see his smiling face.
Days of sadness still come over us;
Tears in silence often flow;
Memory keeps him ever near us,
Though he left us three years ago.
Memories and treasures none can steal
Death leaves a heartache none can heal
Some have forgotten you now you've gone
But we will always remember, no matter how long.

Sadly missed by his MOTHER, DAD SISTERS, AND BROTHERS.
3-21-1t

In memory of my beloved grandson, Don Laffey, who departed this life four years ago today, March 21st, 1943.
Four years have gone, Dear Don,
Since you did last feel your pain.
The source of sorrow will not stop,
Nor the stream of tears be stayed.
God alone knows how much I've missed you,
Throughout these four years.

His Grandmother,
MRS. JESSIE KALBAUGH.

Mayor Asks Legislature To Act On Bus Situation

Rumors Of New Bus Applicants Denied

As Mayor Thomas S. Post sent telegrams to Allegany County's legislators in Annapolis asking for legislation to authorize the city to take over operation of intra-city bus service, officials of two inter-city bus lines last night denied rumors they intend to file applications with the Public Service Commission to provide local service.

The Potomac Edison Company, whose bus drivers and maintenance men are on strike, operates in Cumberland on an annual permit granted by the Public Service Commission, and that permit expires at midnight March 31. Whether that permit has been renewed could not be learned last night.

There have been rumors to the effect that both the Emery Motor Coach Lines and the Cumberland and Westernport Transit Company would file applications with the PSC for rights to operate bus service in Cumberland, but officials of those two transportation firms declared last night that those reports are "strictly rumor," although one said he might be interested in buying PE equipment.

Adolph Blunk, president of the C. and W. Transit Company, asserted, "I don't know a thing about it. It's just plain rumor. There's no intention on our part of anything like that."

No Base For Rumor

At Martinsburg, W. Va., R. L. Emery, Jr., operator of the Emery Lines, declared, "I don't know a thing about it. There's not a word of truth in it, not a bit." He said there is "no base" for the rumor.

Emery said he would not be interested in PE operation "unless it would be to purchase their property." He added that he has not discussed the matter with PE officials but said he "understands" Potomac Edison has offered its property "to some others."

Meanwhile, there was no indication from Annapolis what action Allegany County legislators intend to take on Mayor Post's telegrams requesting legislation authorizing the city to take over and operate intra-city service.

The identical wires were addressed to Sen. Robert B. Kimble and Delegate Horace P. Whitworth, Jr., chairman of the Allegany County delegation.

Whitworth said last night he had not received the telegram when he left the State House at 4:30 p. m. yesterday. Sen. Kimble could not be contacted and the telephone operator at the State House said he had been ordered to bed by his physician.

The text of the Mayor's telegram follows:

"Because of the refusal of the Potomac Edison Company to arbitrate differences with their employes, there exists in Cumberland an emergency which may, if allowed to continue, become chaotic.

"The Mayor and City Council have, by unanimous vote, passed a resolution asking that the Maryland Legislature provide the authority necessary for the City of Cumberland to take over and operate intra-city bus service.

"In the absence of our city attorney, we ask that you introduce the legislation necessary for this purpose."

Cites Flack's Statements

The Mayor said he decided to send the telegrams on the basis of statements made Wednesday by Dr. Horace B. Flack, head of the Legislative Reference Bureau at Annapolis, who, in reply to queries if the city could take over the transportation system, said there are very broad police powers in some cases affecting health and public welfare which the State may relegate to the various sub-divisions as it sees fit.

Mayor Post said this encouraged him to believe that emergency legislation might be passed in connection with taking over the buses.

While Whitworth had not received his telegram, a copy of it was read to him. He said property cannot be "legislated away without compensation."

Whitworth pointed out that midnight tonight is the deadline for introduction of local bills at the current session of the Legislature.

Bliven Describes Dangers, Benefits Of Atomic Energy

Calls For Study Of Its Potentialities

"The creation of the atom bomb through chain reaction has brought about a 50-50 chance of world destruction and a race between education and disaster," Bruce Bliven, president and editor of "The New Republic", told the Community Forum audience last night at Allegany High School auditorium.

Bliven described briefly the principle of the atomic bomb and explained that its development has brought about great possibilities for advancement in medicine, agriculture, industry and other fields, if it is used intelligently. It also harbors the very imminent danger that the world can blow itself to pieces, if the secret falls into the wrong hands, or is misused, he said.

"We must realize," he declared, "that the world has turned a corner. A new atomic power plant is being built for the purpose of developing atomic energy for use in industry and other fields." Such development, he said, will revolutionize many things common now.

"Atomic Age" Is Here

He explained that scientists claim "a little rise in the price of coal and a little reduction in the cost of atomic power will make coal obsolete and of little use."

Declaring that heads of government are foolish to squabble over oil fields and such things when atomic power will soon render petroleum and its use for power obsolete, he suggested that heads of government should realize a new age, the atomic age, is here, and should direct their thinking along these lines.

People should educate themselves, he stated, on the atomic power theme, and should make themselves heard in every level of government, so the thinking of government leaders will be advanced to the levels of the new era.

Discussing the use of atomic bombs as military weapons, Bliven told his audience that poison gas was not used in the last war because the enemy feared retaliation, and it is quite likely that war may be fought in the future without the use of atomic bombs for much the same reasons. However, he reminded his audience, the threat is there and other nations may develop the secret.

Speaking of the non-military side of the question, he said scientists believe atomic energy or radio-active substance can be used in fertilizer to produce more abundant crops; can be used in treatment of cancer, making radium obsolete; can be used in treatment of blood disease of various kinds; and used in countless ways in manufacturing and transportation.

Use of atomic power will raise the standard of living in all parts of the world, if the use is intelligently applied, because it will lower production costs tremendously. Atomic power can be used anywhere, and is not difficult to transport from place to place, he said.

Gloomy Side Outlined

On the gloomy side of the picture, Bliven outlined the difficult time the United Nations has had in reaching an agreement on atomic control. Russia remains suspicious and objects to inspections. But he predicted she will soon give way to this proposal and will agree to inspections so atomic energy can be used and developed for the good of all.

Bliven said he believes that governments and the heads of governments spend too much time debating over little issues, when the atomic question is so vast and important. He suggested that the United States, for example, say to Russia, "Let's make a package deal and agree that we will not interfere with you and you will not interfere with us. You take no more land or attempt to gobble up no more small countries. We will do likewise. Then we can, say for 10 or 20 years, see whether Democracy and Capitalism work best, or Communism works best."

He said something must be done so that the United States and Russia can get along better. Bliven stated he does not believe there will be a war between these two powers for at least 10 years, because Russia is not ready, but he does believe that trouble will come if some agreement isn't reached.

"Scared To Death"

Bliven said the danger that the development of the bomb has created has aroused the interest of scientists the world over in world

GETS BRONZE STAR—Capt. Thomas Stafford (center), commanding officer of the Army Organized Reserve Corps here, presented the Bronze Star medal to Franklin Burkett (right), Ellerslie, at the meeting of Corriganville Post, American Legion, last night. James H. Thompson, post commander, is looking on as Capt. Stafford makes the presentation. The medal was awarded for valor when Burkett, a corporal, led a patrol across a heavily mined area under heavy enemy mortar and artillery fire to replenish his outfit's ammunition supply. The action took place near Reipertsweiller, France, in March 1945. Burkett served with the Rainbow Division.

Three Suits Filed Against Taxi Cab Firm For Damages

Three damage suits were filed yesterday in Circuit Court against Lee E. Carpenter, trading as the Yellow Top Cab Company. The suits filed by titling, were entered by E. J. Ryan attorney.

Mrs. Amy M. Twigg, according to Ryan, will seek $10,000 damages as the result of an accident last March 23 on North Centre street. She alleges that she suffered severe injuries while crossing the street and a taxi cab backed into her. Her husband, Raymond Twigg, also filed suit, and Ryan said he will seek $5,000 for loss of his wife's services.

Genevieve M. Hose, employed by the R. L. Polk Company in taking a census for a Cumberland city directory, has also filed suit by titling against Carpenter, and Ryan said she would ask $2,000 damages.

The woman claims that she was at the taxicab company office while engaged in taking the census, March 10 this year, when she tripped and fell down some stairs, causing severe injuries about her back. She alleged that a piece of cardboard had been placed over the hole in the floor, and when she stepped on it, her foot went through and she lost her balance.

Mrs. Mary M. Wilson, represented by Morgan C. Harris, has filed suit for an absolute divorce from Charles F. Wilson.

Edward Hare, trading as the Hare Motor Company, for the use of the Atlantic Mutual Fire Insurance Company, has filed suit against Frederick Harrison, said to reside in Virginia, as a result of a motor accident last year.

Hare, represented by William C. Walsh and Thomas B. Finan, seeks $1,166 damages on the contention that Harrison obtained a 1941 model Pontiac sedan, valued at $1,165, from him last November 12, for the purpose of taking a "demonstration ride" to determine whether he wished to purchase the vehicle.

Hare alleged that Harrison, without his knolwedge or consent, allowed William J. Hadra to drive the car and the latter "proceeded to destroy it." The machine was involved in several collisions near the Cumberland airport, Wiley Ford, W. Va., where Harrison had landed his plane after a flight from Virginia to visit relatives here.

Chief Judge Huster has granted an absolute divorce to Mrs. Buena Davis Bittinger, 34, of 146 Polk Street, from Raymond R. Bittinger.

Judge Huster also signed a decree granting a divorce to Gladys Tewell from Ralph Tewell, and giving her the custody of the couple's minor child.

Lloyd Twigg was granted a divorce from Eva E. Twigg and she was given the right to resume her maiden name, Eva Eugenia Luber.

A divorce suit was docketed by Mary M. Wilson, seeking divorce from Charles F. Wilson.

Child Is Reported As Losing Ground

Jimmie Bennett, 3, 17 Fifth Street, who underwent a delicate three-hour brain operation Wednesday night in University Hospital, Baltimore, was reported to have had "a pretty good day" yesterday but the News was advised physicians were "not so well pleased" with his progress last night.

The local boy was placed in an oxygen tent yesterday following the operations performed as his only chance for life after he developed an "expanding skull lesion."

The cause of the condition will not be known until results of laboratory tests are available, the family said.

Man Is Injured When Cars Crash At Intersection

A 19-year-old local youth was treated in Memorial Hospital early last night for possible back injuries suffered in a two-car crash at the intersection of Maryland Avenue and Williams Street.

The injured youth, Russell Laber, 437 South Street, was examined for a back injury and further examination was advised. Laber told hospital attaches he was driving an Independent Vending Company vehicle when the crash occurred.

Officer J. Carl Stouffer, who investigated, preferred careless driving charges against Laber and Henry W. Lewis, Route 2, this city, who police said was the driver of the other vehicle. The drivers were summoned for a hearing in police court tomorrow at 9 a. m.

Gayle Hollen, 5-year-old daughter of Edgar Hollen, a B. and O. worker, was treated in Memorial Hospital yesterday afternoon for a fractured toe. The child was injured when a radiator fell on her foot at her home, 713 Hill Top Drive. Attaches said a cast will be applied today.

Ervin Elliott, 25, 31 Marion Street, a Potomac Edison Company worker, was treated in Memorial Hospital early yesterday morning for injuries on the right side of the face. He said he was struck by a bar about 3 a. m. X-rays of the face, which was bruised and swollen, were taken, attaches said.

Glenn Shaffer, 4-year-old son of Mrs. Maude Shaffer, Corriganville, a Celanese worker, was treated in the same hospital yesterday morning for a lacerated chin. The child was injured when he fell on a piece of lumber at his home.

Rev. W. R. Cremeans Will Speak Here

Rev. Walter R. Cremeans, D.D., general presbyter of the Presbytery of Baltimore, will make an official visit to his end of the Presbytery this weekend, preaching at Southminster Presbyterian Church, the Moffatt Memorial Mission, and the Lonaconing Presbyterian Church. He will conduct a conference on "The New Life Movement" in the Lecture Hall of the First Presbyterian Church, this city, Monday evening at 7:30 o'clock.

This conference is set up for the benefit of all the Presbyterian Churches of this section, Rev. William A. Eisenberger, pastor of First Presbyterian Church, said, and will deal with quickening of the spiritual life of the church. Representatives of the Presbyterian churches of Barton, Lonaconing, Frostburg Barrelville, and the two Presbyterian Churches, this city, will attend.

"The New Life Movement" is being presented and stressed throughout the Presbyterian Church in the U.S.A., Rev. Mr. Eisenberger said.

FM Station Authorized

The Tri-State Broadcasting Company, composed largely of well known Cumberland businessmen, was authorized by the Federal Communications Commission yesterday to operate a new FM (frequency modulation) radio station in Cumberland, according to an Associated Press report.

Rare Operation May Save Woman Stabbed In Heart

Hope for the life of a woman stabbed in a fight over a diamond ring rose last night as the result of a rare operation, while her sister and a male companion were being held in an Oakland Jail, State Police said.

State Police said Gladys Marie Grapes, 28, Bloomington, and Charles F. Davis, Marietta, Ohio, were being held after questioning by Garrett County States Attorney Walter Dawson pending the outcome of a heart wound suffered by Mrs. Lena Grapes McDonald, 23, Bloomington.

Mrs. McDonald, a patient in Potomac Valley Hospital, Keyser, W. Va., was reported still in "critical but satisfactory" condition, by attaches, who said a rare operation was probably responsible for saving her life.

Stabbed At Party

Mrs. McDonald, according to police, was stabbed by her sister at a house party at the home of Howard Hose, 45, near the West Virginia Pulp and Paper Company Plant, Luke, early yesterday morning.

Police said Mrs. McDonald had passed a diamond ring which was given her as a Christmas present, around for several of the guests to see, and later Davis refused to return it.

The sister, Miss Grapes, and Davis began to fight over the ring and the woman "produced a pocket knife," police said. Mrs. McDonald attempted to step in the way of the knife and was stabbed, police declared.

The injured woman was first taken to Reeves Clinic, Westernport, where first aid was administered and then removed to Potomac Valley Hospital where Dr. Robert Coffman, staff surgeon, assisted by Dr. T. T. Huffman and Dr. W. F. McFarland, performed a thoracotomy and used three stitches to close a heart wound inflicted by the knife.

Hospital attaches described the operation, which required "cutting the chest" as rare and said the woman was very fortunate that Dr. Coffman, one of the few in this area who could perform such an operation, was present.

Dr. Coffman, the attaches said, had seen the operation performed once while he was in the army and yesterday when the victim was brought to the hospital he relied on his experience to repeat the operation.

Five Are Released

A similar operation performed about a year ago "in another section of the country," was mentioned in Ripley's "Believe It Or Not" an attache said as she attempted to prove the rarity.

Five other persons held earlier by Maryland and West Virginia police in connection with the case were released after being questioned by State's Attorney Dawson.

Police said a "drinking party" was in progress at the Hose residence when the stabbing occurred, but declared last night that they still had not recovered the weapon.

Mrs. McDonald told hospital attaches that her sister stabbed her "accidentally."

Spring To Arrive This Morning

Spring, the season of green grass, budding flowers, running brooks and love, will make an official appearance in Cumberland this morning at 6:13 o'clock, but it will be minus the tradftional sunshine if the weatherman is right.

There's no doubt about the arrival of spring, for the wild geese, which have never been known to miss, have started their journey north. In fact, they passed over Cumberland Wednesday morning between 3 and 4 o'clock.

C. G. Holshu, 217 Washnigton Street, reported last night that he heard the birds heading for the northland and said he heard the "honk-honk" of the birds for several minutes as they passed over the city.

The birds have been including Cumberland on their north-bound journey for a good many years now, one oldtimer said, but this year they apparently were blinded by the city lights and flew a little closer to the ground as they passed, because the "honk" could be heard very plainly.

Despite the birds and official arrival of spring, the weatherman gave little hope of a "spring-like" day for the inauguration. He says "considerable cloudiness with little change in temperature," for today.

Delegation Fails To Reach Accord On Liquor Law

Legislators Continue Work On New Act

Allegany County's delegation to the General Assembly, engaged in drawing up a new retail liquor law for the county is having trouble reaching agreement on some of its provisions, the legislators indicated last night.

Horace P. Whitworth, Jr., delegation chairman, said the greatest difficulty has been in reaching accord on board personnel and who shall have the power of appointment of the board.

This was seen as an indication that the personnel of the first liquor control board, which also will appoint the manager of the proposed county-operated wholesale liquor dispensary, will be named by the legislators, with future appointments to be in the hands of either the Governor or the County Commissioners.

Good Board Necessary

While no agreement has been reached, Whitworth said it is vitally necessary "that we have a good board."

No local bills were passed or introduced yesterday in the House or the Senate, but favorable delegation report was given to a measure to increase the salaries of the Mayor and Council of Cumberland and to a bill to set up a managerial district at Bowling Green. Both measures are subject to a referendum.

The local salary bill would increase the pay of the Mayor of Cumberland to $3,600 per year and the councilmen to $2,400, with the provision that they spend at least five hours daily on city work, excepting Sundays and holidays.

The managerial district at Bowling Green would be set up for purposes of taxation in order to obtain street lights and other community improvements.

Garrett School Bill Passes

Yesterday the Senate passed a bill introduced by Sen. Lawrence Fraley, of Garrett County, which would allow the Garrett County Commissioners to borrow up to $1,500,000 for constructing and improving schools. Another measure introduced by Fraley and passed by the Senate would grant the Mayor and Council of Oakland power to provide for retirement pensions for municipal employes.

The Garrett County delegation introduced a measure in the House to provide pensions of not more than $50 per month to school teachers of Garrett County who retired prior to June 1, 1928.

The House passed a Garrett County delegation measure to provide for the notification by the Garrett County treasurer of delinquent property taxes and permit the charging of interest prior to the sale of the property.

Guardsman Gets National Post

Robert J. Herstine, former commander of Algonquin Post No. 2, Legion of Guardsmen, has been appointed aide-de-camp to the national commander of the organization, William Schulman, Jersey City, N. J.

As aide-de-camp, Herstine will act in Maryland as a member of the national council of administration of the Legion of Guardsmen.

Herstine resigned as Algonquin Post commander to accept the national office and has been succeeded in the local post by Charles E. Gilford, former senior vice commander.

With Herstine's appointment to the national position, Algonquin Post becomes the only post in the state to have both a national and two state officers among its membership.

The state officers are James N. Gilford, senior vice commander, and J. W. Beck, junior vice commander.

Light Opposes Civil Service For Collector

Commissioner Myers G. Light, through Mayor Thomas S. Post, sent a telegram to Senator Robert B. Kimble yesterday opposing a bill to place the city tax collector under Civil Service regulations.

Commissioner Light, who has been a patient in Memorial Hospital for over a week, requested Mayor Post to send the wire for him.

Earlier this week Mayor Post said he is also opposed to the bill introduced recently by Kimble, which would put the tax collector under the city merit system but would not change the law applying to the position concerning bond, qualifications and responsibilities of the collector.

Other members of the council have not as yet commented on the measure.

Youth Asserts He Lost $1,200 On 'Tip Boards'

Maryland School System Discussed By Dr. Cromwell

More And Better Teachers Needed

The Maryland school system legally is a very fine one Dr. R. Floyd Cromwell, director of guidance, State of Maryland, asserted in an address on "The Balance Sheet of Maryland Schools", at the meeting of the Kiwanis Club at 12:15 p. m. in Central YMCA.

Dr. Cromwell declared that there are provisions for any number of fine things in education in the Maryland system that are not the general property of other state systems. He added also that an adequate building program and an adequate salary scale for teachers would to a large degree cure what ails the Maryland school system.

In contrasting the assets and liabilities of the state school system, Dr. Cromwell pointed out that the problem of holding youngsters in school will become more important as the age requirement for entrance into the labor market goes up. He said that high schools do not hold enough of the pupils who enter as freshman and that only about 45 out of each 100 who enter high school in Maryland graduate.

Outlines Assets

In outlining the assets of the Maryland system the speaker cited for example the fact that the state system operates as a county unit, which is recognized as the most economical school unit possible in the state. Maryland, he told the Kiwanians, has 24 school boards and 24 school superintendents, while some states with only twice the population have 7,000 school boards and 7,000 superintendents, all of which makes for excessive administrative costs.

Some of the excellent provisions of the Maryland system, as outlined by Dr. Cromwell include 180 days of school for every child, free text books, free transportation, trained teacher in each class room, a minimum of 12 years' free education, and equalization fund which insures every child a minimum program regardless of the wealth of the county in which he lives. Teacher tenure, which takes teacher appointments out of politics, and teacher retirement, which allows teachers to retire when they are no longer effective in the classroom, provided they have reached the age of 60.

On the liability side, Dr. Cromwell said, Maryland has too many small high schools, and these small high schools can offer but one course, the college preparatory course. This means, he stated, that the kind of education received is not too useful to about six out of seven pupils.

Referring to the teaching situation Dr. Cromwell asserted that in 1920 about 22 per cent of all persons entering college throughout the country were planning to teach. That fell to 16 per cent in 1930 and seven per cent in 1940, he said, adding that by 1950 it will probably be only about three.

Need More Teachers

The school system does not get enough teachers and does not get enough who are properly trained and capable of doing a good job in the school room, Dr. Cromwell declared.

Most of the problems of personnel can be boiled down to one fact — a totally inadequate salary scale, Dr. Cromwell asserted. Under present conditions teaching as a career is unable to compete for the services of the promising college graduate against the fields of business and professional opportunities. As a comparision the speaker said that teachers with a college degree entering the Baltimore City Schools now receives $41 per week while garbage collectors in Baltimore get $44.10 per week.

Textile Union Will Discuss New Contract

Further discussion on proposed changes and additions to the contract with the Celanese Corporation of America will be discussed at a regular membership meeting of Local 1874, Textile Workers Union of America, CIO, next Wednesday night at 7:30 o'clock, William Boyd Coleman, president, announced in a notice posted at the union nail.

The union held lengthy discussions on contract termination and a new agreement at meetings held Wednesday night and yesterday morning.

Rossworm Summoned On Gambling Charge

A warrant charging Vitus J. Rossworm, proprietor of the Queen City Cigar Store, 19 North Liberty Street, with maintaining "gaming devices" was served last night after the mother of a 19-year-old youth complained to authorities that her son lost $1,200 "playing tip boards" in the place.

Mrs. Nettie Carithers, 927 Gay Street, said her son, Gene Carithers, veteran of the Navy, and now employed at the Kelly-Springfield Tire Company plant, had lost more that $900 that he saved while in service and approximately $300 more on tip-boards in the Cigar Store during the last eight months.

The mother said her son had been going to the place unknown to her and his father, Young R. Carithers, and had been drawing money from a bank account which she established for him while he was in service. "I thought he was making deposits," she said, "but he was drawing money out."

Appeared Highly Nervous

Tuesday, Mrs. Carithers said, her son came in about noon and appeared highly nervous, and after some questioning he admitted that he had drawn the last of the $900 from the bank that day and lost it "on tip boards" at Rossworm's place.

Mrs. Carithers said she went to the office of the State's Attorney and talked to Mr. Morgan C. Harris, but was told that she would have to return with her son and swear a warrant out in Trial Magistrates Court.

Yesterday at noon, the mother said she and her son went to the office of Magistrate Frank A. Perdew and swore the warrant out charging Rossworm with maintaining the gaming device.

Mrs. Carithers said she visited Rossworm before going to the office of the State's Attorney, adding that the proprietor became rude, and ordered her out of the place, saying "there's nothing you can do about it and get out and do what you want."

County authorities said the warrant was served on Baltimore street about 9 o'clock last night after a deputy sheriff had visited the Cigar Store earlier and was told Rossworm "was out." The authorities said Rossworm had nothing to say when the warrant was given him. He was ordered to appear before Magistrate Perdew this morning at 10 o'clock.

Mrs. Carithers said her son sent the money home while he was in service and she had opened a joint account for herself and son at that time. Since he was discharged last June, she said he has been employed at the Kelly earning an average of $67 a week.

The youth was described as a "good boy" who helped his parents financially, and had never been in any trouble, but his mother said, "I suppose he started hanging around the place and began playing the tip boards with other boys who he runs around with."

She added that she wasn't sure whether the money could be reclaimed or not, but said she hopes her action will prove the bad influence that gambling devices can create for young men, when they are permitted to be placed in public stores.

Colds Cause Decline In Pupil Attendance

Prevalence of colds was listed as the cause of slight increases in absenteeism at Fort Hill and Allegany High Schools during the past two days, with 252 absences reported Wednesday at Fort Hill and 150 absences the same day at Allegany. Slightly more absences were reported yesterday at Fort Hill.

Rumors of an influenza epidemic were discounted by Dr. Joseph P. Franklin, city and county health officer, who said the Health Department has received no reports of such cases. He explained that some victims of so-called "flu" may actually have upper respiratory infections and not true influenza.

Victor D. Heisey, Fort Hill principal, said seven of the 60 teachers were absent due to illness yesterday afternoon, and that five of that number have been out since Tuesday. He said school attendance was below 90 per cent, with 93 per cent the normal attendance ratio.

Ralph R. Webster, Allegany principal, said two of his teachers were absent because of illness, and attributed dropping attendance to the prevalence of colds. Absenteeism is running about 11 per cent of the total attendance, he added.

In contrast, Arthur W. Taylor, principal of Beall High School, Frostburg, said attendance is about normal at that school, although he said that two weeks ago absenteeism increased because of colds. Yesterday's absences totaled 51 out of 800 students, as compared to a daily average of from 30 to 40 absences.

Amvets Name Doak Finance Officer

Robert Doak was unanimously elected finance officer of J. Louis Wolford Post No. 1, Amvets at a special election held last night to fill the vacancy created by the resignation of Joseph Mackert, according to William B. Orndorff, adjutant.

Joseph Harvey and John Groovey were also elected to serve on the executive committee to fill vacancies created by the resignation of Mackert and Homer Higgins. Arthur Schusterman and Glenn Reel were the defeated candidates.

Following the special election, Clarence McCoy, Washington, D. C. field representative of the Amvets, installed the new officers, including Norman G. Gerdeman as post commander and Orndorff as adjutant.

Announcement was made at the meeting that veterans in Frostburg have made application for a charter for a post there.

Group Endorses Bill On Sanitary District

At a public meeting in Frostburg City Hall last night, 55 persons representing 12 organizations and several towns in the county, passed resolution urging the legislature to pass the proposed Sanitary District measure.

J. Milton Dick, chairman of the group sponsoring the bill said that citizens were present from Frostburg, Westernport, Mt. Savage, Corriganville, Cresaptown, LaVale, Cumberland and Midland. Organizations included labor, veteran, service and civic clubs and members of several volunteer fire companies.

The measure under discussion would provide for the setting up of sanitary districts within the county, but Dick said members of the delegation want to amend the bill and attach a referendum. The group last night urged passage, "as is", Dick explained.

Piedmont Man Found Lying Along Tracks

A man identified as Melville White, 37, Piedmont, W. Va., was admitted to Potomac Valley Hospital, Keyser, W. Va., last night at 7 o'clock after he was found lying near the B. and O. Railroad track at the water box in Piedmont.

Hospital attaches said the man, who was semi-conscious when discovered, was suffering from a head laceration but reported his condition "good" late last night. They said he apparently fell and struck his head on the track.

Deadline For Entries In Hobby, Antique Show To Be March 25

77 Exhibits Are Planned To Date

Announcing that 77 entries have been made to date in the hobby and antique show to be held March 27 through 30 at SS. Peter and Paul Hall, Fayette Street, Holmes H. Cessna said last night that next Tuesday, March 25, will be the deadline for entries.

Cessna is a member of the committee of the Western Maryland Coin Club which is making arrangements for the event.

Three window displays are being arranged for next week at the Liberty Trust Company, Schwarzenbach's and the Potomac Edison Company, featuring guns, old pictures of Cumberland, and old Confederate and state currency.

The Allegany High School Junior Coin Club, which is sponsored by the Western Maryland Coin Club, will have charge of the coin ex-

Labor Conference Backs Local Bus Drivers

Delegates to the Western Maryland Labor Unity Conference last night promised to provide voluntary contributions in case the strike of Local 1110, Bus Drivers Union, continues for any length of time.

All labor unions of the county, the conference reported, are solidly backing the Bus Drivers Union.

Additional plans for a mass meeting on the legislative program and reduction of the cost of living will be made at a meeting of the council's legislative committee this week.

Opera Cancelled Here As Members Of Company Strike Against Show

A public display of "artistic temperament", on the part of several members of the New York Civic Opera Company, on North Liberty Street yesterday morning, brought roars of laughter to scores of spectators.

The situation was, however, far from amusing to members of Henry Hart Post No. 1411, Veterans of Foreign Wars, who were sponsoring the company's appearance in "La Traviata" last night, and "Carmen" this afternoon and tonight at the Fort Hill High School auditorium.

Members of the company arrived in Cumberland by bus about 1:30 a. m. yesterday, and when William Reutemann the managing director went to the Fort Cumberland to inquire about reservations he was told none had been made. He asked for his advance agent and was told his advance agent had not put in an appearance.

When the company had to spend the night in their buses after traveling several hundred miles to fill the local engagement, everything that had happened on the current tour seemed to come to a climax on the street here, and members of the company staged a strike against the director.

Demand Back Pay

There were charges and counter charges. Members of the corps de ballet said they hadn't been paid. Reutemann said he was disciplining them and would fire them when he got to New York. Musicians stated they have been paid regularly and had no grievance, except a place to sleep, and since Reutemann had not made reservations and didn't know where his advance agent was they were disgusted too. Some of them took trains to New York.
